JUSTICES SHOW CLEAVAGE OVER LEGALITY OF TVA

Power Issue Argued in Supreme Court.

Four Laws at Stake

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Four New Deal laws will be in the hands of the Supreme court tomorrow night with decisions on their constitutionality expected early next year.

They are: AAA processing taxes, the Bankhead act for compulsory cotton production control, amendments to the AAA barring injunctions against taxes, and the TVA.

Last term the court approved the administration's revaluation of gold in a 5-4 ruling but outlawed NRA codes and "hot oil" control under a section of NRA. The original Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium and railroad pension acts, which President Roosevelt signed with reservations, also were outlawed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Justices of the Supreme court displayed decided differences of opinion in their questioning of attorneys as arguments were presented today for and against the New Deal's great electric power experiment—the Tennessee Valley authority.

Observers rash enough to attempt to forecast the decisions of the usually unpredictable high court reasoned that a divided opinion on the constitutionality of the TVA was probable, judging from the attitudes disclosed by the justices in their remarks at the lively four hour session.

The three "liberals," Justices Louis D. Brandeis, Benjamin Cardozo, and Harlan F. Stone, indicated they believed the TVA a justifiable step in governmental procedure under a broad interpretation of the constitution.

Four Criticize Experiment.

Four "conservatives," James C. McReynolds, Pierce Butler, Willis Van Devanter, and George Sutherland, openly criticized the experiment as the entering of the government into direct competition with private industry to the detriment of the latter.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, although he took an active part in the discussion, revealed no hint of his opinion of the validity of the authority. Owen J. Roberts, sometimes referred to as the "mystery man" of the nine, was the only justice who did not speak during the session.

If the attitudes of the other seven were correctly gauged, the fate of the TVA rests upon the opinions of Hughes and Roberts, attorneys decided.

Challenge "Damage" Ground.

Another possibility was that the challenge of the authority's legality might be thrown out on technical grounds. Justice Brandeis led a spirited questioning of Attorney Forney Johnston which hinted that the complainants had no standing in court because they had not shown that they had suffered "irreparable damage" as a result of the TVA, a necessity in the bringing of a suit in equity.

The petitioners were preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power company. Justice Brandeis asked Johnston if he could cite any case in which preferred stockholders had proved their right to bring such a suit, and the lawyer was unable to find any such precedent.

The justices, who have displayed almost unprecedented activity in all these arguments regarding New Deal legislation, lost little time today in interrupting the attorneys' arguments.

Hughes Stems Oration.

Johnston was allowed to proceed for a few minutes in the usual Supreme court style of attorneys, dressing up his arguments with Latin phrases and references to legal precedents, when Chief Justice Hughes interrupted him.

"What is the precise nature of this challenge?" he inquired, in a "let's get down to business" tone. "Tell us just how the TVA violates the constitution."

"We challenge the authority of the government to manufacture and sell electricity for nongovernmental purposes," the attorney answered. "The TVA program represents the entry of the United States into an experiment

BORAH TO ENTER WISCONSIN RACE FOR DELEGATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah tonight announced that he had permitted his name to be entered in the presidential primary in Wisconsin as "a liberal Republican" candidate and that he would not oppose a similar movement in any other state. It was, in effect, his announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination.

Republican political circles had been jittery for weeks awaiting some such decision by the hesitant Idaho senator. It came finally after a delegation from Wisconsin had visited him yesterday and again today and urged him to head a ticket of delegates to the Republican convention pledged to Borah and the policies which he advocates.

Consents to Program.

Borah told the delegation, led by State Senator Philip Nelson and former State Senator Bernhard Gettelman, that they might work for a delegation to the convention pledged to vote for the senator for the presidential nomination. They could place his name at the head of the ticket with his approval, he said.

Questioned tonight concerning this move, he declared:

"I am going to do whatever I can to get liberal delegations from any state to the convention. If the leaders in these states want to put my name—or any other name—at the head of the slate, that is all right with me.

"I want to assist in Wisconsin, as in any other state where liberals are fighting for delegations to the convention. If they want to put my name at the head of the ticket, that satisfies me if they think that is the best thing to do."

Keynote Speech Recalled.

Twelve days ago, Borah struck the keynote of his bid for the Republican nomination in a speech in which he called for liberation of the nation not only from the political dictatorship of the New Deal, but from the economic dictatorship of big business. That speech drew approval from progressively minded Republicans such as Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader of the senate, and partial commendation from conservative Republicans who applauded Borah's criticism of the New Deal, but frowned upon his assertion that monopolies flourished under the Republican régime and caused a maladjustment of purchasing power that brought about the depression.

Politicians said at that time that Borah apparently intended to take a middle ground in his candidacy between the New Deal of Roosevelt and the new era of Hoover and the old guard Republican leadership to which he is no less hostile than to the former President.

La Follette's 'Aid' Bid Seen.

By starting his primary fight in Wisconsin, Borah apparently is making a bid for the support of the La Follettes, whose war on monopoly has long been their chief pursuit.

Friends of Borah are convinced he can win the national convention delegates in the Dakotas and all the mountain and Pacific coast states. In addition, they assert, he would have an excellent chance of carrying the

WELL, JOHN, YOU FINALLY GOT HIM STARTED

New Mystery in Oak Park's Water Inquiry

The great Oak Park water mystery became more worthy of the name last night with developments that gave it the thing any worthwhile mystery must have—a balanced plot.

The puzzle up until late last night had concerned the supposed disappearance of about 1,500,000 gallons of water a day for which Oak Park paid the city of Chicago and which, it was rumored, had never reached the suburb. Then Village Controler T. R. Leth of Oak Park reported that what the meters really showed was that in 22 months Chicago had furnished 600,000,000 gallons of water free to the suburb.

Accept Meyers' Resignation.

The one thing that stood out clearly in the mystery last night was that the resignation of Dudley C. Meyers as commissioner of public works for the village had been accepted. Mr. Meyers tendered it last Monday, but it was not accepted by the village board at its meeting that night.

Last night, however, at the end of a secret session, the board announced it had acted and that Marshall Dutton, who has been assistant to Mr. Meyers, had been appointed acting commissioner. The board members said also they regretted that Mr. Meyers "had been implicated in the story by the public press in the alleged water controversy."

The Vagarious Meters.

James A. Howe, village president, declined to elaborate on this and many Oak Parkers and practically all Chicagoans are still mystified by the vagaries of the meters maintained [1] by Oak Park and [2] by the city of Chicago.

Oak Park purchases its water wholesale from Chicago at the rate of 7 cents a thousand gallons and resells it to the suburb's residents at 18 cents a thousand. A proposal to increase the retail rate to 27 cents a thousand was defeated last night by the board.

The suburb's water works is under the jurisdiction of the commissioner of public works. The water flows from Chicago, the wholesaler, to Oak Park, the retailer, at Austin avenue. There Chicago has five meters to measure what it sells and Oak Park maintains five to measure what it buys.

That somebody's meters had gone wrong was discovered rather recently. On Dec. 5 Mr. Meyers was asked by Controler Leth to explain why Oak Park figures didn't agree with Chicago's.

Later President Howe announced that great inefficiency had been discovered in the water department. Somehow—the method has not been disclosed even yet—it became noised about that Oak Park had paid Chicago about $73,000 for 1,500,000 gallons more than was being received daily.

Then came Mr. Leth's statement that the Oak Park meters or the Chicago meters—take your choice—had been maligned.

SCHALL IS CRITICALLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR NEAR CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 20 [Friday].—(AP)—Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.], who was struck by an automobile on a heavily traveled highway near here last night and injured critically, was in a grave condition early today.

The senator, blind for years, an outspoken critic of the New Deal, still was unconscious when Dr. J. Rogers Young, hospital superintendent, issued this bulletin:

"The senator's condition remains grave. He still is in an unconscious condition and suffering from a serious head injury. He also suffered a compound fracture of both bones of the left leg."

The blind senator's son, Dick Schall, said his father at the time of the accident was with two Minnesota friends, William Laughlin and H. Berkson, who were to depart for their home.

The party had started by automobile and had halted near the Schall home near Cottage City, Md., where Schall and his secretary, Orel Leen, alighted to enter a store. As they started to cross the street to return an automobile struck both of them. Leen suffered only from shock and bruises.

Police arrested a man they said was L. G. Humphries of Hyattsville, driver of the car, charging him with reckless driving. He was released on his personal bond.

Milne Reveals Kidnap Story; Hideout Found

Doylestown, Pa., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A stammered story of abduction and torture, told by Caleb Milne IV. from a hospital bed, tonight sent the department of justice on a nation-wide hunt for four men he said kidnaped him in New York.

Barely had the youth finished his statement than picked federal agents were checking a ramshackle, two and a half story house near Wrightstown, Pa., which Milne said was the gang's hideout. Descriptions of the abductors were flashed to every government investigating bureau in the country.

Fed Once in Four Days.

Milne, a member of a wealthy Philadelphia family, said he had been fed only once in four days. His right arm was punctured with narcotic needles, his face was slapped, his lips and eyes were plastered shut with tape, his arms were bound.

He was thus abused, he told government operatives, until he was hurled, ill and dazed, from a speeding automobile last night on a road near here.

The youthful actor and mystery writer spoke haltingly to the operatives and stenographer assembled about his bed.

Physicians who ordered the doors barred to all save relatives throughout last night and today said Milne is recovering and that he is ill chiefly because of the shock and exposure. Just how long he lay in the ditch in the chill air investigators were unable to determine.

Flee Without Ransom.

Wrightstown and vicinity were searched by federal agents for traces of the kidnapers.

Near the hideout, they said, they found a hypodermic syringe and two needles, which they believe the kidnapers used to keep Milne in a condition bordering on unconsciousness during the four days and nights he was held.

The agents said they also found several tin cans, recently opened, from which they believe the abductors obtained their food. Milne said he was given food only once during his imprisonment.

Recuperating from exposure and

'Pepe' Genero, Capone Ally, Shot to Death

Joseph [Pepe] Genero, 47 years old, onetime Capone lieutenant who was always ready to turn a few dollars in alcohol peddling, gambling, or conducting houses of ill fame, was shot to death last night by unidentified assailants.

Genero, whose real name was Joseph Annerino, was seated in a tavern at 1543 East 63d street when an automobile, driven slowly west, passed the front window. From this car two men in the rear seat thrust shotguns and pulled the triggers. Their aim was good and the charges, crashing through the glass of the window, struck Genero in the head.

Killers Fire Twice; Drive On.

The high stool on which he was sitting fell to the floor as he toppled backward. Jessie Warner, 32 years old, 6315 Harper avenue, waitress with whom he had been rolling dice, screamed. The bartenders and a few patrons took cover. But only the two shots were fired and the car of the killers was driven rapidly west to Harper avenue and then north.

Genero lived only a few minutes after he was struck.

In 1932 he was shot and wounded while he was conducting a gambling house in Calumet City. He blamed the attack on Black Handers.

Slaying Motive a Mystery.

There was no accepted theory as to why he had been killed. Nor was it made clear what his recent activities had been.

William Krussow, bartender in the saloon, and Miss Warner said that he had been a hangeron there for several months. They added that he seldom drank. Supposedly Genero lived at 6250 Harper avenue and Miss Mary Korran, 28 years old, was taken into custody there for questioning. Miss J. McCarthy, the landlady at that address, said she recently had refused to rent the apartment opposite Genero's to a man and later a red haired girl, both of whom were interested in no other quarters.

Question Four Others.

Later the police raided a house at 11721 Calumet avenue and seized Patsy Clark, 30 years old; Bobby Russell, 24 years old; "Dago" Frank Costello, and Otto Graziano. The police said they had been told Miss Clark had been living with Genero and Miss Korran at the Harper avenue apartment, but Miss Clark denied it. She said she came there frequently and had known Genero for years. The four were being questioned at the detective bureau early today.

Genero was tried in 1927 for the murder of Michael Vinci, a gangster who, on his deathbed, named him as a killer. He was acquitted. In December, 1929, he was indicted on charges of kidnaping in connection with election disorders in the Twentieth ward, but the cases were nol prossed.

HOUSE FORGIVES PEACE BLUNDER PREMIER MADE

Commons Acts to Aid League Again.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The house of commons, after a historic and dramatic session, gave Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and his national government a vote of confidence tonight after Baldwin had thrown himself and his cabinet on its mercy. The prime minister accepted responsibility for the situation which led yesterday to the resignation of Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, and he admitted that indorsement of the Paris peace plan, created by Hoare and Premier Laval of France, was an "error of judgment."

Earlier in the eight hour session Hoare made a 45 minute speech justifying his action in backing the widely condemned scheme to award Italy two-thirds of Ethiopia and so end the war in Africa. He seemingly won the emotional sympathy of the whole house. His voice faltered and he wept as, at the conclusion of his address, he left the session.

Why Plan Was Indorsed.

Baldwin confessed his blunder with an "I did it with my little hatchet" candor. He explained that he and the cabinet had first indorsed the Hoare-Laval proposals, although they did not like them, because the time was short and they did not want to let down their colleague.

"The plan is now absolutely and completely dead, and the government will do nothing to resurrect it," the prime minister promised. "Much harm has been done which it will take time to rectify, but I am determined that such a position will not be possible again.

"We were all responsible. The chief responsibility was mine as prime minister. I decided to support a colleague who was not present to give his reasons or to be examined."

Interrupted by Taunts.

The British cabinet leader was interrupted at intervals by taunts and demands that he also resign and not make a scapegoat of Hoare. Maj. C. R. Attlee, Labor leader, looking at Baldwin across the narrow space from the opposition benches, declared the cabinet responsibility was collective.

"If it is right for Hoare to resign," he cried, "it is right for the whole government to resign."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, attacked Baldwin even more scathingly and suggested he should be impeached.

Voted O. K. 390 to 165.

The last minute decision by the government to "confess all" was held to have obtained the government enough supporters to defeat the Labor motion of censure. The motion was defeated 397 to 165. Lord Winterton's amendment to it, committing the government to follow its campaign pledges and adopt again a policy in support of the league of nations and collective action was then passed by a vote of 390 to 165.

Earlier in the day the house of lords also voted to uphold the cabinet.

Unique and spectacular scenes were afforded in the long and furious parliamentary battle in the commons in which the Baldwin government, with its election triumph only five weeks old, fought for its life.

The galleries of the house were crowded with diplomats and others who could get entrance cards. The prince of Wales appeared in his special seat next to the Russian ambassador. The black bearded Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador, craned his neck over the railing to hear well and winced when he heard the Laborite Hugh Dalton call Mussolini a "lunatic" whose hands are "dripping with a mixture of Ethiopian blood and British oil."

Hoare Hero of Piece.

Hoare, who was condemned as a villain yesterday, turned out to be the hero of the drama today. He got cheers when he came into the house, the marks of a skating accident in Switzerland still on his nose, and took a place on the third row bench between L. S. Amery and Sir Austen Chamberlain, Conservative leader.

The house was tensely quiet as Hoare arose as a private member to defend his part in the peace plan fiasco. He asserted that the proposals were not influenced by fear of Mussolini.

"If the Italians attacked us," he said, "we would retaliate and, judging from past history, we should retaliate with full success.

"What was in our minds, however, was that an isolated attack of this kind, launched on one power without the full support of the other powers, would almost inevitably lead to a dissolution of the league.

Claims France Nervous.

"It must be obvious to every member that the great body of public opinion in France is intensely nervous concerning a breach with Italy and nervous concerning anything likely to weaken the French defense. In view of these facts, I did everything to make a settlement possible.

"The situation has become more acute. I believe we are now entering a much more dangerous phase. I say in all humility, my conscience is clear. It was essential to maintain Anglo-French solidarity. I sincerely believe the course I took was the only course possible in the circumstances."

Hoare said Britain could go no further because this country alone has taken military action in behalf of the league of nations. Britain, he said, would be "out on a limb" if any attack occurred, for no other league member is aiding in the enforcement of sanctions against Italy as an aggressor nation.

"Without active coöperation, collective security is impossible, and without it the league will dissolve," Hoare told the house.

Near Collapse at End of Speech.

Hoare resumed his seat in apparent distress and took a "swig" from his pocket flask. His face was flushed and he seemed about to collapse. There were sympathetic cheers from the house. Chamberlain patted him on the knee and Amery whispered to him.

As Maj. Attlee began his attack on the government with a tribute to Hoare, the latter gathered up his papers. Then, with tears in his eyes, he walked with bowed head across the bar of the house and disappeared into the lobby.

Attlee launched his assault as soon as Hoare had left the house. He impugned the personal honor of Baldwin in throwing Hoare overboard. This brought a retort from Chamberlain that as a result of this remark every member of the national government would now vote for the government.

Attacks "Betrayal of Electorate."

"Hoare should not be the scapegoat," Attlee shouted. "Espousal of these terms is regarded by the people of this country as a betrayal of the electors who supported the government. All over the world shock has been expressed that this country would support terms which encourage violence by allowing an aggressor to profit by wrongdoing and which destroy the whole foundation of the collective security of the league."

Baldwin followed Attlee in the debate. He maintained, first, that he was unaware how far Hoare had gone in the Paris peace making, and, second, he did not realize that the formula was in conflict with the national government's election pledge to stand by the league of nations.

"There was an absence of liaison during that Sunday [when Hoare was in Paris] and we were not aware until we heard it was accomplished that the agreement was reached," Baldwin admitted. "I received a letter from Hoare Monday morning urging the cabinet to indorse what he had done. Almost immediately, and before we had time to study the document, a leakage took place. I can see, looking back, I ought to have fetched Sir Samuel back from Switzerland at any cost."

Baldwin blamed Europe's secret "gadabout" diplomacy system for bringing about the situation.

"I hope other governments will profit from this lesson," he said.

Perhaps the chief revelation made by Baldwin, however, was that he fears sanctions will involve England with Germany.

Warns of Noncoöperation.

"If by adherence to the league we find ourselves doing alone what ought to be done by every one," he warned, "this is the last time we will allow a government to commit itself with regard to collective security, for the next time the field [for sanctions] may be nearer home than the Mediterranean."

Sinclair launched the worst attack of all on Baldwin, demanding that he shoulder major responsibility for the blunder. After a short crossfire of attacks from lesser members, Dalton, former Labor undersecretary of foreign affairs, pitched into Baldwin and his cabinet with epithets of "insincerity" and "bad faith."

"What about oil sanctions," he demanded. "Are they going on? And what about reports that another deal is on between London, Rome, Paris, and Berlin to form a directorate among themselves to dominate the league?"

The upshot of the debate is that existing sanctions against Italy will continue and that new gestures to apply oil sanctions may now be made. Baldwin promised that he would stop sending his foreign ministers to the continent to deal with continental foreign ministers, but would instead work through ambassadors.

Britain was still without a foreign secretary tonight with the dials pointing strongly to Austen Chamberlain, at least temporarily. It was suggested that Hoare's departure would not be for long; that Hoare will take a three months' vacation, then possibly be called back to the cabinet.

The speculation also was heard in post-mortems that Baldwin's days are numbered. There were rumors that Baldwin will soon give up his office, but his friends say these are inaccurate.

French Deputies Approve Budget; Ready to Oust Laval

PARIS, Dec. 19.—(AP)—France's 1936 budget was approved by the chamber of deputies tonight, clearing the way for possible overthrow of the Laval government over the Anglo-French plan for peace in Africa.

Totaling 40,431,074,137 francs [about $2,600,000,000], it is France's first paper balanced budget in years and it now faces senate approval.

The ordinary budget voted tonight was in addition to a 6 billion franc extraordinary arms appropriation adopted last week.

See Laval's Fall Certain.

Parliamentary circles said that with the budget safely voted, assuring the franc of safety against revaluation, Premier Laval's fall is almost certain to result from his agreement with Sir Samuel Hoare, outgoing British foreign secretary, on the discarded peace plan.

Officials declined to comment on Hoare's speech in the British house of commons today, but persons close to the foreign office expressed fear Premier Mussolini might regard Hoare's reference to a possible Italian attack as a challenge.

Some political circles expected Laval to offer his resignation to President Lebrun upon his return from Geneva, but said the president undoubtedly would urge Laval to go before the chamber of deputies for a showdown on a vote of confidence. He may do this Dec. 24, although a debate on foreign affairs is not scheduled until Dec. 27.

A new tone of solemnity toward Premier Mussolini appeared in the press and he was warned against incurring further "reprobation."

The conservative Le Temps accused Il Duce of "diplomatic errors." It would be vain, the newspaper warned, for France to attempt to go farther than the Laval-Hoare plan in fulfilling the task of conciliation.

Herriot May Resign.

Although former Premier Edouard Herriot resigned last night as leader of the Radical Socialist party in order to remain in the cabinet, it was said in chamber lobbies that he might eventually resign as minister of state.

"It is no secret that Herriot would prefer a firmer foreign policy," said Andre Cornu, a member of the Radical Socialist party, which holds the balance of power in the chamber.

Control of the party, following Herriot's resignation as leader, may pass to Edouard Daladier, an anti-Laval leader, it was said by deputies.

VATICAN BLAMES NAZIS FOR REPORT OF AID TO IL DUCE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, blamed French communism and German Nazilism today for reports that the church is financing Premier Mussolini's war in Ethiopia.

It said "a union of extremes" has been achieved in this "common odium" for the church.

Charges that the Vatican directly contributed to the fascist war chest and is using its exchange immunities for Mussolini's benefit were called "base and groundless."

BOYCOTT OF ITALY GOES ON; PEACE PLAN IS BURIED

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 19.—The league of nations today buried the Franco-British peace plan, postponed discussion of an oil embargo to an indefinite future, and prepared to settle down for a winter in the trenches in its economic war with Benito Mussolini.

As the two day meeting of the league council broke up it was evident that neither the fundamentalists, who want 100 per cent application of sanctions, even if it means war, nor the "realists," who are willing to scrap the covenant in order to have peace, had gained a decisive victory.

Fundamentalists Score 2 Points.

The fundamentalists scored two important points. They are as follows:

1. The council in its brief public meeting this afternoon killed the Paris plan in its present form by declaring it was not necessary to express an opinion on it. It placed future peace negotiations, if any, in the hands of the committee of 13—the council, minus Italy—instead of renewing the mandate of France and Great Britain, which had offered to give Italy about two-thirds of Ethiopia.

2. The committee of 18—the sanctions board of strategy—in an equally brief meeting laid down the principle that the negotiations should not interfere with the economic boycott against Italy. It authorized its president, Dr. Augustade Vasconcellos of Portugal, to keep in touch with the chairman of the committee of 13—Salvador Madariaga of Spain—with a view to selecting the right moment to convoke the committee in order to vote an oil embargo. It is expected the meeting will be called the middle of January, but that does not necessarily mean the embargo will be voted at that time.

What Realists Gained.

On the other hand the realistic school headed by Premier Pierre Laval of France gained two points no less important:

1. Indefinite postponement of the oil embargo—even the date of meeting to discuss it was not fixed.

2. Although the peace plan is buried, it was not publicly condemned. This was mainly to save Laval's face by enabling him to make the French public believe the plan really is not dead, but has a certain psychological importance for the league as a whole.

This double result of the council meeting cannot be described as a compromise but rather as a deadlock. It is very likely the deadlock will last all winter. Every attempt to stiffen the sanctions is almost certain to be frustrated by the conservative cliques which really hold the power in Britain and France. But events of the last ten days have shown that while they are strong enough to prostrate any policy contrary to theirs, they are not strong enough to force their own policy against public opinion.

See Decision Outside Geneva.

For many months to come any attempt to negotiate a settlement like the Paris plan, which violates the covenant, is virtually certain to meet the same fate.

The real decision, the best informed opinion here maintains, will come outside Geneva. Many observers believe the most important result of the Paris peace negotiations was to expose with unprecedented clarity the two-faced nature of British and French diplomacy, to say nothing of the league.

The consequences of this exposure were so grave that Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of Britain, although Geneva has every reason to believe he approved Sir Samuel Hoare's policy, had to sacrifice his foreign secretary in an attempt to appease public indignation. It does not seem clear yet that the sacrifice is sufficient and many here are of the opinion the ill-fated peace plan, like a new Tut-Ankh-Amen's curse, will claim many more victims before it has worn itself out.

Laval obviously is in the greatest danger of being the next victim of the curse. Although the French premier is in a better position than Baldwin, because he has his press in hand, his position is none too brilliant. The resignation of Edouard Herriot, a member of Laval's government, as president of the powerful Radical Socialist party, creates the immediate danger of a cabinet crisis.

Political circles in Paris seem inclined to minimize the danger, but Laval himself is worried and pessimistic. Before taking the train back to Paris tonight he told French correspondents, "I suppose now that Hoare has resigned, there is nothing for me to do but pack my bag."

DUCE SETS ASIDE $80,000,000 FOR WAR FAMILIES

ROME, Dec. 20 [Friday].—(AP)—Premier Mussolini ordered the appropriation today of an additional 1 billion lire [about $80,000,000] to help soldiers and their families.

The sum also includes funds for new civil and military colonial extension, for "extraordinary expenses" and loans in the colonies.

ETHIOPIAN CHIEF REPORTS MAJOR ITALIAN DEFEAT

Claims Foe in Disorderly Retreat Near Aksum.

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Claims that Italian forces had fled the Takkaze river front "in great disorder, leaving the battle field strewn with dead," were dispatched to Emperor Haile Selassie today by Dedjazmatch Ayale, commander of the Ethiopian army on the left bank of the stream.

[The report was at sharp variance with Italian claims of victory both on the Takkaze front and south of Makale.]

Ayale reported the conflict occurred near the holy city of Aksum, now in Italian hands, and declared: "I defeated the Italians in a major engagement."

Retreat Order Rescinded.

The emperor, who is at Dessye, relayed Ayale's dispatch to the capital. A high official said the Negus, while standing on his order against Ethiopian offensives, had rescinded his command for a strategic retreat of the northern armies.

On the southern front, strong columns of warriors were reported moving south from Sasa Baneh and Anele, toward Italian positions.

Report 1,300 Killed.

ASMARA, Eritrea, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Machine gunning war planes were reported pursuing fleeing Ethiopians below Makale today, after Italian troops had repulsed enemy attacks on two fronts.

Fascist officers said Ethiopians had been driven back south of Makale by heavy machine gun fire. The officers said they counted over 1,000 bodies of Ethiopian soldiers on the battle field. Italian losses were put at 272. The attack came just after a fierce assault from the tribesmen on the Takkaze river front, and strategists believed it was timed with the hope of profiting from a diversion of the Makale defenders.

Last reports from the Takkaze sector said the Italians believed the surviving Ethiopians were facing decimation at the hands of surrounding Fascist forces. An Italian retreat drew enemy forces estimated at 30,000 into Dembe Guina pass, where Fascist machine guns raked them from the two ridges.

BABY'S ARRIVAL IS SURPRISE EVEN TO HER MOTHER

Mrs. Walter Gultling, 27 years old, 58 East Walton place, complained of a pain yesterday. Her husband diagnosed it as either indigestion or appendix trouble and hurried out for medicine or a doctor.

When he returned with medicine he discovered to his astonishment that he had become a father. His wife had a seven pound eight ounce baby girl in her arms. Dr. O. G. Stark, 4 West Ontario street, was hurriedly summoned and took the mother and child to Henrotin hospital where both were reported to be "doing well."

Mrs. Gultling said that she had been putting on weight recently but did not realize she was about to become a mother. Dr. Stark said that such a case was possible although it is rare in medical annals.

Ethiopia Deplores Peace Bid in Notes to Britain, France

EX-CONVICT GETS YEAR; DEFRAUDED A BLIND MAN

CRIMINAL COURT.

Jack Ryan, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Denis J. Normoyle.

Roy Hanning, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius Harrington.

Renealdo Petrocci and Joseph Javanovich, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell by Judge John C. Lewe.

Judge Eugene J. Holland in South State street court yesterday sentenced Louis Rosenberg, 76 years old, 6959 Paxton avenue, to one year in the bridewell and fined him $2,000 on charges of taking money from a blind man on false pretense. Rosenberg is an ex-convict with a criminal record dating to 1908.

Frank Kremm, 69 years old, 3517 South Wells street, the blind man, was led into court. He said Rosenberg had been treating his eyes and told him he could restore his sight. He testified he gave $47.50 to Rosenberg Oct. 30 to pay two tax bills, received the bills back in the mail the next day marked paid, and several days later received notices from the county treasurer's office that the bills were past due. Rosenberg admitted on the witness stand he had spent the money.

Rosenberg's record disclosed convictions for larceny, confidence games, false pretense, and violation of the optician's license law.

LINDQUIST AND KARATZ GUILTY; BOTH TO PRISON

Gustav Lindquist, former insurance commissioner of Minnesota, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul lawyer, were convicted early today of conspiracy to gain control of and loot the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, Ill. The verdict of guilty was returned shortly after midnight by a jury in Judge Joseph Burke's Criminal court.

Judge Burke sentenced both men to the penitentiary for one to five years and fined each one $1,000. The case went to the jury at 10 p. m. after a three weeks' trial.

The state charged that both men conspired with Joseph Baiata, former banker, to gain control of the insurance company and loot it. Baiata is now serving a prison term for embezzling $54,473 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank of Chicago. A portion of this money, the state contended, was to be used to buy an option on the insurance company.

Dave Barry, prize fight referee, was convicted with Baiata and Karatz in the alleged bank plot, but Barry and Karata have appealed their convictions.

U. S. JUDGE HEARS HOW BANKRUPTCY 'BIRD DOGS' WORK

High Pressure Solicitation of 77-B Cases Told.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

J. Percy Ball, a veteran of various high pressure real estate sales campaigns, told Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday how he drilled a similar organization of salesmen to solicit property holders for the reorganization of their properties under the 77B amendment to the bankruptcy statutes.

Judge Barnes has been conducting an investigation of 77B cases for several weeks. Recently District Attorney Michael L. Igoe announced that he would assign an assistant to observe the proceedings, with a view to starting a grand jury investigation if violations of the bankruptcy statute are indicated.

Office Adjoins Williams'.

Ball was "organization manager" for Rutherford and Harding, a real estate concern which had headquarters in the Bankers building, 105 West Adams street. The hall where Ball staged his pep meetings was next to the office of Charles A. Williams, a former Circuit judge, who filed the 77B cases which the organization recruited. Williams is not to be confused with Judge Charles A. Williams of the Superior court.

Ball testified that 35 to 40 sales agents, men and women, worked under him. They were what is known in real estate sales parlance as "bird dogs," bringing prospects into the headquarters for "closing" by executives of the concern.

"How did that differ from high pressure selling?" asked Judge Barnes.

"They merely asked the people to come in," replied Ball. "Executives of Rutherford and Harding talked to them."

"Too Much Relief," Says Judge.

"And what did they have to sell aside from lawsuits?" demanded Judge Barnes.

"They offered them relief," said Ball.

"There have been too many people relieving bondholders," commented the judge.

Varying stories were told Judge Barnes yesterday regarding the arrangement between Williams, who testified at a previous hearing, and Rutherford and Harding. George Yost, sales manager for the real estate concern, produced a record showing that Williams had paid the concern a total of $9,238.

Yost insisted that when the concern made its first arrangement with Williams to handle the bankruptcy cases which it recruited, Williams had insisted that there be no arrangement which smacked of fee splitting. Rutherford and Harding were interested in the reorganizations so that they might put the properties involved in shape for sale, Yost insisted.

Denies Any Fee Splitting.

He asserted that the payments received from Williams were for preliminary investigations made by his concern, and not split fees. Williams at a previous hearing told the same story, saying that he was merely a collection agent for the real estate concern.

Samuel J. McArthur, 1362 Greenleaf avenue, owner of a flat building which he said was "the only one in Rogers Park which didn't go into receivership," told a different story of the relations between Rutherford and Harding and Williams. The real estate concern solicited him to reorganize a bond issue on his building, and took him to Williams. He agreed to pay approximately $1,600 for the reorganization.

All of this except $375 for establishing contact with bondholders, he said he understood, was Williams' fee. Reading from the records produced by Yost, Attorney James C. Leaton, acting as friend of the court in the proceedings, asked McArthur if he knew that Williams had paid 40 per cent of his fees to Rutherford and Harding. McArthur denied any knowledge or agreement that the real estate concern was to share in the fees.

More About the "Circle."

Attorney Barratt O'Hara, head of the Circle of Rebuilders, an organization of bondholders recruited over radio station WCFL, testified that the Circle collected approximately $24,000 from bondholders in 1934 and 1935. He denied that he referred any bankruptcy cases to lawyers.

He was followed on the witness stand by Max Maslov, 7756 Loomis street, who testified that he owned several apartment buildings. Maslov told a story of going from one set of attorneys to another in an attempt to have his properties reorganized. He paid Williams $250, he said, and Theodore Levin, 134 North La Salle street, $100.

Later, he said, he heard O'Hara speak on the radio and went to his office. O'Hara, he said, instructed a girl in his office to take him to the office of Attorney Charles B. Haffenberg, whose affairs have been under previous investigation by Judge Barnes. Haffenberg agreed to file a 77B petition on his behalf, Maslov said, and collected $250 from him.

Sheep and Shepherds.

Another witness regarding the Circle of Rebuilders was Attorney Sylvester Quindry, 1 North La Salle street, the author of a book on bonds and bondholders. He said that he never heard of the Circle sending clients to lawyers, but added that most of his clients were members of the Circle.

"One of the things this court is primarily interested in," said Judge Barnes, is this: "Did the activities of Mr. O'Hara and the Circle of Rebuilders procure business for lawyers, and if so what lawyers? What impression do you want your testimony to leave with the court?"

After thinking over the question during the noon hour, Quindry told Judge Barnes that he believed he had benefited "indirectly" by O'Hara's efforts.

"But clients were just running around like sheep without a shepherd," Quindry added.

Bondholders Testify.

"You just go through the law directory," Judge Barnes retorted, "and you can find about 5,000 lawyers who have not yet become shepherds."

Bondholders whom Mr. Leaton called as witnesses testified in several instances that they were called to the headquarters of the Circle of Rebuilders and there signed powers of attorney, permitting the starting of 77B actions on properties for which they held bonds, without looking to see what attorney got the power.

AUTO SKIDS INTO PATH OF TRAIN; DRIVER IS KILLED

Woman Dies in Second Crossing Crash.

Paul E. Jensen, 38 years old, 1009 Hanna street, Forest Park, was fatally injured last night when the automobile he was driving was struck at the Harlem avenue crossing by a Westchester elevated line train. He died a few minutes afterward at the Oak Park hospital.

Witnesses told the Forest Park police that Jensen, driving south in Harlem avenue, tried to stop his car as he neared the tracks, but that the tires slipped on the icy pavement, with the result that the car crashed through the lowered guard gates and directly into the path of the approaching train.

Truck Kills Girl, 14.

Anna Abruzino, 14 years old, 1310 West 13th street, was killed yesterday when she was struck by a delivery truck at Blue Island avenue and Roosevelt road while she was doing her Christmas shopping. Her sister, Mrs. Conny Travaglio, 24 years old, of the same address, was slightly injured.

Venn Houston, colored, 25 years old, driver of the truck, was arrested by Maxwell street police, who said he had no chauffeur's license. He was employed by the Blue Island Iron and Metal company, 1247 Blue Island avenue.

Car Hits Train; Woman Dies.

Mrs. Anna Mueller, 32 years old, 2544 Grove street, Blue Island, was killed last night when her husband, George, 33 years old, a salesman, railroad train at 89th street and Ashland avenue. Mueller escaped unhurt.

Dispatches from Sterling, Ill., reported the death last night of the Rev. W. H. Cossum, 72 years old, former pastor of the Ravenswood Baptist church in Chicago. The pastor and Mrs. Cossum were run down by an auto near their home. She was injured. The Rev. Mr. Cossum, who resigned the Chicago pastorate in 1929, had been a missionary to China.

Other deaths during the day from trafic accidents were those of:

Eileen Brann, 5 years old, 6859 Calumet avenue. Died in St. Bernard's hospital early today of injuries suffered Wednesday when she was hit by a truck driven by Joseph Goldman, 33 years old, 8317 Drexel avenue, in front of 347 East 69th street.

John McCranahan, 65 years old, 7939 Yale avenue, a motorman for the Chicago Surface Lines. Died in the Roseland community hospital of injuries incurred Wednesday night when he was struck by an automobile as he descended from his street car at 111th street and Vincennes avenue. The autoist, Frank Donnelly Jr., 23 years old, 10727 South Seeley avenue, was not held.

William Pishzak, 57 years old, 4239 Drexel boulevard, a retired attorney. Injured Wednesday when he was struck by an automobile at 37th place and Michigan avenue.

Ambrose Jennings, colored, 68 years old, 9538 Perry avenue. Died in the county hospital as a result of being struck by an automobile Sept. 2 near his home.

Carl Erzen, 65 years old, 5225 North Clark street, a tailor. Died in Swedish Convenant hospital from injuries incurred Nov. 3 when he was struck by an automobile at Clark street and Foster avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 974 persons had been killed in trafic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, the coroner's office reported. During the same period 759 were killed and 17,136 were injured in the Chicago city limits.

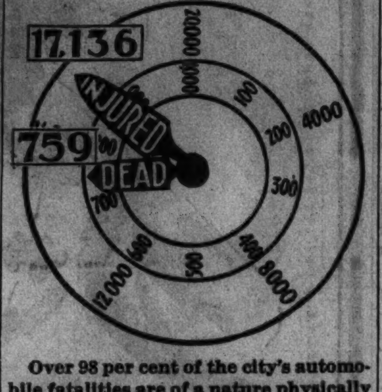
THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Beauty Shops' Suit to Stay State Wage Law Dismissed

Superior Judge Harry B. Miller dismissed for insufficiency yesterday a suit brought in behalf of 15 beauty shop owners seeking an injunction to restrain Martin P. Durkin, state labor director, from enforcing the Illinois minimum wage act in their industry. Attorney S. R. Rabinoff, who filed the suit, charged that the law is unconstitutional as it violates the rights of private contract and confiscates property without due process of law. He was allowed five days in which to file an amended bill.

TURN AWAY 82,721 DURING 1935 FROM COUNTY HOSPITAL

The annual report of the County hospital showed yesterday that 82,721 patients have been denied admittance during 1935 because there was no room for them. Warden Michael Zimmer reported that 25,284 of those turned away were given first aid.

Although the hospital, which cared for 69,891 patients during the year, was built to care for 2,600 patients daily, a daily average of 2,619 was maintained by placing beds in hallways and opening two new floors in the children's ward which provided 190 additional beds.

Warden Zimmer said 6,650 persons died in the hospital during the year.

It's on Christmas morning that we prove to men in general that we didn't let them down in the good opinion they have of us and our neckties. The pattern and color of every tie in the "dollar shop's" collection is very definitely to a man's liking, which reduces to zero the chances of your giving him anything that smacks of "Christmas tie." You will find here brocaded satins that effect all over designs—double warp twills, matelasse and jacquard weaves, mogadors, and moires and many others with a quality rating far better than $1 prepares you for.

Pure Dye

PURE SILK PAJAMAS IN LIGHT AND DARK SOLID COLORS

$5

We've gone into the matter of whether men wear silk pajamas or not before and we hope we've convinced you that they do. They don't buy them themselves, that's left to you, and it's our advice not to disappoint them. That these are pure dye silk at this price will probably be appreciated more by you than whoever gets them. What is of interest to both of you is that they're made to our own specifications which necessitates our being lavishly generous in the amount of silk used and tailoring detail. In brown, yellow, maroon, white, and three shades of blue.

Initialed

AERO LINKS—THEY'RE NEW AND EXCLUSIVE WITH US

$2.50 Pair

If you've ever seen a man's struggle with a cuff link in the morning and wished you could do something to take the fight out of him and the link this is your chance. Give him these links that slip through the buttonholes in a jiffy and you'll accomplish all that, cut minutes of his dressing time, and start him out in a good frame of mind besides. If that isn't anything in your young life give him these rodium plated links anyway. They combine practical worth with novelty and are among the smartest of the latest ideas in cuff links and initials.

Trim

AND COMFORTABLE SLIPPERS WITH HAND TURNED SOLES

$2.95 pair

That matter of the hand-turned soles is something to reckon with—there are a lot of slippers, considerably more expensive than these, that depend on that part of their make-up alone for their success. It distinguishes the poorly made slipper from those that have benefited by the hands of good craftsmen. As to the uppers of these slippers they are soft kid leather and leather lined. Around the collar there is an underlay of silver kid—not enough to worry about, but it adds a well dressed look. In black, brown, blue, red, green, and wine.

White Shirts

THEY'RE AN IDEA YOU'RE LIKELY TO PASS UP AND SHOULDN'T

$2

There are few among us whose shirt supply has reached the point where we can come out and say "don't send shirts." In any event shirts like these at least are never turned down and the reason isn't difficult to find. You see it in the quality of the smooth finish broadcloth. A broadcloth that has an unbeatable reputation for strength, and other qualities that make for wear, good tubbing and good appearance. Collar attached and neckband styles.

Store Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M., and for Your Convenience

A staff of picked men from our regular sales staff are at liberty to go wherever the ideas on your men's list lead them. We believe this roaming method will save your time and patience. A salesman from this special staff who helps you in the selection of neckties can also help you in the selection of shirts, socks, and so on down your list.

ABOVE THE CROWDS . . . up on the ninth floor, the floor above the Men's Grill, to the right as you get off the elevator, we've opened a "private-for-Men-only-shop," well stocked with gifts "for her" . . . these gifts have been selected by our style and fashion experts and assembled together to simplify your selection.

AD MAN SOCKS EX-JUDGE AT DOOR OF COURT

The reason why Harry C. King, 41 years old, 1254 North La Salle street, former University of Iowa football player, planted a few well timed blows on the large and solid frame of former Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson yesterday morning was partly explained a few hours later in a contempt hearing before Judge Roman E. Posanski of Calumet City, who is sitting now in the Circuit court.

The contempt citation was ordered because the fistic encounter occurred at the door of Judge Posanski's courtroom. King, an advertising man, was held in the sherif's lockup until time for the hearing. Answering the citation, King told Judge Posanski that he respected the court and apologized. No contempt, he asserted, was intended.

"Nasty Remark" Brings Wallop.

"I don't care any more about the fact that Erickson broke up my home and has my wife," he added. "But he made a nasty remark to me at the courtroom door and I hit him."

Attorney Harry Goldstein, representing King, put in a verbal oar at this point.

"If I were King," he announced, "I would have slugged Erickson long ago. He was out with the former Mrs. King only a week ago."

Erickson had a retort ready.

"King is deluded," he declared. "I have a wife and son of my own and I did none of the things King charges. My only connection with this is that I was Mrs. King's lawyer several years ago."

Judge Relents; Voids Sentence.

Judge Posanski held King in contempt and ordered him to jail for ten days, but later vacated the sentence and freed the advertising man.

There had been an element of the accidental in the entire encounter. King had been in the nearby courtroom of Superior Judge Walter Stanton to testify in a suit for accounting brought by his former wife, Miss Beatrice Call of 1237 Astor street, against the trustees of a divorce settlement she received in 1929.

Erickson had appeared before Judge Stanton and requested a continuance until the divorcée's attorney, Louis Smith, could be present. He had then gone to Judge Posanski's courtroom, where Attorney Smith was engaged, to report success in the plea for delay. He came face to face with King as he was leaving the court.

CHICAGO'S JEWRY TO JOIN TODAY IN CHANUKAH FETE

Jews of Chicago will take part today in world-wide observances of the 2100th anniversary of their liberation from the tyranny of the Syrian ruler, Antiochus Epiphanes. The celebration is known as Chanukah or the feast of lights and refers in its religious significance to the rededication of the temple after Judas, "the hammerer," and his followers had thrown off the Syrian yoke. Practically all Jewish centers will formally observe the event, while most Jewish homes will burn candles in windows in token of the observance.

HOME LOOTED OF JEWELRY.

Morris Panijel, 4153 Adams street, owner of a used car agency, reported to police yesterday that burglars entered his home Wednesday night while he and his wife, Gertrude, were at a theater and took jewelry valued at $2,500.

John Taylor, 9323 Harper avenue, a painter, reported to Burnside police yesterday that five Spitz pups valued at $50 were stolen from the rear porch of his home while he and his family were away.

WIFE NO. 1 GUEST AT 2D BETROTHAL, HUSBAND ADMITS

She Didn't Scold Me! His Reply to Suit.

Norbert U. Kolb, 42 years old, 6149 North Talman avenue, a contractor, told yesterday in a hearing before Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher how he courted his second wife while he was still married to his first one. He was the principal witness in the $75,000 alienation of affection suit brought by the former wife, Mrs. Ella Kolb, against the present one, Mrs. Gertrude Kolb.

Kolb declared that Ella knew of his attentions to Gertrude and agreed to let him have a divorce if she might keep $20,000 in securities she had taken from their safety vault. He also told of giving an "engagement" party, where he introduced his wife to Gertrude as his sister. "I did that because I didn't want Gertrude to know I was married," he explained.

A Strange Betrothal.

"May our love never die," Kolb testified was his toast at the party as he placed a diamond ring on Gertrude's finger in the presence of his wife. After the party Kolb said he went home with his wife, "but she didn't reprimand me." On several other occasions, Kolb said, he and his wife and Gertrude and her sister went out together, his wife posing as his sister.

Kolb also described his efforts to gain a second husband for Ella by placing an advertisment in a newspaper. There were fifty replies, he declared, as he told how he took her to see the applicants, introducing her as his sister.

First Applicant a Failure.

He recalled that the first man they talked to was named Keller. Ella was not pleased with him, Kolb testified.

"This guy is too short for me," Kolb said his wife told him after the interview. "Besides he's got a couple of kids. I don't think I'd like him."

Concerning their home life, Kolb said that his former wife nagged and quarreled with him from the start of their marriage. "The love I had at home was cold," he declared. "I had to play solitaire from dinner time until I went to bed."

Another Social Gathering.

After Kolb's testimony Mrs. Adelaide Thorne, 602 Gary place, a sister of the first Mrs. Kolb, told of a party which was attended by Kolb, Gertrude and several sisters of the first Mrs. Kolb.

"Gertrude went into the bathroom and he followed her in, locked the door, and stayed for about twenty minutes," she said. "We thought this was funny and it sort of dampened the party."

Another witness told how Kolb donned a pair of pajamas at the party. "He thought he was real cute and we all had a lot of fun," she testified.

MOTORIST TELLS ALL AFTER THE COURT THREATENS HIS WIFE

Joseph Irick, 39 years old, 521 Brompton place, a salesman, quickly withdrew his denials in Municipal court yesterday that he was driving his car at the time it figured in an accident several hours earlier. The reason was that Judge Holland declared he would charge Mrs. Irick—the only other person in the auto—with driving while intoxicated. When Irick admitted that he was the driver, both were put on probation for six months—the wife for using "abusive language" after the accident.

A coroner's jury yesterday absolved Frank W. Cornell, 25 years old, 1201 Hull street, Evanston, of blame in the death of Mrs. Rebecca Goldberg, 62 years old, 1082 Thorndale avenue, who was injured fatally on Dec. 11 when Cornell's car struck her. Cornell admitted drinking five glasses of beer before the accident, but police testified he was not intoxicated.

Evanston police yesterday were holding A. G. Hester, a salesman of 1507 Dobson street, in the suburb, on a fugitive warant. St. Louis authorities charge that he left the scene of an accident there on Aug. 1, 1934. Jesse B. Everingham was killed in the accident.

Dentists to Assist "G-Men" in Identification by Teeth

Dr. L. W. Morrey, secretary of the American Dental association's economics committee, disclosed yesterday that the association is coöperating with federal department of justice agents in formulating a system that will enhance the possibilities of making identifications of individuals through charts of their teeth. In many cases of murder, it was pointed out, teeth remain intact long after finger prints and other identification marks have disappeared.

TEACHERS CHIP IN SO PRINCIPAL CAN PAY UP SHORTAGE

Provide Fund for Defense of Winslow.

Chicago school teachers are contributing to a fund to make good the $9,954 shortage of Charles S. Winslow, suspended principal of the Lake View Evening High school, and to provide money for his defense, it was learned yesterday.

Winslow confessed to Assistant State's Attorney Leslie E. Salter that he had taken the $9,954 from tuition fees paid by evening school pupils and he was indicted. In spite of his confession he later pleaded not guilty on the advice of friends, he said, and is now awaiting trial.

The contributions to aid him are being sought by an organization of teachers and friends calling themselves the "Friends of Winslow," it was revealed. Contributions as low as a dollar are being accepted, but the organization is asking for $25 to $50 from each donor. Spokesmen for the group denied reports current in the board of education offices that one condition to the repayment of the stolen money would be that Winslow retain his position.

Prosecutor to Press Case.

The consensus of school board officials and of attachés of the state's attorney's office yesterday was that the collections would be of little use to Winslow as far as criminal prosecution is concerned. Restitution will be accepted, but prosecution will go ahead, they indicated.

"The state's attorney's office has a law suit to prosecute," said Wilbert Crowley, first assistant state's attorney. "The prosecution is going ahead. The man stole the money, and restitution does not erase the crime.

Other attaches of the office, when informed of the collections being made by teachers, said: "Any one who contributes is a sucker. The only good it will do is to pay the fees of defense counsel."

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, said that the board had a civil suit against Winslow, and would prosecute it to collect the money owing the educational fund. Criminal prosecution, he said, is in the hands of the state's attorney.

School Board to Aid.

Full coöperation with the state's attorney in the prosecution was promised by the legal department of the school board. Testimony before the grand jury by auditors and school board officials was largely responsible for the return of the indictment, it was pointed out.

Arthur Nichelson, principal of Hirsch High school, president of the Chicago Principals club, said the matter of raising cash to help Winslow is being handled through auxiliary groups of the club. He denied that any string was attached to the fund and said no one is being forced to contribute. The Chicago Teachers' federation is soliciting dollar contributions.

Winslow, who had been a school board employé for thirty years, surrendered to Assistant State's Attorney Salter on Dec. 11. He was suspended but not discharged from his teaching post. It was understood that he will be given a chance to resign to protect his pension rights, but if his resignation is not forthcoming by the time of his arraignment dismissal will follow.

'Liar' Flies Back and Forth in Crowe-Savage Fund Fight

That short and ugly word "liar" was passed and repassed vigorously yesterday in a hearing before Master in Chancery Samuel B. Epstein on the suit brought by former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe against his former law partner, Joseph P. Savage, for an accounting of the assets of the now dissolved firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage.

One of the lie passers was Attorney Walter H. Eckert, counsel for Crowe. The other was Savage. Their sharpest dispute occurred while Attorney Burrell J. Cramer, representing Savage, was questioning Miss Mary Finn, formerly business manager for the law firm. Savage also was lending a hand in the interrogation.

Objection—and Fireworks.

"I object," said Attorney Eckert, "to Savage talking directly to and trying to lead the witness instead of addressing remarks to the master. The only way he can get his evidence into the record is by telling the witness what to say."

"You're a liar," snapped Savage.

"That goes double for you," retorted Attorney Eckert.

"You are a——liar," re-retorted Savage.

Before Attorney Eckert could double or triple that one Master Epstein intervened with a plea for order and a warning that he wouldn't tolerate such unseemly conduct or language.

Mrs. Mary Finn, mother of the witness, also entered a protest.

"My little girl," she said, addressing the master, "has been sick for six years and she's not able to stand this. She was a good and faithful servant in the law firm——"

Master Epstein interrupted to inform Mrs. Finn that she was not a party to the suit and had to keep quiet. She retorted that she was going to continue protecting her daughter's health.

Eventually order was restored and Master Epstein expunged the bad words from the record and urged swifter and more gentlemanly procedure.

Over Possession of Records.

Mr. Cramer then proceeded, striving to show that Crowe had refused access to his records bearing on the matter at issue.

Crowe suggested that he had told Miss Finn and Mrs. Louis Schlarb, who were office employés when the Crowe, Gorman & Savage firm was intact, to go down to his office and get all the letters they wanted.

"We went down and they wouldn't let us in," volunteered Mrs. Schlarb.

The hearing will be resumed today.

"FIDDLE RIDDLE" WINNERS WILL BE TOLD TOMORROW

The winners in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE "Fiddle Riddle" contest, which closed Nov. 17, will be announced in tomorrow's TRIBUNE. Five thousand dollars will be awarded to the 430 contestants whose entries were correct, and whose accompanying letters merited this distinction.

Many thousands of TRIBUNE readers entered this interesting "old-time song" contest, and found delight in naming the old refrains as depicted in puzzling fashion in the 42 cartoons.

Entries came in from all sections of the country. In the fifty word letters accompanying the solutions, each contestant named a song from among the 42 Fiddle Riddles, and gave reasons for the selection. The contest judges, attracted by and concerned with these open-hearted expressions, spent much time rating and comparing their preferences.

Watch tomorrow's TRIBUNE for results. You may be a winner!

BULLET VICTIM FOUND IN GARAGE; SUICIDE DOUBTED

Ben Mazor, 38 years old, 3751 Sunnyside avenue, was found dead last evening in a garage behind 3717 Sunnyside avenue. A bullet had been fired through Mazor's head and a pistol was found beside the body. Although the circumstantial evidence indicated that he had shot himself, the Albank Park police started an investigation after it was learned that Mazor had opened a new liquor store only a few hours before his death and apparently had no motive for suicide. The store is in the 5900 block of North avenue and its "grand opening" was set for last night.

FIRE STARTS IN ELEVATOR SHAFT.

Fire which started in an overheated motor in an elevator shaft on the eighteenth floor of the Kesner building, 5 North Wabash avenue, was quickly extinguished yesterday by firemen.

U. S. USES EXPERT ON HANDWRITING IN DRAKE TRIAL

Seeks to Prove 41 Knew Estate Was a Fake.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The Drake estate mail fraud trial in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court entered the expert stage yesterday. Howard A. Rounds, Chicago hand writing expert, was on the witness stand most of the afternoon connecting up the 41 defendants with various records and shipments seized by the government agents last April 8 during a raid on the Chicago headquarters of the fraud promoters in the Croydon hotel, 616 Rush street.

While much of the handwriting and signatures are undisputed, Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall called upon Mr. Rounds to prove other contested documents which the government contends will definitly link the majority of the defendants with the scheme to defraud which is alleged in the indictment.

Claim No Intent to Defraud.

The defense contention that there was no intent to defraud on the part of these genial Drake cultists is to be met with proof that many of them received what amounted to a salary for collecting funds from credulous "investors."

Another point of proof made by the government yesterday covered the knowledge which the defendants must be assumed to have had concerning the fraudulent nature of the Drake estate collection scheme. Mr. Hall sought futilely to read to the jury the clippings from newspapers which denounced the Drake estate as a fraud, taken from a scrapbook in the promoters' headquarters.

As a next step the prosecutor presented witnesses from Sioux City, Ia., who read the records of the indictment, trial conviction and appeal in the case of Oscar M. Hartzell, chief defendant in this trial, in a case which began Oct. 23, 1933. The verdict here was guilty, with a fine of $2,000 and ten years in prison fixed as the punishment.

Question of Who's the Victim.

The verdict in this trial was twice appealed, was upheld, and Hartzell was sent to Leavenworth prison on Feb. 16, 1935.

These facts, it is to be argued by the government, were all known to the defendants in this case.

The fate of the 40 defendants besides Hartzell seems to rest on whether it can be shown that they profited by the scheme, or whether they must be classed among the victims. The victims themselves have refused in the course of this or the previous trial to believe that they have been victimized, and many of them, it is said, have invested part of their government pay as witnesses in the defense of Hartzell.

The trial will be recessed tonight until Jan. 6.

EX-HUSBAND OF THELMA TODD IS CALLED BY JURY

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Evidence pointing strongly to the conclusion that Thelma Todd was the victim of a monoxide poison murder was claimed tonight by George W. Rochester, foreman of the county grand jury.

Rochester said he had issued a subpena for Pasquale di Cicco, Miss Todd's former husband, who is now in New York. Di Cicco left Los Angeles the day after the body was found, saying he was flying east to visit relatives over the holidays.

Rochester was insistent that this action, however, did not "point the finger of suspicion at anybody." He said the jury was anxious to learn directly from di Cicco whether there was anything in Miss Todd's life that might lead him to believe she was slain.

Three Face New Quiz.

The foreman would not reveal what his new information was or where it came from, but said that Di Cicco had been asked to appear before the inquisitorial body Monday morning when it begins its official study of the mysterious death of the actress.

The investigation today centered around the requestioning of three important witnesses and a wide search for a mysterious "dark complexioned" man reported seen with Miss Todd almost a day after she was first reported to have died.

Detective Chief Joseph Taylor ordered officers again to question Roland West, the actress' business partner in a seaside cafe; Charles Smith, treasurer of the cafe, and Robert J. Anderson, bartender at the cafe.

West and Smith, Taylor said, will be examined on West's testimony at an inquest yesterday that Smith, who lived above the garage where Miss Todd was found dead, should have heard her automobile if it was started. Anderson will be asked again about his story of putting the car in the garage at 2 a. m. Sunday.

Time of Death Disputed.

Medical authorities first said death must have occurred early Sunday, but later said Miss Todd had died not later than about 5 p. m. Sunday.

In connection with this phase of the case, an anonymous letter from a woman hitch-hiker informed police today that the woman was given a "lift" along the coast highway Sunday by the blonde actress in the latter's car.

The letter, dated in Hollywood Dec. 17, said:

"This is to inform you that I was on my way to Frisco Sunday, Dec. 15. It began to get dark when a lady came along and asked if she could give me a lift. I told her where I was going and she said she was going up the road a short distance. She asked me why I was going to Frisco. I told her to seek work that I couldn't find in Hollywood.

"She said 'every one has their troubles, haven't they?' She said hers were different from mine, but worse, said she was in partners with a man she had advanced money to and now he didn't want to return it and was trying to frighten her out of it. She said 'I guess I need what you have, courage.' She said he had tried to frighten her at times and that she felt funny about it. I laughed and told her he was bluffing.

Didn't Know Her Then.

"At the time I didn't know who this lady was until she stopped at Thelma Todd's café. She said: 'If you do not find employment in Frisco stop in on your way back as I expect to make some changes. Perhaps I can do something for you.' I haven't said anything about this until now as I have been seeking work and don't want to get mixed up with this trouble. But I feel it my duty to let you know what I heard.

"Hoping this helps you.

"If I am needed please get in touch with me by the Evening Herald."

Among the maze of conflicting clews claiming the attention of the authorities was the report that possibly rival gambling interests were responsible for the actress' death. It was said she had planned a gala New Year's party at her café to introduce gambling there.

Call Reserves to Funeral.

While authorities wrestled with contradictory reports that combated a theory of accidental death, her funeral was held at undertaking parlors. The crowd that filed through the mortuary chapel was so large it necessitated the calling of police reserves, although no disturbance occurred.

Miss Todd lay in a half couch, lined with satin. She was attired in lounging pajamas of blue satin with a high neck. The face was composed and natural.

Alex Hounie, head waiter at the night club where Miss Todd made her last social visit, reported to police tonight that two men forced his automobile to the curb after hurling kidnap threats at him and sped away.

Hounie disclosed he received a postcard at the café with the words, clipped from a newspaper:

"Withhold testimony or kidnap trip."

Tonight as he was on his way home he reported two men forced his machine into the curb.

"You got your warning!" he said they yelled, and disappeared.

Hounie handled the tables at the cocktail party of Stanley Lupino, English comedian, at which Miss Todd was a guest.

An armed guard was placed about Hounie's home.

Denies Rapprochement.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Pasquale di Cicco denied today in the Hotel Delmonico where he arrived from Hollywood, that he and his former wife, Thelma Todd, were about to make up just before her mysterious death.

"It was merely a coincident that I was at the Trocadero Saturday night when she was there, too," he said.

Di Cicco denied that he was the dark haired man Jewel Carmen, wife of Miss Todd's partner, says she saw with the actress Sunday night.

SLAIN MAN'S SON FLOORS SUSPECT IN COURTROOM

Walter Kruchinski, 22 years old, 2254 West 18th street, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court on charges of manslaughter, robbery, and automobile theft. The manslaughter charge arose out of a fatal beating inflicted Nov. 8 on John Puccini, 53 years old, 2145 South Western avenue, in the basement of a building near 27th and Oakley streets.

When Kruchinski was brought into court, Serge Puccini, 21 years old, son of the dead man, glared at him.

Blow Fells Prisoner.

"You would kill my father," young Puccini shouted. Before bailiffs could intervene he rushed at Kruchinski and swung a knockout blow to the defendant's jaw. Kruchinski fell to the floor unconscious.

The bailiffs seized Puccini and calmed him. Buckets of water were sloshed on Kruchinski and he came to after a few minutes. Then, dazed, he was led before the bench and was held to the grand jury in bonds totaling $150,000. Judge Graber set a $100,000 bond on the manslaughter charge, $10,000 bonds on each of four automobile theft charges, and $10,000 on a robbery charge.

Murder Charge a Possibility.

The court also instructed the state's attorney's office to determine whether the manslaughter charge could be changed to one of murder.

Puccini's body was not discovered until several days after he was beaten on Nov. 8. About a week later Kruchinski was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge following a fight in a tavern and it was discovered that he was wearing Puccini's overcoat. Assistant State's Attorney Abe Drucker said that Kruchinski had made "admissions" concerning the attack on Puccini.

HOSTESS TAKES POISON.

Miss Helen Jackson, 22 years old, 3056 Jackson boulevard, a tavern hostess, was taken to the County hospital yesterday. Police said she had taken poison in an attempt to commit suicide.

PEORIAN NAMED NEW CHIEF OF HIGHWAY POLICE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Gov. Horner's appointment of Walter Williams of Peoria as superintendent of the state highway police was announced today.

Williams succeeds L. M. Taylor of Monmouth, the Republican acting superintendent. Taylor is to stay with the police force as an assistant to the new chief.

Williams, a native of Macomb, was superintendent of police at Peoria for two years under Mayor Charles O'Brien. He is in the telephone electrical business and served eight years as deputy United States marshal during the Wilson administration and later was lieutenant of special agents for the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad.

NEW DEAL FOES WIN 23 STATES IN DIGEST POLL

Roosevelt Trails with but 42.31 Per Cent.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Latest returns in the Literary Digest poll revealed today that 23 states were voting majorities against President Roosevelt and his New Deal. The new tabulation is contained in the forthcoming issue of the publication.

With a total of 819,320 votes tallied the ballots against the President's policies reached 472,698 or 57.69 per cent. This constituted a slight anti-Roosevelt gain from 57.24 per cent of last week. The votes favoring the New Deal totaled 346,622 or 42.31 per cent.

Represent 265 Electoral Votes.

The 23 states going on record against the New Deal, said the magazine, represented 265 electoral votes or one vote less than a majority. Eleven states, all in the south or on the border, were voting for the President and represented 128 electoral votes. No count has yet been made of votes from 14 states representing 138 electoral votes.

The magazine took cognizance of the trend in the voting in the new states tabulated and also of criticisms voiced against the poll saying:

"Of the eight new states represented this week, the New Deal captures half in the initial voting—Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina. Those showing negative returns in the early vote are New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Oregon, and Washington.

"A criticism of the present poll is that it does not reach a proper proportion of unemployed and those employed at very low wages or on relief.

Hits Critics of Poll.

"In September and October, 1932, the Literary Digest conducted a nation-wide poll by the same method now employed which forecast that Roosevelt would receive 59.86 per cent of the Roosevelt-Hoover vote.

"Obviously the same criticism might have been made then [and was made] that the Literary Digest poll of 1932 did not reach a proper number of unemployed.

"Yet in the following election, in November, 1932, the accuracy of the Literary Digest poll was confirmed when Roosevelt did actually receive 59.15 per cent of the total votes cast for Roosevelt and Hoover."

The complete tabulation to date was given as follows:

BORAH TO ENTER WISCONSIN RACE FOR DELEGATES

Approves Plans of Pair of His Backers.

Borah convinced political observers that he was seriously contemplating the presidential race when he followed up his Dec. 7 speech against the New Deal and big business with a statement four days later in which he aired his views on foreign affairs, releasing a devastating criticism of the proposed dismemberment of Ethiopia by Great Britain and France and a blast against the league of nations. He admonished the Roosevelt administration to preserve strict neutrality.

Might Shift to Landon.

The next day, Borah conferred with former Vice President Charles Curtis, an admitted supporter of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas for the Republican nomination. This was followed by rumors that Borah's strategy might lie in shifting to Landon as a candidate after he had checkmated the old guard at the convention.

Borah made the nominating speech when Curtis was selected as the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1928.

Senator Borah referred in his speech of two weeks ago to the presidential election in 1936 as one of "deep significance." He declared he would fight for "free enterprise, free economic system, free America, free from monopoly control, free from burocratic control."

ASSERTS LANDON 'SENSE OF DUTY' BARS TALK TOUR

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A Kansas Republican leader declared today that a "resolute sense of duty" had caused Gov. Alf M. Landon to decide not to leave the state and engage at this time in a stumping tour of the country in search of delegates for the presidential nomination.

Commenting on reports that some of Landon's eastern supporters are questioning the wisdom of his apparent "strategy" in declining many invitations to speak in eastern cities, the Kansan, known to be in the confidence of the governor, said:

Calls Impression Mistake.

"My eastern Republican friend who was interviewed mistakes what he calls Alf Landon's strategy for what the people of Kansas know to be a resolute sense of duty."

In declining numerous invitations to "show himself outside the state," or to make speeches not directly connected with the public business of Kansas, Gov. Landon has said:

"The duties of my office make it necessary that I not neglect the job for which the people of Kansas hired me."

As to the presidential contest, he declared only a few days ago that "the issues facing the nation are so serious that there is no time for personalities and personal ambitions."

Sums Up Issues.

The issues, he stated, may be summed up as a contest between "Democratic institutions" and "more centralization of power at Washington."

Kansas supporters are showing their belief in his qualifications by spreading throughout the country their estimate of his character and record as an administrator.

"In other words," said the Republican leader, "we are willing to stand on his record."

The governor has made few addresses outside Kansas since his name was injected into the presidential discussions. The only one of importance was before the chamber of commerce at Cleveland early in November. Others have been of a nonpolitical nature in neighboring states.

Gov. Landon, himself, declined to comment.

HOME STATE UP IN ARMS AGAINST BANKHEAD ACT

"Little Fellow" Not Only Critic in Alabama.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—In the home state of Senator John Bankhead, author of the cotton control scheme, the New Deal has an extensive crop of critics among share croppers, tenant farmers, industrialists, and textile manufacturers. The golden flood of easy money flowing from Washington is said to have an assuaging effect, but at that Mr. Bankhead is heralding that a burocrat jobholder has a duty to sally forth and smite critics of the New Deal hip and thigh.

The implication that dole distributors and easy money spenders, outside civil service, are bound to take a hand in politics as defenders of the New Deal and its alphabetical works was widely discussed pro and con here today.

At a conference of sixty representatives of governmental agencies of Alabama last Tuesday at Birmingham Mr. Bankhead reproached federal workers who have been critical of the Brain Trust experimentations. In Alabama, from the start, some of the high workers have not held back from pointing out flaws in theory and practice.

Should Help or Get Out.

"I have little patience," said the senator, "with those who are serving the administration in any capacity outside civil service who are not ready to defend the administration. Unless a worker is in sympathy with the policies and purposes of the administration he has no place in it."

In Montgomery today this was widely interpreted as a suggestion to the pay rollers to bear a hand in politics.

For the last week and more a controversy has been raging within the Democratic party over the delegates to the national convention next year. It does not seem to be a happy family, "southern and congenial." As a bit of advance bandwagoning the state committee last month named the four delegates at large. The men so chosen thus far ahead were Gov. Bibb Graves, Senators Bankhead and Black, and John McQueen of Tuscaloosa. The committee followed with a resolution praising the Roosevelt administration.

Rapped as Move for More Cash.

The cynical regarded the move as perhaps a fulcrum with which to pry loose more easy dough for Alabama and put the governor and senators in ace high with the White House and Postmaster James A. Farley.

Resentment was expressed at once by leading Democrats. David S. Anderson of Birmingham, a committee member and a Liberty leaguer, has called for rescinding the action. In a letter to Gov. Graves, Mr. Anderson urged that all delegates be picked at the usual primaries.

Unless the handpicking of the four delegates at large is wiped out, he said, the Democrats will be robbed of a sovereign right to pick their own delegates. "We must then visualize," he wrote, "our delegates at large as entering the convention hall by the back door through the dark alley, while those Democrats elected in a primary in congressional districts will enter by the front door."

Tax Favors New England Mills.

The processing tax is assailed by Alabama textile manufacturers. They say it places them at a disadvantage with New England mills. A southern mill, they say, which makes coarse canvas to sell cheap, pays as much for a pound of cotton as an eastern mill which produces finer fabrics of much less weight. Some argue the tax should be adjusted to value of the finished product.

Complaints of the textile men, it is explained, are offset by the size of the check given Alabama for the rent of cotton acres on which owners have agreed not to grow cotton. The total processing tax and related taxes collected up to last Sept. 30, in the state was $16,066,160. The total rental and benefit payments to farmers through the same period was $24,152,600. So Alabama dragged in 8 million dollars more than it paid out on crop allotment experiments.

Cotton croppers, tenant farmers, cotton choppers, and field hands complain, as elsewhere in the south, that under the crop allotment, their acreage was reduced until their income has suffered.

"Little Fellow" Hardest Hit.

In the neighborhood of the statehouse, old capitol of the Confederacy, this inquirer today heard complaints that under the Bankhead act the little fellow on the farm has been chief sufferer. When a crop of 8 to 10 bales is cut to 2 or 3 bales, the argument went, it takes more than a doubling in the price of cotton for the cropper to break even under the allotment. Cash incomes are small. One authority figured the average cash income of a share cropper on 20 acres this year was $140 gross and not over $120 net.

The total spending by the government on relief in Alabama in the last three years has been $74,291,000, these figures including all phases of the work and relief program. In rural relief, it must be said, Alabama, under Administrator Thad Holt, went strongly for rural rehabilitation, a program aiming to make the stranded farmer self sustaining. Instead of forking out to an "anbandoned tenant" a few dollars a week, a lump sum—a loan—was provided to provide stock, seed, and fertilizer. Instead of a mule, a steer was provided, cutting costs, and many tenant farmers went back to ox days.

Loans 30 Per Cent Repaid.

Mr. Holt said today that $800,000 of these loans have been paid back in cash, about 30 per cent of the total. Incidentally, H. C. Ryding, ex-president of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company and a member of the state rehabilitation board, set a pace by using steers on his 200 acre farm while his tractors remained in the sheds.

About one-third of the relief load has been in the Birmingham industrial center, where 18,000 now are on WPA, 60 per cent of them Negroes.

As to whether the general criticism of the New Deal might alter Alabama's complexion, the politicians point out that the state is so traditionally Democratic that Al Smith carried it in 1928 by 7,000 votes, in the face of the liquor and religious issues, which are so potent here. The voting is small. In a population of 2,646,000, of which 38 per cent is Negro, the total vote for President in 1932 was only 244,615—less than 10 per cent of the population. There are qualifications for voting which keep the lists trimmed down, such as the poll tax, ability to read or write, the "grandfather clause," and much is left to the discretion of the boards of registrars.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS OF ILLINOIS COUNTIES PLAN UNITED ACTION

A proposal that the 102 Republican county central committee chairmen in Illinois organize themselves for united political action in the 1936 campaigns was discussed yesterday by six chairmen who attended a Republican luncheon and rally in Joliet. No definite action was taken on the proposal.

The rally was sponsored by members of the Will county central committee, and was attended by more than 300 Republicans from throughout the state. They were addressed by Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and Frank L. Smith, national committeeman for Illinois.

"I think the New Dealers have a definite objective—the realization in whole of the socialistic dream," said Mr. Knox. "How else can one explain attempts to load industry with such taxes that it cannot survive. What we are witnessing is a subtle attempt to destroy private enterprise."

SHOT BY POLICEMAN; DIES.

Aubrey Wade, colored, 17 years old, 1252 South Racine avenue, died yesterday in the County hospital from a bullet wound inflicted Monday by Policeman Edward Lucas, who fired at the youth when he ignored a command to halt.

CIGARET, LIQUOR TAXES FOR YEAR TO TOP BILLION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Treasury figures indicated today that the government would collect more than a billion dollars in cigaret and liquor taxes alone in the present fiscal year.

Liquor, which produced $221,000,000 in the first five months, promises to return between $530,000,000 and $550,000,000 during the year, while tobacco, which returned $211,000,000 through Nov. 30, is averaging about $500,000,000 annually.

The treasury reported November collections of internal revenue trailed 1934 receipts for the third successive month.

Decline of $35,485,043 in collection of processing taxes brought total receipts to $184,096,316. This was $5,022,313 less than the amount collected in November, 1934.

MILNE REVEALS KIDNAP STORY; HIDEOUT FOUND

heavy doses of a narcotic, Milne informed the agents he could recall scarcely a thing of what occurred from Sunday night until last night.

He remembered the kidnapers, however, because he saw each one before he was given the narcotic.

Agents said Milne told of answering a telephone call from a "Dr. Green of Gracie square," in New York. He met the "doctor" on Saturday at the square.

Milne had been told on the telephone that his grandfather, Caleb J. Milne Jr., in Philadelphia, was "very ill" and wished to see him. The "Dr. Green" was to take him to Philadelphia.

Agents said Milne related that three other men met the "doctor" in the park and all five set out in a sedan for Philadelphia.

They passed through the Holland tunnel and over the Pulaski skyway, took a branch road leading toward Phillipsburg, N. J., and Easton, Pa.

They rode along for several miles, Milne was quoted by the agents, then suddenly turned into a dirt road near Summit, N. J.

Then, the agents said, Milne was told he was kidnaped.

The agents said Milne told them one of the men informed him:

"You're not going to see any doctor. You're going to stay with us. And keep your mouth shut, too, if you know what's good for you."

Milne Tells of Fright.

"I was scared," Milne told the agents. "I was so scared I didn't know what to do. I didn't know what they might do."

Agents said the young man related the abductors put a blindfold on him in the branch road and did not remove it until they reached Somerville, N. J., leaving the town, the blindfold again was bound over his eyes and he was shoved down on the floor of the car.

After that, Milne said, he lost the route, but surmised that the party crossed the Delaware river into Pennsylvania at Phillipsburg. The agents said he surmised that they drove to a point about ten miles below New Hope, then turned westward to Wrightstown.

The agents said Milne told them the blindfold was removed before they walked into the farmhouse. Then they took his watch, so that he was not clear as to time.

Sunday, Milne was quoted by the agents, "They stuck the first needle into me."

Hospital physicians said Milne's right arm had about 25 marks made by a hypodermic needle.

The same day the abductors attempted to force Milne to write a note to his grandfather in Philadelphia, but he efused. After that, the agents said, the young man was not able to recall what happened until yesterday.

At that time there were only two men in the house, judging from the sound of their movements. Milne's eyes and mouth were locked with adhesive tape.

"Come on, you're going home," Milne said some one told him, at the same time slapping his face.

Milne recalled riding again in an automobile and being pushed from it.

State police at Collegeville investigated a stolen coupe found abandoned 25 feet from the Whitehall road, five and one-half miles from Norristown and about 16 miles from where Milne was left by the abductors. The car was stolen from Philadelphia yesterday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Passage of a cash bonus to war veterans by the house and senate before Feb. 1 was predicted today by Speaker Joseph W. Byrns on his return from the Philippines and Japan with a congressional delegation. Byrns said it was very clear that the coming congress will pass bonus legislation and have sufficient strength to override a presidential veto.

As Byrns made his prediction President Roosevelt held open house at the executive offices for congressional leaders. With the reconvening of congress only two weeks away, Mr. Roosevelt discussed his program and the bonus with five members of the senate, led by Vice President Garner.

Byrnes Presents Bill.

Garner declined to discuss the legislative program or the bonus question, but Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] presented a bonus bill to the chief executive. Other senatorial visitors were Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], Robert J. Bulkley [Dem., Ohio], and Joseph F. Guffey [Dem., Pa.].

Speaker Byrns was unwilling to name the type of bonus bill he believes will be enacted, but said that a bonus bill which did not contemplate inflation, as did the defeated Patman measure of the last session, would have the best chance of overriding a veto.

The speaker said he saw "no reason on earth" why congress should be in session after May 1, but added with a grin, "nobody knows what is going to develop after Christmas."

Roosevelt Silent on Stand.

Senator Byrnes said the President listened patiently to an exposition of the senator's bonus bill but gave no indication of his attitude toward any bonus measure. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently said the administration's attitude against bonus payment was unchanged. The public debt yesterday passed the 30 billion dollar mark and bonus payment would jump it up 2 billion 200 million more.

Senator Byrnes said he called the President's attention to the fact that his measure does not provide for inflation. He said his bill provides that a war veteran wanting payment can get interest from the first Armistice day, so that he would receive approximately 97 per cent of the face value of adjusted certificates.

Meanwhile Senator Kenneth McKeller [Dem., Tenn.], ranking member of the senate appropriations committee, said payment of the bonus would be no threat to a return to a balanced budget, an administration objective in the campaign year.

Policeman Fined $100 for Beating Given Wife

STATE LEVY BOARD WAIVES PROPERTY TAX FOR PERIOD OF 1936

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The state tax on property for 1936 was waived today by the Horner administration at a meeting of the tax levy board.

The action, announced by Gov. Horner, followed the precedent set two years ago when the retail sales tax was substituted for the property tax as the state government's major revenue source.

The governor has made a major campaign issue out of the saving to property owners.

Parents Who Sought to Sell Baby Get Assurance of Aid

Edward Hardt and his wife, Catherine, both deaf mutes, who attempted to sell their 3 months old son, Frank, on Wednesday, were assured of aid yesterday by the United Charities. The couple offered the boy for $10,000 to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, and when the doctor looked amazed they reduced their price to $1,000. The child was taken to St. Vincent's orphanage. Investigation disclosed the poverty of the Hardts, who live at 1902 West 21st street.

LANGER AND TWO AIDS ACQUITTED OF CONSPIRACY

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Former Gov. William Langer and two other former North Dakota officials were acquitted today of conspiracy charges. A federal court jury found them not guilty of a conspiracy to obstruct the administration of federal relief legislation by soliciting political contributions from workers paid with federal relief and highway funds.

Acquitted with Langer were R. A. Kinzer, former relief secretary, and Frank Vogel, who was state highway commissioner. A fourth defendant, Oscar Erickson, publisher of the Leader, for support of which the contributions allegedly were sought, was freed two days ago on a directed verdict.

The trial, just ended, was the third one for the three men acquitted. They were convicted at the first trial, in June, 1934. On an appeal, they gained a new trial last month which ended in a jury disagreement. In granting the retrial, the Circuit Court of Appeals held that insufficient evidence to support the charges had been introduced in the first trial.

No immediate announcement was made regarding the sentencing of two other defendants who pleaded guilty to the conspiracy charges. They are Oscar Chaput, former business manager of the Leader, and Harold McDonald, former solicitor for the publication.

WOMAN MISSING; SEARCH ASKED.

The police were asked yesterday to search for Mrs. Russia Grove, 64 years old, who has been missing since Wednesday from her home at 6758 Sheridan road. Her daughter, Mrs. Esther Cohn, said Mrs. Grove failed to return from a shopping trip.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

IRRESPONSIBILITY IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

In an address at the Council of Foreign Relations, William Castle, formerly undersecretary of state, discussed with timely candor the recent conduct of our foreign relations. We think Mr. Castle's criticisms are patently sound and the considerations raised deserve much more reflection by the American public than we fear will be given.

Without reviewing at this time the fluctuations and inconsistencies of the administration in recent developments, we would especially underline Mr. Castle's warning that "good intentions can do a lot of harm if they are nothing but good intentions, having no basis in real knowledge or purpose of action." This applies especially to what exists of public sentiment on foreign affairs in the United States. Free as we have been, with exceptions separated by many years, from the acute pressure of critical foreign relations, from imminent threats of war and persistent rivalries, we have indulged our national optimism and good nature at the expense of forethought and the facing of uncomfortable realities. We thus put the conduct of our foreign affairs at the mercy of sentimental minorities, of small groups of selfish interests, and of blundering and expedient politicians.

This weakness has been strikingly illustrated in the inconsistencies and irresponsibilities of the administration's conduct of our foreign affairs with its self-reversals and its light minded desertion of policies long maintained by the nation. The immediate result of this vacillation, as Mr. Castle remarks, is the reduction of our influence to the lowest level it has ever reached, and his explanation is supported by notorious fact in domestic as well as foreign politics.

"The President," he pungently says, "was trying in general to say to each of his visitors" [British, French and Japanese] "what would be likely to please that visitor, exactly as a hostess tries to be agreeable to different ladies who come in for a cup of tea. But his various statements, none of which in all probability seemed of any importance to him, were contradictory, and the unlucky foreigners, who naturally compared notes, went away bewildered." Much of our foreign relations, Mr. Castle truly says, is carried on merely for the purpose of making political capital at home, with the effect of creating a reputation of incorrigible unreliability abroad. That this must compromise our ability to avoid unnecessary complications and support our just interests is, or ought to be, plain. But more important than any effect upon foreign opinion is the fact that the impression is valid.

In short, the administration's conduct of foreign affairs is only another aspect of its contempt for time tried policies and institutions, its willingness to override methods and restraints, and to adopt any course which it assumes will be immediately plausible and politically profitable. Under pretense of keeping us free from dangerous entanglement, which every American is anxious to accomplish, policies supported by the nation since its birth and of greatest moment to its vital interests, like that of neutrality and freedom of the seas, have been abandoned without public discussion or mandate, which precedents are recklessly made without consideration of their long time implications, to say nothing of the serious embarrassments which they have promptly produced. Far from keeping us free from entanglement, this lightminded and fallacious opportunism has multiplied our difficulties and our insecurity.

GET YOUR PLATES NOW.

There is now no excuse for motorists putting off procuring their 1936 license plates as the law provides. Secretary of State Hughes announces that his department is prepared to deliver plates within 72 hours after application by mail. His Chicago office at 120 Ashland avenue is equipped to take care of 400,000 applications before Jan. 1. On Tuesday only half the staff was needed to take care of the applicants of that day.

Now that the official machinery is ready to function promptly motorists should coöperate. There is no reason why any car should be without a 1936 plate as the law provides on Jan. 1, and the police will have public support in strict enforcement.

The fund raised by the license law is needed by the state and used for public benefits accruing to all. In withholding his contribution the motorist injures himself, does an injustice to fellow motorists [illegible] to those who willfully shirk their duty, and helps to create a situation demoralizing to equal and honest law enforcement.

Now that plates are obtainable all motorists who respect their citizenship duty and their own interest in law enforcement and better conditions on the highways should come promptly to the support of the department by getting their licenses without delay. This will enable the law enforcement agencies to deal with the small minority of deliberate shirkers and finish off a condition long in need of correction for the common good.

REPUBLICANISM OR REVOLUTION.

A most serious and complicated governmental problem boils down to a very simple issue. The country must either elect a Republican President or continue with Mr. Roosevelt. That determines the whole matter. It is only another way of saying that the Republican party is the only instrument by which the Roosevelt revolution can be stopped. There is no other.

Nothing will happen inside the Democratic party to put a check upon the present government. The party will renominate Mr. Roosevelt and will take the chances for itself and for all the people of the country. Whatever the consequences of a reëlection might be, the Democratic party is destined and committed to them. The only justification the party could plead in extenuation would be that it is foredoomed by the psychology and practical workings of the American political system.

Democrats who want to make a fight against what they do not like and what they fear know that they will have to go outside of their party to get a chance. Many Democrats may be sobered by the prospect, but they cannot expect their party to be of any service to them. A President finishing one term and desiring renomination is in a virtually impregnable position in control of his party situation. Mr. Roosevelt is no exception to this rule.

If there is to be a change it will be because the man nominated by the Republican national convention is elected. From no other quarter can any relief be expected or any protection derived. This simple statement of a well recognized fact merely emphasizes the tremendous responsibility upon the American citizens who will sit as delegates in the Republican national convention. There have been times when a Republican national convention could not nominate a man who could not be elected. But 1936 will not be one of those times.

The Republican party can defeat itself by its own blunders, the folly of which would be self-advertised in advance. A political party naturally attracts some very able men who use their ability for unworthy purposes. The people soon identify them with undesirable political actions and undesirable types of government. They stand for discredited methods and themselves discredit a political undertaking.

In the true Republican party lies the hope and chance of stopping the drive toward an intolerable form of government.

I GOTTA DRAG.

Without a vehicle tag and driving without lights, an individual named Samuel Klein was taken to the Summerdale police station, where in great indignation he displayed a star reading "Personal Staff Municipal Court Bailiff." When his personal bond of appearance in the Trafic court was declined he borrowed from companions ten dollars for the moderate cash bail required and departed, threatening to have the policemen who had offended him transferred.

Very small potatoes is this possessor of the "I Gotta Drag" star, but not as an example of the star and card nuisance. In spite of official denials, the special star or card is intended to get its holder the privilege of disobeying laws and regulations imposed on citizens without political influence. It failed in this instance, but there is no doubt that the giving out of these cheap favors contributes to the lawlessness which is making our scandalous trafic toll.

Editorial of the Day

THE NEW DEAL MILLSTONES.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Today the rising costs of the necessities of life, and especially of food, are affecting the city of Detroit and the people living in it in a way little short of menacing.

Because the municipality must take care of a big load of relief work and expenditure, these costs are throwing the budget dangerously out of alignment and are threatening all the best laid plans for maintenance of a pay-as-you-go policy and for public economy.

At the same time they are decreasing the ability of the public to meet the extraordinary exactions which may have to be imposed soon if those among us who are jobless, helpless, and indigent are to be taken care of.

As the public costs go up, the individual, and particularly the individual of limited resources, finds the purchasing power of his income going down in a painful way.

He is getting it in the neck coming and going. The wage earner and the salaried man in particular is beginning to wonder when the pressure is going to stop.

This situation in which the city and its people find themselves is not peculiar to the locality, however. It is one of the general blessings of the New Deal.

And so far as the rise in the costs of living is concerned the gift is deliberate and premeditated.

The devaluation of the dollar, the badly camouflaged inflation in progress, and the criminal scarcity produced by forced limitation and destruction of crops are by way of furthering an avowed intent to make the consumer pay a lot more for what he buys.

Incredible as it may seem, the studied purpose of the government has been to force the man who depends for a livelihood on the labor of his hands to pay more for the things he must have if he is to save himself from starving and keep clothes on his body.

There has been, it is true, some talk about performing the boot strap miracle and bringing about a commensurate rise in wages and salaries, but only the hopelessly blind or the hopelessly optimistic ever supposed the administration could perform that miracle. And it hasn't.

Money is worth less, taxes are higher, the capacity to meet public burdens decreases, but the burdens themselves grow no less; they multiply.

Irresistibly we are being ground by the upper and lower millstones.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office.

IT LOOKS AS THOUGH England and France were going to let King Haile keep his shirt after all. Which is a most marvelous triumph for Selassie. Usually anybody that sits down in a diplomatic contest with England and France loses his shirt. Will easy old Uncle Sam who pulled England and France out of the deep, black, bottomless pit by lending those countries large quantities of coin during the now forgotten world's war please write? They borrowed from you, Uncle Sam, but did they——but no, why rub it in?

MAYBE IT WAS King Haile's whiskers that deceived England and France. They couldn't read Haile's countenance and discover what was back in his mind. Because King Haile's countenance was on the far side of the brush pile that is in front of his face and nobody could see through that great pile of alfalfa with the Lick observatory telescope. It seems strange that a simple minded African king in a poor little country in the jungles of Africa could hold his own in a game with England and France, while American diplomats always lose their shirts, their shoes, and their new overcoats and have to write home for money to get back on. There must be a reason and the reason very plainly is the lace curtains on King Haile's face. After this let us send no more diplomats over to sit down in the diplomatic games with diplomatic slickers unless they have long, thick and widespreading whiskers. Personally, I think America should send over the Smith Brothers, both Trade and Mark. Or the House of David's baseball team from Benton Harbor. What this country needs right now is plenty of whiskers.

CHRISTMAS PRAYERS.

How she wants a doll house! Her
Eyes grow big and glisten.
Surely when she prays so hard
Santa Claus will listen.
Chairs and tables, bureaus, beds,
Set in every room—
She will keep it spick and span
With a tiny broom!

Mother in her faded dress
(Once it had been good)
Has been spending every night
Doing things with wood.
Egg-crate, paint, and odds and ends—
Mother's praying, too—
Oh, young eyes must only see

FERRY ADAMS.

IT WAS ANNOUNCED from Washington yesterday (and with pardonable pride) that the national debt of the United States is now thirty and a half billion dollars, the largest ever known in the history of the country. And it might be that our national debt today is not only the greatest in our history but the greatest ever known in the history of any country. When this country starts in to do anything it is never satisfied until whatever it's doing is the biggest in the world. Even to running up debts. And as Mr. Farley has so well said: "You don't know nothing yet."

THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE has passed the old age pension bill. But they're not so generous as it seems. They adjourned without passing the drivers' license law. If that sixty miles an hour around-the-corner speed demon who just missed me last night gets another crack at me I'm not going to live long enough to get any money out of the old age pension fund.

BUT, ANYHOW, the old age pension law is a step in the right direction. What with bandits and bootleg whisky and careless drivers and high taxes and the cost of living soaring clean up out of sight, if anybody has the bravery and the nerve and the mental and physical endurance to live to old age these days he ought not only to have a pension; he ought to have a diamond medal, a gold watch and chain, and the Congressional Medal of Honor. And also be asked what he'd like for Christmas. I know what the legislature is doing; it's trying to coax us to stick it out. But what's the use? Gabriel, toot yer horn!

THE WORLD AND I.

From out my window I can see
The whole word passing by.
Merry and weary, chained and free
They weep and sing, and smile and sigh.

And they would still be here though I
Some other where should be.
How can they live, if I should die?
Are they not here because of me?

It seems so strange the world goes on
If I am here or if I'm gone!

WINTER ALLERGY.

WE are likely to think of skin sensitivity [urticaria, hives, or eczema] as manifesting itself particularly during the warm weather. While we absorb more foreign protein, such as pollens during the plant growing season, yet the cold period brings its own group of allergic symptoms.

Some persons will exhibit protein sensitivity only in summer, others only in colder weather, and still others—a group that deserves our deepest sympathy—will respond to one set of irritants in the summer and another set in the winter. Occasionally patients who go south to escape the rigors of a northern winter will develop unexpected asthmatic symptoms or many of the indications of hay fever, including sneezing, itching, watering of the eyes, and obstruction of the nasal passages.

During the cold season, regardless of latitude, the skin of certain individuals is more sensitive. For example, a number of patients will show a marked irritation of the skin on using a particular type of soap, the hands and even the forearms being covered with a scaly, eczemalike eruption.

There is very little difference between winter and summer in those who are sensitive to foods except that green vegetables are less common and more preserved foods are used. Some items of this latter group bring with them a larger proportion of allergic substances. Naturally wheat, milk, eggs, etc., to which many persons are susceptible, will react similarly regardless of the season.

Sensitivity to house dust will usually become worse during the colder months because of longer hours of confinement in the home. Furthermore, there is considerably less ventilation of residences during the winter months, hence the number of contacts of house dust with the nasal mucous membranes is increased markedly. Some relief has been brought about through the use of sleeping bags on open porches, even in very cold weather. Extracts of the offending house dust given as vaccines will in many instances prove helpful.

Another source of sensitivity—namely, infected sinuses—can be helped by adequate drainage or treatment. Cases have been reported in which an otherwise intractable eczema has been relieved following this procedure. There is also greater exposure in winter to wool and to furs, and many who have no difficulty during the warm season exhibit considerable skin irritability when in contact with some varieties of animal hair.

There seems to be no contradictory evidence to the belief that colds predispose to protein sensitivity. The swollen, inflamed nasal mucous membranes will absorb more readily than a normally resistant structure and we not infrequently observe a cold that hangs on for a considerable period of time interrupted or followed by an attack of asthma.

Many individuals complain of attacks of paroxysmal sneezing each morning during the winter. The symptom comes on just before or after rising, and may continue intermittently for an hour or longer. These patients are entirely free from attacks during the summer. We can scarcely explain the phenomenon other than on an allergic basis, the result of excess sensitivity of the nasal passages to some irritant.

In from 60 to 70 per cent of the cases, by means of proper tests [and sometimes two to three score or more will be required], the offending substances can be found. The remedy then lies in avoiding contact with the toxic protein or in developing an immunity to it. To render the patient nonsensitive requires an accurate diagnosis as well as a thorough knowledge of the manifold problems of allergy.

We must not forget that bacteria growing in the mouth, throat, and nose may in themselves constitute a sufficiently important protein element to bring on symptoms. A vaccine made of these organisms is usually efficient.

TRENCH MOUTH.

G. Y. writes:

1. What is the nature of trench mouth?
2. What can a patient with this disease do to help himself?
3. What causes the condition?
4. What can be done to prevent a recurrence?

REPLY.

1. Trench mouth, or Vincent's angina, is a disease of the gums characterized by an acute inflammation, severe local pain, gastric disturbance, and fetid breath.

2. Do not try home remedies if the disease has existed for any length of time. See your physician. Sodium perborate makes a good mouth wash. Cod liver oil and halibut liver oil, in connection with general health building habits, are beneficial.

3. The causative organisms have a greater chance of flourishing in unclean mouths. Vincent's angina is seen in persons with lowered resistance due to poor diet, faulty hygienic conditions, or following diseases such as diphtheria, scurvy, or anemia. It may be transmitted through the common use of drinking cups, telephone mouthpieces, towels, or direct contact with a sick person through coughing or kissing.

4. Prevention lies in good mouth hygiene, the maintenance of good general health, and regular visits to the dentist, as well as avoiding as far as possible the sources of infection mentioned above.

WEAR THE BANDAGE.

C. H. T. writes: About 12 years ago during gymnastic exercises my kneecap slipped out of place. At that time I wore an elastic band. The knee has slipped out of place three times in the last month. I am afraid to leave the bandage off. One doctor told me if this slipping happened very often I might develop water in the knee. Another doctor said not to worry about it. What do you advise?

REPLY.

As this condition can be successfully operated upon, I would advise that an orthopedic surgeon be consulted. In the meantime wear a firm elastic bandage.

RIGHT TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several years after the death of a person who died intestate, one of the next of kin finds evidence of a previously unknown bank account. Through an attorney he endeavored to have four other survivors of equal kindred relationship to the deceased give him unconditional signed releases of their individual interest in the account in return for what seems to be mere and unenforcible written promises to pay them pro rata shares upon the closing of the account by withdrawal. 1. Are any or all of the four other interested parties obliged to sign away their rights? 2. Just what is the usual and correct legal procedure in such situations? In the event these releases were executed [3] would the person to whom same were given and who would presumably then withdraw the funds be in the capacity of a fiduciary and [4] compelled to make proper distribution? 5. Just what is a fiduciary arrangement and what obligations are involved? The deceased died in New York and the funds mentioned are in a bank in that state.

W. J. F.

1. No.
2. Since the situation is unusual, we cannot say what procedure is usual. What would be reasonable would depend largely on the amount involved.
3. This would depend on all of the surrounding circumstances.
4. His agreement to that effect would seem to be enough.
5. The term is used in a number of different senses.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY LLOYD FANGEL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The threatened national coal mine strike is bringing a flood of facts and figures from all sides. The left wing press calls attention to the inadequate wages and hard working conditions of the miners, and the right wing points out that decreased consumption makes coal mining an unprofitable business, and therefore higher wages cannot be afforded.

It is acknowledged by every one that coal miners' wages are hopelessly inadequate, and that the conditions and danger under which they work ought to bring them a higher scale of remuneration.

According to Labor party figures 7,839 men and boys were killed in British coal mines between 1927 and 1934, and 1,200,042 injured. That is, over 1,000 were killed each year and more than 170,000 injured seriously enough to lose at least three days from work.

Only in one district has there been a definite move to raise wages, and this is just being done in Cumberland. The coal owners' associations, in an attempt to avert the strike, have announced to their merchants and brokers that the price of coal is being raised 75 cents per ton. With the increased receipts the owners intend to pay miners 25 cents a shift more, and hope that as a result the miners will be persuaded to abandon their 50 cents a shift raise demands and agree to district settlements. If this plan works out successfully it is expected that other districts will follow suit.

The reasons coal mining is not profitable at present are: lost markets, royalties to landowners, outdated mining methods and, most important of all, increased efficiency in coal using processes.

England has lost many of her markets, and the sanctions imposed upon Italy, formerly one of her big customers, have diverted the business to Germany. Not being in the league of nations, and being most anxious to sell anything she can, Germany is selling every bit of coal to Italy that she can obtain payment for.

Whenever the shaft or tunnel of a mine goes under the property of some landowner there is a considerable royalty percentage which must be paid by the mining corporation. The laws are like those in America: if a man owns an acre of land, more, or less, he has proprietary rights to "the skies over the earth and the waters below the earth," and these cannot be infringed upon without his consent—and consent costs money.

The most important reason for the decreased consumption of coal is, according to the fuel research board, that British industry is extracting more value from a lesser amount of coal than formerly. This conclusion is the result of a survey of the changes in coal utilization within the last 25 years.

Practically every industrial process in which coal is used, says the board, has made a gain in efficiency which has a definite national value in relation both to the cost of living and the cost of production of manufactured articles for export.

The mining of less coal is described as merely an "immediate" result. The board experts believe that more economical utilization, aided by such new techniques as hydrogenation and the use of pulverized fuel, may in the long run lead to an increase in coal consumption.

With a population of 41 millions in 1910, Great Britain used 180 million tons of coal. Last year, with a population of five millions more, coal consumption was 161 million tons. This reduction, it is pointed out, large as it appears, represents no more than 60 per cent of the savings in coal achieved in only three industries—electricity, gas, and iron and steel—compared with the 1910 standard of utilization. Following are the savings effected annually, in millions of tons: Electricity generation, 17.6; gas production, 7.9; iron and steel, 6.

In industry generally, the board adds, economies have been mainly secured by burning coal in a form that enables it to be fed at a controled rate into the combustion space.

As regards the production of gasoline from coal, the most important event of the year, so far as government research is concerned, has been the designing and erection of a plant capable of treating about 300 gallons of tar from the gas works a day, together with the distillation and refining plant necessary to deal with the spirit produced.

"The results," it is stated, "have fully justified the erection of the plant; only very minor alterations have been necessary, and little difficulty is anticipated in settling down to normal working at full capacity."

FROM CARTER HARRISON.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—May I reply briefly to the open letter of Mrs. Mary Onahan Gallery?

In the preface of my book I made it plain its contents were written largely from memory, that what I had told to the best of my knowledge and belief was true, that when in doubt I had held my peace.

As for the happenings in the controler's office the night of the 1891 mayoralty campaign, I know what was told me shortly afterwards by persons who were present. It must be remembered that within six months of that election my father had bought the Chicago Times and I had all the facilities for learning political facts the running of a metropolitan newspaper affords. What was actually done to count my father out in the old 9th, 10th, 18th, 19th and 29th wards I got in later years from the men that did it. And there was no reason for them to misrepresent. As a single illustration of the methods used: In one precinct of the old 29th ward where 500 and odd votes had been credited to Cregier and 6 to Harrison, a hurried checkup got the signed statement from better than 150 voters their ballots had been cast for Harrison.

Whether Mr. Onahan was still present when the "chief conspirator" made his computation I do not know. Of one thing I am sure, the information coming to me from a half dozen Cregier leaders, my father, elected mayor as an independent candidate in 1891, was defrauded of the victory. In common justice to the father the son makes the story known.

As to the so-called "fling at Martin J. Russell," there I am dealing with facts in which I was one of the two actors. Mr. Russell was a candidate for the post of collector of the port; to write an editorial attacking Cleveland would have hurt his chances; he begged off. That was all right—I consented. When he attempted to kill an editorial written on my orders by Willis J. Abbot, it was a gray horse of another color; there was nothing for me to do but accept his resignation on the spot. H. G. Adair of 4340 Oakenwald avenue might recall the story—he was foreman of the Times composing room at the time.

THE PHILIPPINE JUNKET.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—The editorial on the return of the junketeers conveyed the impression that the Filipinos spent $200,000 to entertain the American delegation with the expectation of reaping some good returns. This is fallacious. They don't expect any return other than the promotion of good will. The American people have done much for the Philippines and naturally the Filipinos felt very grateful. Hence the invitation.

Americans who are familiar with Filipino customs will vouch with great alacrity that the Filipinos as a race are truly noted for their hospitality. If you are a guest you get the best.

NOTARIAL FEES.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Your correspondent, Oscar Raisor, complains that the 25 cent notary fee is not enough for an auto license. That's not half bad pay for a minute's work, but what is unfair, to my mind, is the free notarial service advertised and given on auto licenses and income tax reports by our own dearly beloved W-G-N and other newspapers.

QUESTION FOR THE PARK BOARD.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Can some reader of this column please tell me the amount of money that is taken in by the parking station on Monroe street just east of the I. C. tracks? I should also like to know who gets this money, and, if it is the park board, just what is the money used for.

INQUISITIVE.

32 YEARS AGO.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—It was on Dec. 17, 1903, that the first real sustained flight of an airplane took place at Kitty Hawk, N. C. Two brothers, Wilbur and Orville Wright of Dayton, O., went there for a test of their mechanism. At Kill Devil hill these daring men mounted the sky and flew for 30 seconds. Later on they made a record of two hours aloft!

December, 1935—just 32 years later—the Chinese Clipper made a round trip to Manila and back to California in 120 flying hours, a distance of 16,000 miles. Were it not for the original box-kite affair there would be no great cruisers of the sky today!

Forty years ago what martyrdom was endured by the so-called "eccentrics" who dared prophesy man's ultimate conquest of the air. But today their memory is hallowed and the souls of Langley and Wright go marching on!

JACK NELONE.

WATER RATES.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—I note in this morning's TRIBUNE the fact that the village of Oak Park has raised the water rates from 18 cents to 27 cents per thousand gallons, an increase of 50 per cent.

I also note that Oak Park pays the city of Chicago 11 cents per thousand gallons.

The people of Chicago pay 60 cents per thousand gallons, with 15 per cent discount if bill is paid within about 20 days [and not 21 days, either], making a net rate of 51 cents. This rate was 47 cents per thousand gallons up to about 1924.

All this tends to prove that either the city of Chicago is robbing its own citizens to maintain the political jobholders in the city hall or that the village of Oak Park is getting water for almost nothing at the expense of the citizens of Chicago, through collusion.

TAXPAYER.

CANDIDATES.

Pontiac, Ill., Dec. 15.—I see that Mr. Len Small is about ready to announce himself for governor. I hope he will not run. I was for Mr. Small each time he ran before. However, I want to be on a winner this time. It will not be Mr. Small or Mr. Glenn. They will tear themselves apart in the primary and we will have the same election that we had in 1932, when the Custer-Emmerson-Glenn faction openly fought Mr. Small.

I would like to see Mr. C. Wayland Brooks run. The party owes it to him for the work he did in 1932-'34. He was a martyr in the two elections, but he was up there fighting for the party. He is the one man that could unite all factions for the election and he is a credit to our party.

Glenn for United States senator and Brooks for governor would make a strong state ticket.

THE TRAVEL SECTION.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—I think the travel section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE is most interesting, and I fear that some of my friends are overlooking the splendid articles you publish.

Just think! Last Sunday you had a timely article from Europe, John McCutcheon's thrilling experiences flying in South America, and Mason Warner's story from the orient.

Why don't you advertise these articles as the magazines do their travel stories? I believe all travelers, armchair or actual, find your travel section entertaining and instructive.

JAPAN'S TROOPS ENTER MONGOLIA; SHOOT SOLDIERS

Border Guards Slain with Machine Guns.

MOSCOW, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Invasion of the Mongolian Peoples' republic by 200 Japanese and Manchukuan troops and the killing of a Mongolian officer and several soldiers were reported from Ulan Bator, Outer Mongolia, to the official Tass News agency tonight.

The reported invasion was said to have occurred this morning at Bulun Derson, southeast of Lake Buinor. Yesterday a truckload of soldiers was forced back across the Manchukuan border by border guards, the dispatch stated.

Ordered to avoid fighting at all costs, the Mongolians retreated before the invaders today, but the latter were reported to have sprayed them with machine gun fire regardless.

Carry Rifles and Machine Guns.

Eight army trucks carried the armed invaders across the border, the Tass dispatch said. The trucks were accompanied by an ambulance and automobile said to be occupied by two Japanese officers and one Russian white guard.

Only this week the Tass agency declared the Japanese army in Kwangtung, far eastern territory occupied by Japan, was plotting a new border incident to stir new tension in the area.

Tass recalled a recently reported threat of Mongolian occupation by the Japanese and Manchukuans, and said the incident was considered of the utmost gravity in Ulan Bator. The war minister and premier of the people's republic have been in Moscow for several days, conferring on the situation with soviet leaders.

Soviet officials did not comment on the clash, but foreign observers were convinced they were watching the situation closely. Japanese occupation of Outer Mongolia, these persons said, would put Japan within striking distance of a great stretch of the actual soviet border, as well as the all important Trans-Siberian railway linking Moscow with Vladivostok and Khabarovsk.

See Clash with Russia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 20 [Friday].—Lieut. Gen. Moto Furusho, vice minister of war, and Lieut. Gen. Kiyoshi Imai, chief of the military affairs bureau of the war office, sounded grave warnings of a possible clash with soviet Russia in speeches yesterday.

Pointing to communist penetration in Outer Mongolia and China, Furusho said:

"Soviet Russia is frantically developing munitions and heavy industries in the far east and is concentrating a powerful fleet of bombing planes at Vladivostok and Khabarovsky. She is double tracking the Trans-Siberian railway west of Khabarovsky, thus enhancing the military value of the railway tremendously.

Points to Russian Army.

"The development of soviet communications in the far east is aimed at encircling strategically our neighbor, Manchukuo, through completion of double tracked railways, improvement of airways, automobile highways and waterways, particularly in Outer Mongolia. Russia today has concentrated 200,000 troops on the Siberian-Manchukuan border. This is thrice the size of Japanese forces."

Imai charged that communist troops in China are being assisted secretly by Russia. He said communist troops recently have been renewing activities "under the guidance of Moscow and are menacing peace in the far east."

REPUBLIC SINCE 1924.

Outer Mongolia lies between soviet Russia and the Chinese provinces of Inner Mongolia, and also borders on the Japanese dominated state of Manchukuo.

Ulan Bator [Urga] is the capital of Outer Mongolia, which became a soviet republic in May, 1924, under the name of the Mongolian Peoples' Republic.

Friction between outer Mongolia and Manchukuo became evident after a border clash between Mongolian and Japanese-Manchukuoan troops at Kharka last January. In June a conference began at Manchuli to settle the "Kharka incident." The parley broke up last November in an atmosphere of hostility.

The Tass news agency, reporting the collapse of the conference, said the Manchukuans left when the Mongolians declined to accept demands which they interpreted as meaning forced recognition of Manchukuo.

MONGOLIA INVADED BY JAPANESE

Japanese and Manchukuoan troops were reported yesterday to have invaded the Mongolian People's republic and killed a Mongolian officer and several soldiers. Arrow (No. 1) shows approximately where the invaders crossed the border. Friction between Mongolia and Manchukuo became evident last January in a border clash at Kharka (No. 2). The "incident" was followed by a conference at Manchuli (No. 3), which broke up in an atmosphere of hostility. Soviet Russia is watching the situation closely because occupation of Outer Mongolia would put Japan within striking distance of the trans-Siberian railway (No. 4), linking Moscow with Vladivostok and Khabarovsk.

EX-MATE ADMITS SEEING BEAUTY LEAP TO DEATH

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Thomas L. Matkins, former husband of Olga Steck, was released today from custody after admitting he saw the former Ziegfeld beauty leap to her death yesterday from his 12th story hotel window, climaxing a quarrel over money.

"I heard a swish behind me," Inspector Charles Dullea quoted Matkins. "I saw her poised at the window and before I could do anything, she jumped."

Matkins, 50 year old bond salesman and father of Miss Steck's two sons, told Dullea the quarrel was over money and his refusal to allow her to remain at the hotel.

U. S. NAVY ENVOY ADMITS PATH TO ACCORD IS ROCKY

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The difficulty of finding the basis for an agreement to replace the expiring Washington and London naval treaties was stressed tonight by Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American delegation at the five power naval conference.

Speaking at the London Pilgrims' dinner in honor of the American, British, Italian, French, and Japanese delegates, Davis dropped a broad hint that the conference is likely to be a long drawn out affair. He intimated the conference had made some progress, but left the impression that the forward movement so far was very small.

Calls Task Difficult.

"The task of reaching a naval agreement is not altogether easy," Davis ruefully told the assembly which, in addition to the delgates, included Robert Worth Bingham, the American ambassador; Viscount Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the British admiralty; Lord Derby, the Pilgrims' chairman, and a long string of notables of the society, political, and diplomatic worlds.

The chief American naval delegate expressed appreciation for the collaboration manifested in conference discussions to date, and added:

"While not underestimating the complexity of the problem we are attempting to solve, we have been facing fundamental issues in a frank and fair way.

"When we reassemble in the new year we are most hopeful that we may be able to reach a fair and constructive agreement and, thereby, make our contribution to the work of worldly construction and to the restoration of a more stable and balanced international political, social, and economic system.

"Any solution we may make of the problem will lessen the risks of war. Such a goal is worthy of our most earnest effort."

Davis Raps Isolationists.

Davis took a rap at isolationists. At the same time he indirectly indicated that the Americans did not intend to be maneuvered into a one sided bargain.

"There are some who are skeptical of assemblies of international conferences because in the past they probably have been more a failure than a success," he said. "On the other hand, there are an increasing number of questions which are of vital importance to the peace and welfare of the nations of the world as a whole. They can only be solved by the nations getting together in a conference."

CALLES FEARS HE WILL BE SLAIN BY LABOR MOBS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles' statement, "They may assassinate me," focused attention tonight on a huge demonstration against the former president which Mexican labor leaders have called for Sunday.

Fifty thousand organized workers are scheduled to participate in the mass protest against Calles' return to the country from which he departed last spring because of what he termed President Lazaro Cardenas' "marathon of radicalism."

Labor Leaders Attack Calles.

Bitter attacks on Calles by labor leaders organizing the demonstration, and the declaration of the newspaper La Prensa that "the government may be unable to give Calles guarantees" of safety, caused speculation and expectancy over Sunday's possible developments.

Most guards had been withdrawn from Calles' home, only a mile from the center of the city, and if the demonstrators marched there they would find the former president virtually unprotected unless the government took precautions.

Frequent visits in the last few days to both President Cardenas and Calles by Aaron Saenz, former high official and close friend of Calles, led to reports that negotiations are under way for the former president to leave the country despite his statement that he would remain unless expelled forceably.

Called Traitors to Revolution.

Explaining the expulsion of the former "iron man" and other prominent members from the national revolutionary party, Emilio Portes Gil, president of the party, declared they were traitors to the revolution.

The expelled persons, Portes Gil added, were "members of an almost hereditary financial oligarchy which they maintained for the conservation of their interests, employing the force of government for the centralization of public wealth in the hands of a few men."

Signs Pledge to Be Good; Wife Drops Divorce Suit

Admitting the truth of his wife's charges of infidelity and drinking, Howard J. Coy, 40 years old, 2006 Arthur avenue, signed a pledge yesterday before Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort to refrain from such conduct in the future. His wife, Mrs. Helen Coy, 37 years old, through her attorney, Harry X. Cole, then dropped her divorce suit and the couple left the courtroom reconciled.

JUSTICES SHOW CLEAVAGE OVER TVA LEGALITY

Power Issue Is Argued in Supreme Court.

in pure socialism through perversion of its war and commerce powers. It opens the way for the government to enter competition with all lines of private business which might be held necessary for war purposes or maintenance of navigation."

A little later, when the lawyer again had drifted off into some technical observations, Chief Justice Hughes stopped him once more.

"What's the point here?" he demanded. "If you can state the point it will be a great help to us."

Justice Brandeis then interposed his queries concerning the petitioners' legal standing in court. Both he and Chief Justice Hughes sent pages for stacks of law books and delved into them.

In answer to Justice Brandeis' question as to the damage suffered by the preferred stockholders of the company, Attorney Johnston asserted:

"It is as certain as anything can be certain in this world that unless this act be declared invalid it will mean the annihilation of the Alabama Power company. It means the junking of its property."

Cites Value of Stock.

Justice McReynolds, coming to the rescue of the attorney, brought out that the stockholders held about 3 million dollars' worth of preferred stock.

"And that stock would become worthless if the TVA is allowed to compete with the company?" he inquired.

"Absolutely," was the answer.

"Preferred stockholders have a very limited status in court," persisted Justice Brandeis. "I'm still struggling with the problem as to whether you have any right to complain."

Scores Business Entry.

Continuing with his argument, Attorney Johnston declared:

"There is no more valid reason why the government can enter into the commercial power business in order to reimburse the treasury for the cost of a dam than it can utilize a vacant floor in a postoffice or federal courthouse for the purpose of conducting a commercial business in the space in order to earn money and contribute to the cost of the structure."

John L. O'Brian, special counsel for the TVA, presented the government's side of the question, and he also was subjected to a fire of questions from the justices.

Cites Dam Started in 1917.

He contended that the Wilson dam, started in 1917 as a war measure, intended for the manufacture of munitions and completed before passage of the TVA, was the only part of the TVA involved in the suit before the court. Power supplied by the Wilson dam would compete with the Alabama Power company.

"A decision on this particular case will not produce a catastrophe to the partisans on either side," he declared. "This case involves only the Wilson dam which was built as a war and navigation project—perfectly constitutional objectives—and congress has determined it a war facility."

The TVA attorney's argument was that while objections might be offered to other dams under the TVA, such as the Norris dam, on the ground that such dams were power projects constructed under the pretext of being navigation and flood control projects, the Wilson dam was clearly built as a munitions project and power from it might later be sold to help defray the cost of the dam.

Quizzed by McReynolds.

"Do you contend that the federal government has the right to manufacture power and sell it without limitation all over the country in competition with public utility companies and wrecking such companies?" demanded Justice McReynolds.

"It has that right on the Wilson dam as an incident to the dam as a war and navigation project," answered O'Brian.

"The price of this power can be high or low—breaking up every utility company in a state—and the state has no right to regulate the sale of such power?" persisted Justice McReynolds. "You say the government's navigation rights carries with it the right to generate power and sell it without limitation?"

Unlimited Power Claimed.

"I don't like to say it is an unlimited power," answered O'Brian. "But, in general, that is our position."

"If the navigation purpose is shown to be a mere pretext, the whole thing falls, doesn't it?" interjected Justice Butler.

"If it is an honest navigation project, the government may sell any amount of power it desires," answered the TVA lawyer.

"Could the government build garment factories during the war and then keep on manufacturing the garments after the war to avoid waste and to pay for the cost of the factory?" asked Justice Sutherland.

"No, that would be a clear extension of an incidental activity," responded O'Brian. "This case is different."

"How about the sale of electrical appliances by the TVA?" asked Justice Butler.

"I don't think that's constitutional," replied O'Brian. "And the government has only done it in a small way."

Giant Sleeper Plane Passes 1st Air Tests with Acclaim

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Santa Monica, Cal., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Results "better than anticipated" met the new, twelve ton, twin motored Douglas sleeper plane on three preliminary test flights over this city and the Pacific ocean today. The largest land transport ever constructed in the United States settled gracefully to a landing at Clover field tonight. Trial flights will end sometime after Jan. 1.

Officials of American Airlines, Inc., who came here from Chicago to watch the trial flights crowded around the Douglas aircraft factory officials to congratulate the factory's two executives, Carl A. Cover and Frank R. Collbohm, who acted as test pilots.

Mr. Cover is vice president of the Douglas company in charge of sales, and its chief test pilot. He is a former United States army flier. Mr. Collbohm is flight engineer for the company.

Carries 24 in 8 Sections.

The plane has a wing span of 95 feet and is 65 feet long. The cabin has eight roomy sections, four on a side to carry 24 passengers. It is powered by two 930 horsepower Wright Cyclone engines.

Crowding to meet them as they opened the door of the big plane, which is designed to add new factors of safety and elements of luxury to American passenger flying, were Harry Wetzel, vice president and manager of the Douglas plant here; Fred Stineman, project engineer for the factory, who makes some of the test flights with his associates in order to determine flying stresses for himself; and Chief Engineer William Littlewood and General Sales Manager Melvin D. Miller of American Airlines, Inc. Littlewood and Miller's lines have contracts for the first ten deliveries on the new Douglas and expect to begin equipping their lines with them Feb. 15, 1936.

Leaden Load on Tests.

Moving through the lead ingots that furnished the test load for the plane, and descending from a door which opens 16 feet 4 inches above the ground, Cover told the enthusiastic group below him: "I never flew a plane that handled any better."

.."The first flights have been very satisfactory. The ship gives one the impression that the larger the ship the easier it handles." Mr. Wetzel, operating head of the factory, by long distance phone immediately informed Donald Douglas, stopping off briefly in Chicago on business, of the commendable air behavior of Douglas' "new baby."

Test Better than Satisfactory.

"It will take two or three weeks to get the whole story of the new plane," Wetzel said. "You must remember this is an experimental plane. The tests made so far consist of carrying various loads at various altitudes and under various conditions of head and tail winds, and so on. But it is safe to say and still be conservative about it that the preliminary tests made in the last three days have been even more successful than we were hoping for."

PRESS ONLY REAL NEWS MEDIUM, SAYS CHURCHILL

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Winston Churchill, noted English statesman, today asserted that newspapers are the "only real and trustworthy medium for dissemination of news and the molding of public opinion." He said both England and America can thoroughly trust their press.

Mr. Churchill said, in an article in Collier's, that he is convinced there can be no really serious challenge to the press from either radio or moving pictures, or even promised television.

"In other countries whose peoples are less intelligent," he said, "or where education is less careful of the individual mind, the future of publicity may lie with radio and moving pictures. Under dictatorships the press is bound to languish and the loud speaker and film to become even more important.

"But where free institutions are indigenous to the soil and men have the habit of liberty, the press will continue to be the fourth estate, the vigilant guardian of the rights of the ordinary citizen."

START $522,698 WPA PROJECT AT CHICAGO AIRPORT

All Weather Field, Many Improvements Sought.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Fifty men yesterday began work at Chicago airport, 63d street and Cicero avenue, on a Federal Works Progress administration project to improve runways, drainage and light systems. A total of $522,698 was allocated for this work on Dec. 11 by J. R. McCarl, United States controller general.

Through the project, airport authorities, working with federal bureau of air commerce inspectors, expect to make the Chicago field an "all-weather" landing place. As part of the plan they intend to install an instrument approach system combining radio beam and marker signals with special ground lights, to enable airplanes to land there even though the Chicago area is enclosed in fog.

Within a few days the number of men employed on the airport job will be increased to 300, and 1,200 are to be at work within six weeks. They will be kept at work with the funds now available until March 15. By that time, according to Walter Wright, superintendent of parks, recreation and aviation for the city, more money may be available.

Wider Strips Are Vital.

Widening of the concrete plane taxiing strips along the southern and eastern boundaries of the field will be the first job undertaken. At present there are concrete strips along these boundaries, but they are too narrow for the large ships now flying, and even larger equipment will be on the field by Feb. 1, several of the airlines have announced. When completed the taxiing strips will be uniformly 200 feet wide.

As the work progresses the men will begin laying new runways and installing drainage systems. Approximately 41,000 linear feet of tile, 8 inches in diameter, will be laid in connection with the runways. Cinders of the present runways are to be covered with crushed limestone and then capped with eight inches of asphalt macadam. There will be 242,460 square yards of the macadam laid on the runways.

The instrument landing system is to be installed along the east-west runway of the field which is 5,279 feet long, extending the full mile from Cicero to Central avenues.

Powerful Runway Lights.

The whole runway is to be outlined in 200 watt bulbs connected in housings which will be flush with the surface. These will be turned on only when planes are trying to land during thick weather. Along the same runway a small short wave radio station will send a landing beam. Pilots have been assured an eight mile approach, clear of obstructions to the west of the field as they head down this beam. Their path of flight will be clear for 500 feet to either side of the beam, according to field engineers.

The Commonwealth Edison company yesterday completed the work of removing power transmission lines from the ends of five of the airport runways. The lines have been placed underground at points where planes either landing or taking off must pass over them. Surface line power wires which cross the same runways have not been removed.

U. of C. Gets $85,000 Pam Fund to Create Law Chair

An $85,000 fund to establish the "Max Pam Professorship of Comparative Law" at the University of Chicago was turned over to the university yesterday by trustees for the estate of Mr. Pam, Chicago corporation lawyer who died in 1925. The allocation completed distribution of approximately $350,000 which Mr. Pam's will provided should be set aside for educational and philanthropic purposes. Prof. Max Rheinstein, former member of the faculty of the University of Berlin, was named as the first to hold the chair created by the bequest.

GARNER IS GUEST AT WHITE HOUSE ON RETURN HOME

Back from Manila, Trip to Japan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Vice President John N. Garner was a White House luncheon guest today on the first day of his return from the congressional junket to the Philippines and Japan. As he entered the door of the executive offices he was met by a fellow Texan, Jesse Jones, RFC chairman.

"How's my Tokio boy?" Jones asked. "Did you take your shoes off for the Mikado?"

Wife Darns His Socks.

"Tokio, that's where I'm from," Garner answered. "No, sir, they didn't make me do that. But I wore the same socks the whole trip. Mrs. Garner darned them twice when they got little holes at the toes."

"Did you wash 'em?" Jones laughed.

"Washed 'em every night," Garner snapped. "Mrs. Garner did. You know, on these long boat rides there isn't much for a woman to do but darn."

Garner had under his arm a bamboo tube which he said looked like a bomb. The tube apparently contained a fine Panama hat rolled up, which he bore as a gift to the President.

Keeps Contents Secret.

"I was a little worried about getting past the White House police with the bomb," Garner said. "I still don't know whether I'll get by the secret service. No, I won't tell what's in it; that's a secret."

At this point a White House attendant touched his arm to notify Garner luncheon was served.

"What's that?" he said. "Luncheon served? That's me. I'm on deck."

Mr. Garner did get by the secret service with his "bomb."

Buck Deer and a Hound Battle on School Ground

Wakefield, Mich., Dec. 19.—(AP)—When officer Gust Kiiva answered a rush call he found a six horn buck engaged in a fierce battle with a black and white hound on the grounds of the Plymouth school. Unable to drive either away, he shot the dog and the deer fled.

JACKSON DINNER IN WASHINGTON AT $50 A PLATE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The price of a place at the capital's Jackson day dinner, annual rally of the Democratic faithful, was fixed today at $50 a plate.

W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the Democratic national committee, today stressed that the price was "fundamentally a contribution to the Democratic party." He said dinners in other places will cost as low as one dollar and that he hoped the party deficit of $375,000 would be wiped out.

'ART SIX LAYERS DEEP' DESCRIBED IN PORTER FIGHT

Kin Refute Collector's Claims on Estate.

A description of the home of the late Mrs. Frances Lee Porter at 4043 Lake Park avenue as a "museum filled with objects of art six layers deep" enlivened a hearing yesterday before George A. Rooney, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. The hearing is on a citation issued against Washington Porter II., son of Mrs. Porter, to show cause why he should not surrender furnishings and property in his mother's old home, where he lives.

COL. T. A. SIQUELAND.

Porter, who was one time secretary of the American legation at Copenhagen, was cited on the petition of the First National bank, executor of his mother's estate. Porter's sister, Mrs. Pauline Porter White, principal heir to the mother's estate as well as an executor, is also a party to the petition. Porter maintains that all the furnishings in the home were given to him by his mother in 1926.

Relatives Testify Against Him.

Several relatives of Porter were witnesses against him yesterday. They testified that all the art objects in Mrs. Porter's household had been purchased by her. On cross-examination these witnesses admitted they were hostile toward Porter. Porter contended in his answer to the citation that seven art works which the executors are striving to get from him were bought by himself.

The description of the Porter mansion was given by Col. Tryggve A. Siqueland. Although Col. Siqueland is an assistant vice president of the First National bank, he was called as a witness for Porter. Under questioning by Attorney Edward R. Johnston, counsel for Porter, Col. Siqueland said he had been a frequent dinner guest at the home when Mrs. Porter was alive.

Art So Thick It's Like a Museum.

"The place was like a museum," Col. Siqueland said. "It was so filled with objects of art, six layers deep, that one could hardly walk through."

F. D. White, 1929 Sherman avenue, Evanston, a stepson of Mrs. White, Porter's sister, testified for her concerning a painting of Cleopatra which Porter asserts belongs to him. White said that Mrs. Porter had told him she bought the painting.

Miss Pauline Porter Muirhead, daughter of Mrs. White by another marriage, told of "constant difficulties" between Porter and his mother.

Mrs. Marie Simmons, 4051 Ellis avenue, a former maid in the Porter home, was another plaintifs' witness. Mrs. Simmons, whose maiden name was Marie Sauer, won a $500 verdict against Porter several months ago for false arrest.

Mrs. Simmons listed many of the art objects in the mansion and said all had been bought by Mrs. Porter.

Governess Aids Porter's Case.

Miss Anna Noack, who was a governess for the Porter children and lived in the home for 40 years, testified for the defendant. She told of a division of Mrs. Porter's personal belongings in 1926.

"Mrs. Porter divided everything by lot," Miss Noack said. "Pink slips were placed in a hat, each slip bearing the name of an object. The slips were drawn in order for the three children and they received the indicated objects. Washington had started buying things for himself before his mother died and he now owns everything in the house."

Another defense witness was Frank Carmichael, colored, handy man and caretaker in the Porter home. His testimony supported Porter's claims.

Answers Another Suit.

The hearing was continued to tomorrow morning.

During the day Porter filed an answer in a case brought against him in the Circuit court by Mrs. Dorothy Farwell Kolb of St. Louis. Mrs. Kolb is seeking the return of $8,300 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $2,000 which she alleges she loaned Porter in 1934. Mrs. Kolb asserts that she was at that time estranged from her husband, with whom she is now reconciled, and Porter promised to marry her.

In his answer Porter declared that Mrs. Kolb voluntarily loaned him the ring and money. He denied that he had ever promised to marry Mrs. Kolb. He said he has returned the ring.

Chicago Girl Eloper Brings Groom Home for Holidays

35 HUNGRY BOYS FIND REAL SANTA AT CLUB DINNER

Parties for City's Needy Reflect Yule Spirit.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Thirty-five little boys, poorly clad and hungry eyed, learned something about the Christmas spirit when they gathered in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman yesterday as the guests of the Bakers' Courtesy club and the Chicago Flour club.

Tables heaped high with turkey were before the children, red bags of toys and candy lay by each chair, and a Christmas tree sparkled in the background as C. H. Bunnell, past president of the Flour club, arose.

"There may be only one big Santa Claus," he said gently, "but there are lots who'd like to be. What Santa Claus really is, is a great big friend who comes around when you'd like to see him."

Apparently many other Chicagoans have decided to be "great big friends," because entertainments and parties providing Christmas cheer "for others" were held on all sides yesterday, and will continue through Christmas day.

Raise Funds For Boys.

At the Stevens hotel, some 1,700 members of the Chicago Federated Advertising club paid $2.50 apiece to attend their annual Christmas party. More than half of each ticket price goes to bring Christmas to the Off-the-Street club, a recreation center fo: underprivileged boys at 1534 Van Buren street.

At the Hotel Sherman, sixty deaf children were entertained in Christmas style by the Kiwanis club of Chicago. At the same time, out at Tilden Technical High school, 4747 Union avenue, the Kiwanis club of Englewood was distributing 1,000 toys to needy children of the neighborh.od.

At the Whitney Elementary school, 2815 South Komensky avenue, eighty bushel baskets crammed with food, all contributed by pupils, were distributed to the families of needy pupils. At the kindergarten of Spalding School for Crippled Children, 50 children were entertained by the Sunbeam League of Chicago.

Club Entertains 1,000.

Some 1,000 underprivileged children were entertained at the Hotel Sherman last night by the Church Club of Chicago, an organization of Episcopal business men.

Sixty-three children selected by the United Charities will receive new winter overcoats at 4 p. m. today at 6638 South Halsted street a: the Christmas gift of Morris B. Sachs.

Three hundred children in the Grant hospital clinic will be fêted at 3 p. m. today by the ladies' auxiliary of the hospital at the nurses' home, 536 Webster avenue. The annual "Halsted street-Lake Shore drive" Christmas frolic will be held tonight in the gymnasium of the Chicago Athletic club.

Choirs Plan Carol Programs.

Christmas carols will be sung at 63d and Green streets at 5 p. m. today by the Englewood Presbyterian choir. Tomorrow at 12:30 the 50 voiced choral club of the North Western railway will sing a carol program from the west balcony of the railway station.

Tomorrow night the "Committee of Eighteen" will hold a benefit Christmas dance at the Medinah Athletic club. Proceeds will be contributed to a year 'round fund for the care of 16 year old Sophie Koc, 1819 West 17th street, and her parentless brothers.

Poor children of Cicero will be Christmas guests of the Cicero post No. 96, American Legion, at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

At 1 p. m. Sunday the Automotive Booster club No. 7 will act as Santa Claus to 250 underprivileged children at the Auditorium hotel for the third consecutive Christmas. A Christmas dinner, toys, clothing, and a basket of food "to take home" will be given each child.

Florists at the Lincoln park conservatory were busy yesterday arranging flowers for the Christmas flower show there which will open Sunday and close Jan. 5.

Will Dance at Dinner for Children

Gloria Reilly, age 10, of 8347 Carpenter street, who will give acrobatic dances at the third annual Automotive Booster club dinner to be given Sunday for 250 underprivileged children at the Auditorium hotel.

MIAMI TOURIST 'BUDS' CHILLED BY COOL WAVE

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The first buds of Miami's 5 million dollar tourist crop were chilled this morning with thermometers dropping to 48 degrees at 8 o'clock. At noon the mercury was pushing upward from 60.

Overcoats were worn over white shoes and trousers, the collars turned up under straw hats. Others shivered in the strange summer costumes common in Florida. After spending their vacation money to come south, folks aren't going to let the weather stop them from wearing their winter resort sport clothes.

It's Unusual Weather.

The government observation bureau, not the local chambers of commerce, is authority for a statement that this is unusual weather. Federal statistics show that the normal mean for this time of year is 68 degrees. The average daily low for December is 63 degrees and the average daily high 75 degrees, but even on the cool days enthusiastic winter resort patrons stroll the streets, with the men in polo shirts and flannel slacks and the women in beach pajamas—and both with goose pimples.

A few venture to the palm bordered sands of the ocean front during weather that wouldn't tempt any one in Chicago. It never would do to return north without at least a touch of tan.

The city of 111,000 population has developed the resort business on a mass production basis. Lining the downtown streets are hotels, lodging houses and restaurants, some advertising a Kosher menu. A large portion of the visitors are from New York.

Expect 260,000 Tourists.

The Miami news service, as the municipal press agent is called, estimates that 260,000 tourists and vacationists from all parts of the north will visit this area during the season that is just opening. This represents an anticipated increase over last year of 27 or 28 per cent.

Arrivals in December are up 22 per cent over the same month of last year, and up 50 per cent over December of 1933.

MUSICAL TROUPE WILL BECOME 28 GOOD FELLOWS

Olsen and Shutta Group to Aid Needy.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

George Olsen and his band, featuring Ethel Shutta as singing comedienne, in the College Inn at the Hotel Sherman, will be Good Fellows to 28 unfortunate families in Chicago. Every member of the organization, including comedians, gag writers, bandsmen, and arrangers will join the happy throng of kind hearted Chicagoans in bringing smiles to the needy.

Another organization which will help carry on the work of the original Good Fellow, the late Edward C. Fitch, who brought his message of happiness to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE 27 years ago, will be the Hoover company of 8 South Michigan avenue. The proceeds from a recent dance will go to the purchase of 22 well filled baskets of food, toys, and candy. This firm is no newcomer in this Yuletide work.

Music Students to Sing.

Miss Lilly Ruth Hanson, who has charge of a Good Fellow party to be held from 2 until 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Fairyland theater of the Stevens hotel announced an added attraction for the entertainment of the hundreds of children who plan to attend. Fifty boys and girls of the Civic Music association classes at Ogden park will sing Christmas carols. The Zeta Tau Sigma sorority will be host at the party to a large group of children from the Erie Chapel institute.

Sixty deserving families will receive baskets before Christmas morning through the generosity of THE TRIBUNE chapel, whose membership includes all men and women working in this newspaper's composing room. John Barnhardt is chairman of the Good Fellow committee and he has divided the city into three parts with the following "captains" in charge of delivery of the baskets: North, Frank Koeller and Clark Bickford; west side, Huge Samlow and Oscar Malm, and south side, William D. Jacobs and Eddie Herbeck.

Plenty of Time Left.

Among the Scoutmasters who are coöperating in THE TRIBUNE campaign are Gerald H. Blake, Harold G. Hernly, Carl E. Hallen, Ray C. Oltmanns, Herbert Mueller, Irving Naiburg, William J. Peace, Robert L. Shapiro, Edwin V. Erb, Donald C. Dickinson, Dr. John J. Doyle, G. Bruce McNair, and H. Walter Wright. One of the Scout troops, No. 86, is to meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the St. Stephens Evangelical church, 1043 North Crawford avenue, to plan its Good Fellow basket.

There is plenty of time left to be a Good Fellow. Call Superior 0100 to obtain the name of a family that has been investigated and found worthy of your gifts. Then fill in the coupon accompanying this story or visit in person the Good Fellow bureau at The Tribune's Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. These few days until Christmas soon will be hours—and unless you readers help hundreds of Chicago families will be without Christmas joy next Wednesday morning.

To learn more about the Good Fellow work listen in at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon to W-G-N. The Good Fellow editor will speak.

George Olsen Is Good Fellow

BROADCAST YULE CAROLS TODAY AT TRIBUNE TOWER

Christmas carols will be broadcast from loudspeakers on the Tribune Tower between 5 and 6 p. m. today, inaugurating W-G-N's fifth annual street program of Yuletide music.

The opening program contains such old favorites as "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," "Silent Night," "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage Together?" from the "Messiah," "Panis Angelicus," and English, Belgian, and Italian carols. The Edgewater Presbyterian church choir will sing, assisted by Mark Love, basso; Leonard Salvo, W-G-N organist, and the W-G-N concert orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber. The programs will be given each day through Christmas.

The first fifteen minutes of the program will be broadcast over the regular channels as well as over the loudspeakers on the tower.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY TODAY

Christmas holidays for public and parochial school children of Chicago will begin at dismissal time today and will continue until Jan. 6, a total vacation of 16 days.

Final Christmas programs will occupy most of today's school hours, while at 1:30 p. m. carolers from the elementary schools and the Lindblom High school's A Cappella choir will sing in the rotunda of the board of education offices at 223 North La Salle street.

Lunchroom attendants from all the public schools will gather at the National Restaurant mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, at 7:30 p. m., for their first annual Christmas dinner. They will have a Christmas tree, favors and dancing.

CROWDS IN LOOP CONTINUE EARLY CHRISTMAS PACE

Stores Prepare for Jam Tomorrow.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

With snow adding an exciting touch to the setting, buying Christmas throngs again filled the loop yesterday and brought joy to merchants' hearts by sustaining the volume of purchases begun earlier this holiday season.

"They're the old-time crowds," one merchant said. "Everybody's buying. The only difference between the volume of buying now and that of Christmas 1928 is explained by the fact that their purchases were higher priced then.

Busy Saturday Expected.

"There is a fine spirit in the stores, the salespersons, who are much more numerous than last year, reflecting the attitude of the customers. We are betting that Saturday's crowd will excel last Saturday's in volume buying, and that Monday's will be bigger than last Monday's.

"The heavy early buying is being sustained. Two items are well out front, books and toys. They've gone crazy over books. Reprints of old books now selling for popular prices are going like hot cakes.

A reporter wandering through the stores found every department being invaded by gift buyers. A man was seen poring over a counter of cook books with an expression of hopefulness. A middle aged woman in expensive furs was listening raptly while a young man clerk explained that a book she wanted was "quite sentimental but nice."

Praise for a Clerk.

In a section gay with cellophane wreaths, poinsetta flowers of red and white, blue Christmas tree ornaments and Christmas seals and ribbons, a woman was saying to a clerk: "You are most awfully nice and patient."

"He's a natural, isn't he?" said a man in a crowd of adults watching a Santa Claus greet children held by their mammas hands.

One little girl who voiced a frequently heard demand for quintuplets was accompanied by her father. When Santa Claus saw the lone man among so many mammas, he cried out, "Hello, pappa."

While men appeared to flock in large numbers to counters where standbys such as perfume were sold, many shoppers were more venturesome. A woman looked a salesman coldly in the eye and demanded to see an electric razor, which she said she thought would save her husband time.

A sensibly dressed business man wearing rubbers and carrying a brief case appeared unmoved when a salesgirl coyly held up before her person a pair of black and gold pajamas. He tracked to another part of the lingerie section, was seen to peel off a large bill, and order a daringly negligee pink chiffon hostess gown.

INDICTMENT OF CANN AS SLAYER OF LIGGETT NEAR

Case Is to Be Put Before Grand Jury Today.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—An indictment charging Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld with the murder of Walter W. Liggett Dec. 9 was being drawn late today.

The indictment was prepared as state and county attorneys completed preparations to place the case in the hands of the grand jury tomorrow.

Liggett, weekly newspaper publisher who for months had been conducting a campaign against an alleged political-criminal alliance in Minneapolis, was pierced by five machine gun bullets as he parked his car in the alley in the rear of his apartment.

Try to Steal Evidence.

H. H. Peterson, attorney general, today revealed an effort to steal the evidence he has gathered in the case. A prowler broke into his office during the night, but files in the case, "hidden somewhere in the department offices," the attorney general explained, were not found.

A side door leading into the department offices had been sprung and there were marks indicating the invader had used a chisel, Peterson said. The records, on which Peterson and his assistants worked until 10 p. m. last night, were concealed on the chance some such attempt might be made, he said.

Will Call Six Witnesses.

Only six witnesses will be summoned before the grand jury, Frederic A. Pike, assistant attorney general, and Peter S. Neilson, assistant county attorney, said.

Chief of these will be Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the publisher, who saw her husband shot down and who identified Cann as the slayer, and Wesley Anderson, salesman who has told police he saw Cann in the killer's car as it entered the alley just before the shooting.

Mrs. Liggett today called upon the members of the legislature by letter to "end the alliance" between government and crime in Minneapolis.

Believe Auto Is Wrong One.

As investigators continued their examination of an automobile used by Cann on the day of the slaying the opinion grew that the car was not the machine used by the Liggett killers. Marks on a fender and on a door which the slayers' machine struck did not compare, investigators said.

Meyer Shuldberg, president of Chesapeake Brands, Inc., who owns the machine, said he allowed many persons to use the car and that all the fenders were more or less damaged.

Police and experts called in were still carrying on their examination of the car. Microscopic scrutiny of marks on a window sill was planned to determine whether they could have been made by the barrel of a machine gun.

Andersch told police today after viewing the car that it looked like the one which nearly ran him down in the alley a few moments before the shooting occurred.

Text of Her Letter.

The letter Mrs. Liggett wrote to members of the legislature said in part:

"Ten days have passed since the terrible murder of my husband, Walter W. Liggett.

"Nothing has been done to end the alliance of politics, rackets, and crime which flourishes brazenly here with the knowledge and coöperation of public officials.

"Apparently, officials of Minneapolis are helpless against this group, either through ignorance, fear, or actual control of these officials by the criminal element.

"The Hennepin county attorney's office, the attorney general's office and any other who might want to make a complete investigation are prevented from doing so at present by lack of funds and investigators.

"I appeal to you as members of the highest governing body in Minnesota to end this situation. I ask that you take immediate and effective action to see that the murderers of Walter Liggett are brought to justice, not alone the firing squad, but the gasping, conscienceless criminals behind them who planned and directed the murder."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

On the Hot Potato.

December 19, 1935.

FARMERS who want to plant a patch of potatoes for home use apparently will not be affected by the Agricultural Adjustment administration's potato amendment, according to information reaching the Tribune experimental farms, where there has been speculation over what should be done about the new spud law.

Apparently other farmers had been wondering about how much they would be curbed in planting their little family sized potato patches in the spring. The college of agriculture, University of Illinois, says: "People can plant their front lawns and any other ground they wish in potatoes, grow just as many potatoes as they please, and give away as many as they can without any restrictions or penalties whatsoever under the potato act."

That is what the university experts understand from a statement sent to the school by AAA officials.

The college experts also understand that growers of potatoes can sell up to the limit of their tax free allotment without any restrictions or penalties from the act. They think most of the misunderstanding regarding the act arises from a failure to distinguish between "production" and "sales."

"Very few of the potatoes reaching the consumer's table will have had the tax assessed against them," the experts add.

They explain that restrictions on sales of surplus potatoes are imposed in the form of a stamp tax at the rate of 45 cents a bushel for all potatoes sold above the producer's tax free allotment. The tax free allotment for each producer is determined on the basis of his average annual sales during a specified "base period." This means that Illinois producers will be able to sell close to the usual amount of potatoes without paying a cent of tax, according to the interpretation given the law by the state college of agriculture.

"Since no Illinois potatoes will be subject to the tax until the 1936 crop comes on the market next summer, farmers and growers will not have to concern themselves with the act until the 1936 growing season," the college statement adds.

The AAA amendment provides that 226,600,000 bushels of potatoes may be sold tax free in the potato allotment year which began on the first of December.

AAA officials explain that the law does not intend to tax the normal supply of food. "The theory which motivated the act is that the tax would prevent the sale of excess potatoes and that such sales in the past have lowered prices and brought distress to growers," these officials say.

Consumers may avoid paying higher prices that may result from the act by planting a patch in their own back yard or garden.

Government men point out that if the potato act is successful in its purpose the ordinary supply of potatoes will not be affected by the tax and the ordinary consumer will not be aware of the operations of the act.

The federal government announced a few days ago that the quotas for potatoes imported into the United States during the potato allotment year just begun were set at a total of 2,777,000 bushels.

Canada's quota for the year is 2,750,180 bushels, while China is not allowed to ship more than 1.1 bushels of potatoes to the United States, according to the federal allotment table.

CUT IN EVANSTON BUS FARE CHARGE IS RECOMMENDED

A motion that the present rate of fare on buses of the Evanston Railway company be reduced to the level in effect before an increase three months ago, was made yesterday by Lee A. Freeman, attorney for the Illinois commerce commission, at a hearing before the commission. Aroused by the failure of Charles F. Speed, president of the company, to appear when the case was called, Freeman asked that the old rate be restored pending conclusion of the case. When the company substituted buses for street cars last summer fares were increased from 5½ cents to 7 cents for adults. The present case is on the petition of the city of Evanston to have the old rate reinstated.

Jay C. Merchant Receives Waukegan Assessor Files

County Clerk Russell H. Alford of Lake county yesterday turned over the records of the office of assessor of Waukegan township to Jay C. Merchant, his successor in the latter job. Merchant was named assessor by the Waukegan town board on Dec. 6 after Alford became county clerk, following a ruling in his favor by the Illinois Supreme court against Lew Hendee, the former clerk.

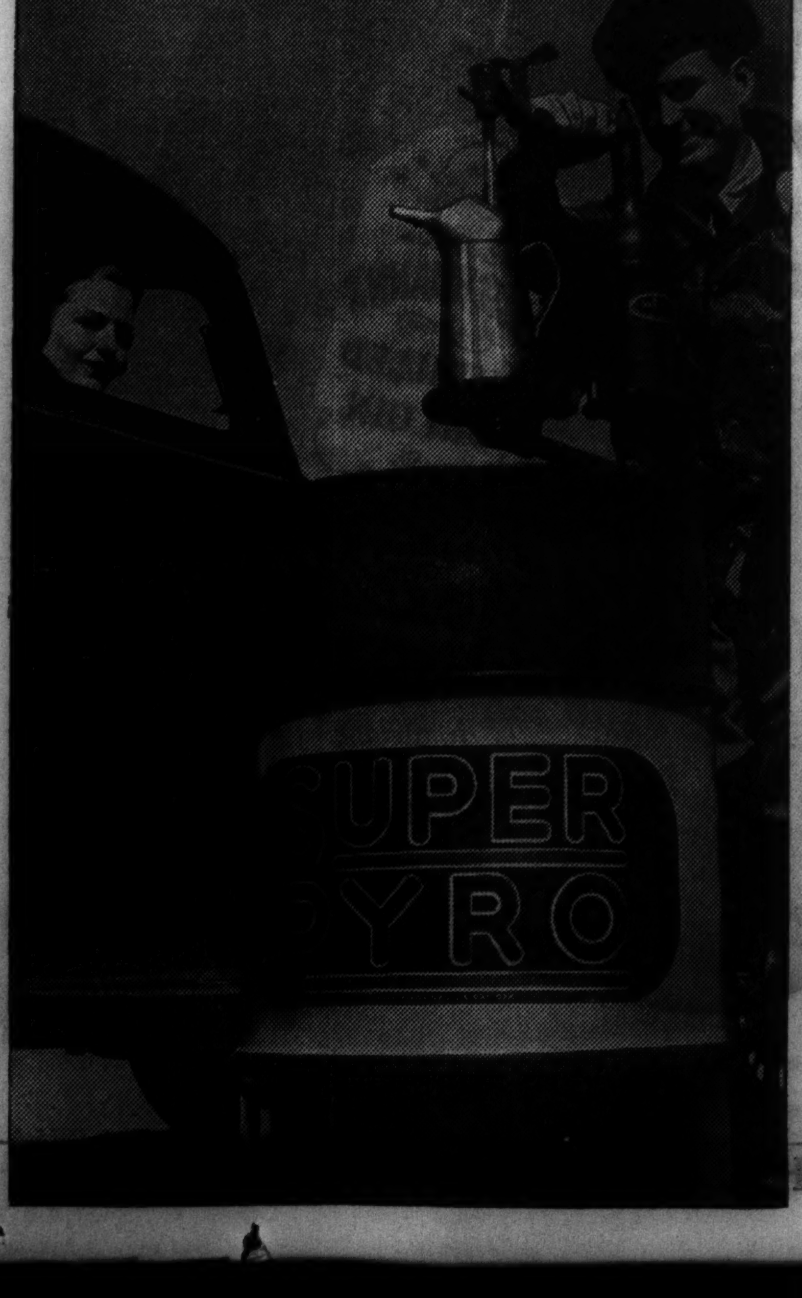
This IS THE ANTI-FREEZE THEY'RE ALL ASKING FOR!



60,000 Leading Service Stations Recommend SUPER PYRO Because It Stops Rust and Lasts Longer!

AGAIN this season, the big swing is to SUPER PYRO . . . the anti-freeze that was used to protect more motor cars last year than any other "premium" product.

SUPER PYRO does more than safeguard your automobile against costly freeze-ups. It actually stops rust and corrosion of all the important metals in the radiator, engine and thermostat, and keeps the whole cooling system free from clogging and overheating. SUPER PYRO is 100% concentrated anti-freeze and protects to lower temperatures. It contains a secret ingredient which results in less evaporation and more lasting service.

Yet, SUPER PYRO is not expensive! It costs only a few cents more than ordinary denatured alcohol.

Today, drive to your nearest dealer displaying the "Old Man Winter" symbol and have him put in a quart or two of SUPER PYRO to guard against this sudden cold spell. Then, have him check your radiator solution regularly and add more SUPER PYRO as needed.

WORKS PROGRAM MONTHLY COST IS QUARTER BILLION

Hopkins Sees Fund Lasting Until March 15.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Taxpayers' money is being spent at the rate of a quarter of a billion dollars a month under the works relief program, Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins revealed today.

Hopkins said that his WPA financed with $1,078,000,000 has made work for 2,678,629 needy persons. He estimated that other government agencies, engaged in spending the 4 billion dollar easy money fund, had employed another 825,000 persons in the week beginning Dec. 9, pushing the job total over the 3,500,000 goal of the administration.

Plans Up to July 1.

He estimated that WPA money would last until around March 15 at the present rate of spending 250 millions a month. He said PWA jobs were costing the government about $65 a month apiece including wages, cost of project materials, and administrative expenses. He added he would seek to obtain enough money from the unexpended balance of the 4 billion dollar fund to keep the WPA at full force until July 1, the beginning of the 1936-'37 fiscal year.

Hopkins refused to discuss the works outlook after that date. He explained that the future is in the hands of the President, with the preparation of the budget. He would not discuss his recent conferences with the President on relief and works relief needs.

Hopkins said that his job estimate figures were not official, adding that they might be off 25,000 jobs, "one way or the other." He expects to have official figures ready shortly.

Refers to Hoover's Criticism.

Asked about former President Hoover's recent criticism of the works relief program Hopkins tartly replied that the criticism "should be considered in the light of what Hoover did for the unemployed between 1929 and 1933."

Hopkins confessed that the relief rolls had not declined as rapidly as had been anticipated as the works job goal was reached. A WPA report yesterday showed that relief rolls in 145 cities had dropped only an average of 9.4 per cent in November as compared with October.

He said that depletion of individual resources and growing winter needs had tended to keep relief rolls up. A sharp drop is expected in December, however, because many of those put to work in November were carried on the relief rolls until they got their first WPA pay, he said.

PORTER DIES AFTER FALL.

William E. Douglas, 63 years old, 2343 Cowper street, Evanston, died in the Norwegian American hospital yesterday of injuries incurred in a fall Oct. 29, in a loop store where he was employed as a porter.

FIND EASIER JOBS FOR 600 UNFIT TO SHOVEL FOR WPA

'Recreation Supervisors' to Guard School Pupils.

Because a number of the men assigned to WPA pick-and-shovel projects are physically unable to do that type of labor, a special "dumping ground" of 600 jobs has been established to provide less arduous work for them, it was revealed yesterday by Dr. Martin H. Bickham, Illinois labor management director for the WPA.

"Many of the men on pick-and shovel projects have serious physical handicaps," Dr. Bickham said.

Some Conceal Disabilities.

"Most of them concealed their disabilities when enrolling for WPA employment, although some may not have known about their disabilities because they never did physical labor before."

The men will be transferred to work as "recreational supervisors," watching children at play in school yards to see they do not get hurt, and will act as trafic policemen at school crossings when the children are going to or leaving school.

Discusses Pay Check Situation.

Reports that all WPA workers would receive paychecks by Christmas regardless of the date on which their pay period ends were denied by Ralph Burke, deputy WPA administrator for Illinois. Burke said that the workers whose payroll periods ended last night or earlier would get their checks by Christmas and that some whose pay roll periods end tonight might also get checks. He indicated that checks for later pay periods could not be delivered before Christmas.

An invitation to all professional musicians who are working on WPA projects to apply for work on music projects, offering better pay than most other kinds of WPA work, was issued during the day by Albert Iver Coleman, state director of WPA music activities. The WPA has not found a sufficient number of musicians on relief to fill all places in its bands and orchestras.

Ernst Buehlow Appointed Sanitary District Counsel

The board of trustees of the Sanitary district yesterday appointed Ernst Buehlow as attorney for the district. Mr. Buehlow has been a member of the board of education for four years, serving as its vice president during the last year. He is a former assistant state's attorney and from 1922 to 1934 was counsel for the Swiss government in Chicago. The appointment fills a vacancy caused by the death of William H. Rothman last December.

FITZGERALD RAPS PWA REJECTION OF HOSPITAL JOB

U. S. Turns Down Michigan Asylum Project.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Another turndown at the hands of the Public Works administration, which has shown little favor to Michigan proposals, particularly those advanced by the Republican state administration, prompted Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald today to bitterly criticize the federal agency.

A grant of $410,000 had been asked to augment a state allocation of $500,000 for construction of an addition to the Ypsilanti State Mental hospital. The governor was informed by his budget director, George Thompson, that PWA officials had told him that the Ypsilanti project could not be considered at this time, as all available funds had been allotted.

Raps Health Surveys.

"It seems," said the governor, "that PWA officials are willing to spend money in a health survey to tell us how many of our people are sick, but are unwilling to aid in providing facilities for their care."

The executive said that it was the second similar instance, PWA officials previously having refused assistance in the construction of a tuberculosis sanatarium at Gaylord on the ground that there were too few skilled workmen in the vicinity to build the institution.

Such excuses, Fitzgerald said, are typical of the attitude federal authorities have taken toward Michigan's requests. While making no direct charges he inferred that Michigan's coolness toward the New Deal after the Democratic landslide in 1932 probably explained the situation.

Refers to Fish Pond Projects.

"The federal government has money to improve fish ponds and make trafic surveys which will grow musty in state files," the governor said, "but it refuses money for lasting state projects." His reference to trafic surveys is believed to have been a veiled jibe at Murray D. Van Wagoner, one of two surviving Democratic holders of major state offices. His department was recently allocated nearly $1,000,000 for such a survey and most PWA allocations in Michigan have been for highways.

The governor said the state will go ahead with enlargement of the Ypsilanti hospital without federal aid but the reduction in the amount to be spent from a contemplated $910,000 to $500,000 will mean that the number of extra beds provided will be reduced from about 800 to not more than 300.

INTENDED ROBBER SEIZED IN CHASE.

VALUE OF CRANE ESTATE JUMPS TO 25 MILLION

Liquidation Started; 45 Employes Get Shares.

Distribution of $275,000 among forty-five personal employés of the late Richard T. Crane Jr. was made this week by executors of his estate, records of the Probate court disclosed yesterday. Mr. Crane, who was president of the Crane company, died on Nov. 7, 1931.

The payment marks the first step toward liquidating the estate, the value of which has increased from an estimated $5,000,000 at the filing of an inventory in April, 1932, to more than $25,000,000 at the present time.

The five-fold jump in value has been due to the strategy of the executors in keeping virtually intact a block of 986,141 shares of Crane company common stock and 4,936 shares of preferred stock which Mr. Crane held at the time of his death.

Stock Goes from $5 to $26.

Crane company common stock, which was listed yesterday on the New York Stock exchange at $26 a share, was down to $5 when the estate inventory was filed. Every one point rise in the common stock has meant an additional million dollars in value to the estate. The estate's 4,936 shares of preferred stock, valued at $443,623 when the inventory was filed, now have a market value of $587,384.

During the four years the estate has been in probate, the executors have succeeded in paying $3,180,537 inheritance taxes demanded by the federal government and various states. These were met by selling stock holdings other than Crane company shares. All income from the estate was used toward this end and toward paying other claims.

Retention of the Crane stock by the executors has potentially enriched 6,030 employés of Crane company plants throughout the world, who are to share in a distribution of 96,000 shares of stock under provisions of the will. This distribution is on the basis of ten shares of stock for the first ten years of service and an additional share for each additional year up to twenty-five. For each year beyond twenty-five years of service, two shares are to be awarded.

Heirs to Receive Shares.

During the past four years nearly a hundred of these employés have died, records show. When final distribution is made the heirs of these will receive the stock, according to Attorney Raymond Ashcraft, who represents the estate.

Assignments of bequests to the heirs in seventy-five such cases were filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. They are to be recorded today.

Complete liquidation of the estate in accordance with terms of the will may be completed next year, Attorney Ashcraft said. After all specific bequests are met the balance will be placed in trust for the widow, Mrs. Florence Crane, and two children, Cornelius and Florence.

Six Chicagoans Benefit.

Of the forty-five personal employés who shared in the $275,000 distribution just made, six were with Mr. Crane in Chicago. The others were employed at Castle Hill, the Crane estate near Ipswich, Mass. Each received an amount equal to the total wages received as a Crane employé.

The six here are Edith D. Carr, a secretary at the Crane residence, 1550 Lake Shore drive, who received $5,290; Kate Sime, a maid at the same address, awarded $15,824; Albin Johnson, chauffeur, $24,255; Richard Sweningson, houseman, $19,301; Henry Baismore, cook on Mr. Crane's private railroad car Nituna, $9,841; and George W. Pickett, porter on the car, $14,613.

Executors of the estate are Cornelius Crane, John K. Prentice, and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

'ADMIT GUN AS 'LOVERS LANE' DEATH EXHIBIT

Paxton, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The shotgun with which the state claims Oscar Rick was shot to death in a "lovers' lane" trap was admitted into evidence today at the trial of Martin L. Young on a charge of murder.

Judge Clyde L. Thompson ruled the 20 gauge weapon should figure in the proceedings after a hectic round of arguments. Defense Attorney Melville Boddie vainly contended it was not admissible because it had been taken away from Young in Oklahoma City without a search warrant.

A capacity crowd, predominantly feminine, sat in the courtroom while prosecution and defense argued the point. The inscrutable defendant, an Oklahoma oil driller, paid close heed. A stone's throw away, in a jail cell, was his wife, Margaret, who also has been indicted on murder charges.

State's Attorney Sidney Dilks has promised to prove Young ended Rick's life with five shots from the gun last Aug. 24 after Rick had been lured to a lonely country road by Margaret Young. He has declared he would show Young committed the slaying because his wife had revived a romance with Rick when the Youngs returned to Gibson City, Ill., last summer for a vacation.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Just a Tadpole

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

There seems to be one phase of the New Deal [and only one] that suits Herbert Hoover. That is the Roosevelt radio technique. If you heard Mr. Hoover from Elko, Nev., the night he closed his 1932 campaign and again last Monday from St. Louis, you would hardly believe that the same man spoke on both occasions. From Elko you heard him at his worst; last Monday at his best. His three years' sojourn in Palo Alto have brought a tremendous improvement in his microphone manner.

In the old days his radio talks were dull and stodgy. Long and involved sentences were filled with unnatural crescendos that he certainly did not feel. There was little warmth and friendliness in his voice. His best friends used to tell him, but he made little if any adjustment.

All that is changed now. Mr. Hoover certainly hasn't copied the Roosevelt technique, but he has developed one that is suited to the part he is playing in the national scene. He speaks in a straightforward, conversational tone. He exhibits a lot of gusto and heartiness, cracks an occasional joke. He sounds as if he enjoyed it. He has licked the microphone and made it his friend.

On Monday night he ran seven minutes over the time he was originally allotted. That was not a miscalculation, however. A few hours before he was to go on the air Hoover's representatives contacted NBC asking for additional time. The sponsor of Frank Simon's Ironmaster band, who was to follow, was consulted and good-naturedly yielded what additional time was needed. Thus NBC was spared a last minute decision of forfeiting $1,000 or so in revenue [approximate time charge if they had cut into Simon's time without asking] or whacking Mr. Hoover off right in the middle of his windup.

Mary Pickford's new program is now definitly set for NBC, to begin on Wednesday, Feb. 5. America's Sweetheart [if she still is] will be hostess in a program originating in her Hollywood home, to be titled "Pickfair Parties" with celebrities as guests. It will be aired at 9 p. m. following the Fred Allen hour.

Ethel Shutta will make a guest appearance with Jack Hylton's troupe at 9:30 Sunday evening on CBS. Ethel will sing a new ditty, "Sound for Me, Please-A" by Henry Russell and Murray Martin, two members of George Olsen's orchestra, and "Where There's You There's Me," and "Sleepy Time in Topsy Turvy Town."

Igor Gorin, featured baritone on the "Hollywood Hotel," program, has been engaged for a leading part in the picture version of "As Thousands Cheer." He will also become the vocal soloist on the Burns and Allen program beginning in February. Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers will give a preview of their next picture, "Follow the Fleet," on the "Hollywood Hotel" show a week from tonight.

Jack Oakie paused between trains here the other day en route to New York, where he is to star in "Applesauce" on the Radio Theater next Monday evening. Best radio story he told was one about a new Hollywood vogue. When the stars go to football games they carry along a new fangled battery-operated midget set. If they don't like the way the local game is going they tune in some eastern game on their pocket radio. Carl Laemmle Jr. started the fad, according to Oakie.

G. M. REYNOLDS, FORMER STATE SENATOR, DEAD

Ottawa, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—George M. Reynolds, 73, former state senator, treasurer of La Salle county from 1918 to 1922, and one time prominent banker, died early today at his home at Utica following a week's illness. Funeral services will be held in Utica Saturday afternoon.

Born in La Salle county, Reynolds was graduated from Illinois Wesleyan university and later was a school teacher. He organized the Utica State bank in 1915 and served as its president until several years ago. He was a Republican.

Steel Manufacturer Found Gravely Wounded in Office

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—William C. Hulshizer, president of the Howard McCalla company, steel manufacturers, was found tonight in his office at the mill here, with a bullet wound above the heart. Detectives who investigated, said he had attempted to commit suicide. Surgeons at St. Mary's hospital said his condition was critical.

Fred Brown Found Dead; Spanish War Vet Leader

Sterling, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Fred E. Brown of this city was found dead in his cabin several miles east of here today. A veteran of the Spanish-American war, he organized and was first president of the Sixth Illinois Reunion association. He was past state commander, department of Illinois, of the Spanish War Veterans.

GEORGE BUCKLEY, EX-PUBLISHER, BANKER, IS DEAD

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—George D. Buckley, 55, former newspaper and magazine man, who was on leave from his position as a vice president of the National City bank and the City Bank Farmers' Trust company to help the New Deal, died today at his home here of a heart ailment after a ten day illness.

Mr. Buckley was born in Washington, Ia., and completed his formal education at the University of Chicago, from which he was graduated in 1906 after winning fame as a football player.

He went to work with the Chicago Telephone company upon his graduation, and in 1914 joined the Crowell Publishing company, of which he became president in 1917.

In 1923 he became publisher of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, and remained with that organization until 1925, when he joined the National City bank staf.

There he remained until February, 1934, when he obtained leave of absence so that he might become special assistant to Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, in charge of the newspaper and publishing division on the NRA. He went on to a position as deputy administrator of the Federal Housing administration, with which he was working at the time of his death.

GEORGE ROMNEY, MORMON CHURCH LEADER, IS DEAD

GEORGE ROMNEY.

George S. Romney, 61 years old, president of the northern state mission of the Mormon church, 2555 North Sawyer avenue, died yesterday of a heart attack in Rockford, Ill., where he was engaged on church business for the day. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, also at 2555 North Sawyer avenue. The body will be sent to Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mr. Romney, who lived at 2545 North Sawyer avenue, came to Chicago from Salt Lake City in 1931 to take charge of mission work for the Mormon church in the middle western states. His wife and ten children survive.

MRS. KATE T. PECK LEAVES $100,000; CHARITIES AIDED

The will of Mrs. Kate Tyrrell Peck leaving most of an estate estimated at $100,000 to three nephews, two nieces and several friends was admitted to probate yesterday. Mrs. Peck, member of a pioneer Chicago family and known for her philanthropic activities, died Oct. 11 at the Rest Haven sanitarium in Elgin. She was 80 years old. Mrs. Peck was the widow of Bronson Peck.

To the Fellowship Settlement house, 829 West 33d place, in which she was active since its founding 40 years ago, Mrs. Peck left the property on which the settlement is located, the premises themselves, and several parcels of adjoining property. The will also provided a trust fund of $3,000 to maintain the property.

The will also provided that $5,000 be given the Exeter hospital at Exeter, N. H., to create and sustain a "Tyrrell Memorial room" in honor of Mrs. Peck's parents, John and Caroline Tyrrell. Mrs. Peck resided in Chicago at 25 East Walton place.

WOODRUFF TELLS JARECKI'S IRE IN HOME BANK CASE

George Woodruff, former chairman of the board of the National Bank of the Republic, resumed the witness stand yesterday in the court of Superior Judge Donald S. McKinlay where fifteen former directors of the defunct Home Bank and Trust company are seeking to have set aside a judgment of $970,139 entered against them on a million dollar note they signed five years ago.

Several of the directors, including County Judge Jarecki, have testified they signed the note as "an accommodation" to Woodruff during the formation of a new bank and in the belief they would not be held liable on the note.

Yesterday Woodruff told how Judge Jarecki "scolded and shook his finger at me" when the judge and the other directors were informed they would be held liable for the note. Woodruff explained, however, that Judge Jarecki's anger was occasioned by the failure to sell the stock in the new bank, proceeds of which were to be applied against the note.

Conviction of Emblen Set Aside on Technicality.

The conviction of Arthur Emblen, Gary hoodlum, on a charge of assault to murder Eli Daiches, advertising agency executive, later slain by gunmen, was reversed yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court at Springfield. Emblen was found guilty by a jury before Judge Grover C. Niemeyer in the Criminal court last June 25 and was sentenced to one to 14 years in the penitentiary.

The state charged that Emblen entered Daiches' office on Jan. 24, 1933, and beat him on the head with a revolver. Daiches was killed March 3, 1934, by other men as he was being driven away from his apartment in the Sherry hotel, 1725 East 53d street.

Reversal Based on Trial Delay.

Emblen was arrested Oct. 19, 1934, in Gary, but was not brought to trial for eight months. In reversing Emblen's conviction and ordering him freed from the county jail, the Supreme court held that he had not been tried within the statutory period.

Irving Weitzman, owner of a chain of south side bakeries, was convicted of inspiring the murder of Daiches, at a trial last February, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. The Supreme court recently reversed the conviction and remanded the case for another trial.

Judge John C. Lewe in the Criminal court heard arguments yesterday on a motion for bond for Weitzman pending his retrial. This motion was opposed by Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle and Judge Lewe said he would rule today.

Piccolo Pete's Plea Denied.

In another decision yesterday the Supreme court affirmed the conviction of Peter [Piccolo Pete] Pace for the slaying of Patrolman Patrick J. Ryan of the Shakespeare avenue station on Aug. 8, 1933. Pace was sentenced to serve 199 years in the penitentiary after a Criminal court jury heard testimony that he shot the policeman when the latter refused to drink a glass of wine in a tavern at 3328 Armitage avenue.

The court reversed the conviction of James C. Pentis, former treasurer of the village of Brookfield, who was sentenced to one to fifteen years in the penitentiary last March after being found guilty of embezzling $3,900 of the village funds. The state charged that Pentis, while treasurer of Brookfield from 1923 to 1934, bought up special assessment bonds of the village from holders at a discount and redeemed them with village funds at par. The conviction was set aside on the ground that the prosecution had not shown the profits which Pentis allegedly realized were owing to the village.

The convictions of Rudolph Pisani, Arthur Sway and Allan Siegal for the torture kidnaping of Harry Welch, Toledo clothing merchant, in Chicago, on June 14, 1934, were upheld by the Supreme court. Each of the three men had been sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary. The state proved at the trial that Welch was kidnaped from a hotel and tortured when he could not raise $2,000 ransom. He escaped when he was taken to a restaurant by the trio.

Frank S. Hellemann, convicted in the Criminal court several months ago for the alleged embezzlement of $16,525 from the Pacific State Life Insurance company, of which he was vice president, was granted a new trial by the Supreme court.

INJUNCTION AGAINST FILLING ILLINOIS CANAL UPHELD IN SPRINGFIELD

The Illinois Supreme court at Springfield in a decision yesterday affirmed the ruling of Judge Joseph Burke of the Cook county Circuit court enjoining Patrick E. McDonnell from filling in that portion of the old Illinois and Michigan canal which crosses his farm. McDonnell, who is 93 years old, has lived all his life on the farm at 35th street and Kedzie avenue.

The state department of public works filed suit against McDonnell to enjoin him from filling in the basin. Judge Burke, in granting the injunction, held that the state has not formally abandoned the old canal.

In upholding Judge Burke's decision the high court said: "The canal was a part of the navigable waters of the United States and could not become otherwise, regardless of its physical condition and unnavigability, without an act of congress."

New Unit Heats Planes on Ground as Well as in Air

A pre-heating unit which will introduce warm air to the cabins of Transcontinental Western Air's Douglas DC-2 liners while they are on the ground, has been installed at all terminals, it was announced yesterday by the company. The regular steam heating apparatus which keeps cabins comfortable in the air does not function on the ground, it was explained, and passengers have complained that cabins in winter are cold during the first few minutes of flight. The preheating unit is so built that it will act as an air cooler during summer months.

Detroit Amnesia Victim Found in Station Here

Mrs. Ruth Ensign, 35 years old, wife of Dr. Dwight Ensign, staf physician of the Ford hospital in Detroit, was found in the La Salle street station yesterday morning, apparently the victim of loss of memory. She was taken to the women's annex at the detective bureau. Dr. Ensign, who arrived here last night, took his wife to an unannounced private sanitarium.

POPE GIVES RED HATS AND RINGS TO 16 CARDINALS

[Special to the London Daily Telegraph and The Chicago Tribune.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 19.—With the gorgeous traditional ceremonial of a public consistory, Pope Pius today gave red hats to 16 of his 20 newly created cardinals. Four papal nuncios at Madrid, Vienna, Warsaw, and Paris, who also were elevated to the cardinalcy Monday, will receive their insignia in their own capitals.

St. Peter's cathedral was packed for the ceremony, the vivid renaissance costumes of the papal guards contrasting with the black of the clergy and the nuns who formed a large portion of the congregation.

Sits on Portable Throne.

From the high loggia above the main doors a fanfare of silver trumpets, blown only when the pope is present, announced the arrival of the pontiff from his private apartments. Amid the fluttering of handkerchiefs and cries of "Long live the pope," he was carried shoulder high down the central aile in his red and gold chair of state.

When he had taken his seat on the papal throne, 13 cardinals were assigned to usher in their newly appointed colleagues. Each new cardinal, accompanied by his train bearer and attendants, prostrated himself three times before the throne, kissing the pope's foot and hand.

Pius embraced each cardinal and kissed him on both cheeks. The new princes of the church then received embraces, kisses, and congratulations from their brother cardinals. The final rite was the bestowal of the red hats. Then each cardinal returned and knelt again before the papal throne.

Alfonso in Audience.

Former King Alfonso of Spain and his son, Prince Jaime, were among those who witnessed the ceremony from the diplomatic stand.

The public ceremony was followed by a final secret consistory at which the new cardinals received their sapphire rings. The pope, symbolically sealed and unsealed the lips of the cardinals. Addressing each in turn he said, "I seal your lips." Then he again passed down the line of cardinals and pronounced the words, "I open your lips."

The first formula imposes secrecy regarding affairs of the holy see and the sacred college; the second modifies the silence so as to permit the cardinals to speak freely in congregations of the church and on other occasions when their advice is required.

TELLER GIVES UP; SAYS HE'LL PAY BACK SHORTAGE

Clarence E. Jensen, 25 years old, former head teller of the Chicago branch of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, surrendered yesterday before Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. Jensen is under indictment on charges of embezzling $15,000 from the company.

CLARENCE JENSEN.

He was immediately released under $5,000 bond and his case was assigned to Judge Joseph Burke for trial. Ignatz Spitz, Jensen's attorney, said $11,300 of the money has been returned and he promised that complete restitution would be made.

CONTINUES BUS LICENSE CASE.

Judge Eugene J. Holland yesterday granted a continuance until Dec. 30 to William Kavanaugh, 6728 Odell avenue, charged with operating a bus in the Sauganash subdivision on the northwest side without a city vehicle, bus, or public chauffeur's license.

BERLIN DEMANDS DEATH FOR 7 REDS WHO KILLED NAZI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—Seven death sentences were demanded by the public prosecutor today in a trial before a Berlin court of 25 Communists.

The Communists are charged with conspiring to raid a Nazi beer hall in Neukoelln, suburb of Berlin, on Oct. 13, 1931. The owner of the beer hall was shot to death and three Nazis were wounded in the raid.

The public prosecutor further demanded 15 years' imprisonment for three other defendants, as well as 12 years' imprisonment for one, 10 years' for three, and sentences ranging from three to six years for 10 others.

'MASS MURDER' SLAYER OF SIX IS FOUND GUILTY

Port Orchard, Wash., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—A jury today convicted Leo Hall, 33, former Seattle athlete, of first degree murder in the mass slaying of six persons during a robbery at Erland's Point, and recommended that he be given the death penalty.

Hall's co-defendant, Peggy Peterson Paulos, was acquitted. She was the prosecution's key witness and said she was forced by Hall to aid in the robberies, but took no part in the slayings.

The two were specifically charged with the murder of Eugene Chenevert, one of the six persons who were beaten, hacked, and shot to death during a party March 28, 1934. The other victims were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flieder, in whose home the slayings occurred; Mrs. Peggy Chenevert, Fred Holcom, and Magnus Jordan.

During the trial Hall was described by Prosecutor Ray R. Greenwood as a "beast, a menace, and a madman, not fit or safe to be alive." It was charged that he took his robbery victims into a room one by one and killed them to insure their silence.

He Sees Red in a Crash but He Looks Blue After

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 19.—(AP)—John Garbur, motorist, crashed into the rear of a black truck, stopped by a red light. The truck was loaded with barrels of blueing and Garbur was drenched from head to foot. Physicians said his indigo complexion would just have to wear off.

Roast Loin of Pork Tip to Housewives

The committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago issued the following report for the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores:

"Prices of most cuts of fresh pork have declined during the last week to the low levels reached in the early part of November, which were the lowest in recent months. Roast loin of pork is recommended to Chicago housewives as an attractive meat buy over the coming week-end."

TRIBUNE RECIPES

GRAHAM FIG MUFFINS.

¼ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
1 cup graham flour
1 cup white flour
2 eggs, well beaten
⅞ cup milk
4 teaspoons baking powder
⅔ cup chopped figs
¼ teaspoon salt

Sift the baking powder, sugar, and salt with the white flour and combine with the graham. Combine the beaten eggs, milk, and melted fat and stir into the dry ingredients quickly. Do not attempt to attain a smooth batter. Now add the chopped figs and blend speedily through the mixture. Turn into buttered muffin pans and bake in a hot oven [450 degrees F.] for fifteen minutes.

SCALLOPED EGGS AND OYSTERS.

3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
1½ cups milk
4 hard cooked eggs, sliced
½ pint oysters
½ cup buttered crums
1 tablespoon minced parsley
⅜ teaspoon salt

Make a white sauce of the first three ingredients. Add the parsley. Cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with a thin layer of the sauce. Arrange a layer of sliced eggs, then a layer of oysters, and another of eggs. Pour the remainder of the sauce over all, sprinkle the top with the crums, and bake in hot oven for about fifteen minutes [425 degrees F.] or until the crums are brown.

SNOW PUDDING.

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 egg whites

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve it in the boiling water. Add the sugar and lemon juice, and chill until it starts to congeal. Now add the salt to the egg whites and beat them until stiff. Beat this into the pudding until very light, put the mixture into the refrigerator, and chill until set. Lightly pile several large spoonsful of the fluffy pudding in the sherbet glasses and serve very cold.

BANANA STUFFED APPLES.

½ cup sugar
½ cup boiling water
4 apples
1 banana
2 teaspoons butter
4 marshmallows

Make a sirup by boiling the sugar and water together for three minutes. Core the apples and fill the cavities with thinly sliced bananas and arrange in a baking pan. Pour the sirup over them and bake about half an hour until tender in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. When done, dot each apple with butter and baste with the remaining sirup. Top each apple with a marshmallow and return to the oven to brown.

CHOCOLATE MALTED PIE FILLING.

2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup chocolate malted milk powder
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups hot milk
1 tablespoon butter

Sift together the chocolate malted milk powder and cornstarch and add to the beaten eggs. Combine with the hot milk and butter and cook in the top of a double boiler for twenty minutes, stirring occasionally. Chill and pour into a baked pastry shell. Top with whipped cream if desired.

WINTER FRUIT SALAD.

4 oranges
2 bananas
Chopped nuts
4 slices canned pineapple
1 package cream cheese

Arrange four lettuce leaves on each salad plate with stem ends meeting in center. On one leaf place sections from one orange, which have been freed from enveloping membrane; on second leaf place one-half banana cut in four fingers, which have been rolled in juice saved from oranges and then in chopped nuts; on third leaf place one slice of pineapple cut in 4 or 5 pieces; on fourth leaf place 4 or 5 small balls of cream cheese, made by moistening cheese with orange juice and rolling balls in grated orange rind. Serve with mayonnaise which has been blended with an equal amount of orange juice.

CANDIED ORANGE, LEMON OR GRAPEFRUIT PEEL.

Use firm, ripe fruits. Cut them in half and scoop out the pulp. Save this for fruit salad or fruit juices. Cut peel into strips. Cover the peel with cold water, bring it to a boil and then drain the skins. Repeat this process six or seven times to take out the bitterness and change the texture of the fruit so that it will take up the sirup without shriveling.

For each pound of peel, make a sirup of 2 cups or sugar, 2 tablespoons corn sirup, and 2 cups of water. Corn sirup helps to give a nice gloss to the fruit. Use enough sirup to cover the peel without crowding it in the kettle. Boil the peel in the sirup until white spots form on the peel and the peel is clear, then let it stand in the sirup overnight or for several hours. Reheat the mixture, then remove the peel, drain it, roll it while warm in granulated sugar, and place it, skin side down, on a plate or a cake rack to dry. Store the peel between layers of waxed paper in a tightly covered tin box.

CRANBERRY CAN TOUCH UP MEAL ALL YEAR ROUND

Some Ways to Use It Tastily.

The tart and spicy cranberry can add magic touches to the most prosaic of meals and is fast becoming one of the season's favorites.

Several years ago the cranberry played only a small rôle in winter menus. Out it stepped for a bow at Thanksgiving time, usually in the form of a sauce. Up it popped again at the Yuletide season, perhaps as a shimmering red jelly. And then it was forgotten.

Now the cranberry is eaten for breakfast, for lunch, and for dinner in one form or another. As a chilled juice for breakfast, it is refreshing and a welcome change. In a salad, its lovely color peps up the most languid of appetites. For dinner it may be served in a chilled frappé for dessert or cocktail course, and is equally delicious in a hot pudding.

In case you have forgotten some of the possibilities, here are a few suggested recipes:

CRANBERRY JUICE

4 cups cranberries
4 cups water
2-3 cup granulated sugar.

Cook the cranberries in the water until all the skins pop open, about 5 minutes. Strain through cheese cloth, bring again to the boiling point and add the sugar. Continue boiling for several minutes and then chill.

CRANBERRY FRAPPE

4 cups cranberry juice
⅔ cup pineapple juice
1-2 cup chopped nutmeats
1-2 cup grated pineapple
1-3 cup raisins
1 egg white
½ teaspoon almond extract.

Freeze cranberry and pineapple juice to a mush. Stir in the fruits, nuts and flavoring. Fold in the beaten egg white and freeze for a few hours. Serve in sherbet glasses garnished with mint.

BAKED HAM AND CRANBERRIES

1 cup cranberry sauce
Slice of ham, 1 inch thick.

Sear both sides of ham in hot frying pan. Remove to baking dish, cover with cranberry sauce. Place in moderate oven. Baste occasionally. Bake 30 to 45 minutes until tender.

STEAMED CRANBERRY PUDDING

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup bread crums
½ cup brown sugar
¾ cup suet, chopped fine
1 cup cranberries, chopped
1 egg, well beaten
1-3 cup milk.

Combine the ingredients in the order given. Turn into a greased mold, cover with lid or wax paper and steam two hours. Do not allow water to come more than two-thirds of the way up the sides of the mold. Serve with vanilla or hard sauce.

Canned Quartet Special in Quality.

BY MARY MEADE.

You probably have heard by now about the new soup quadruplets one manufacturer has added within the last few weeks to his already famous family. And we hope you've not only heard about 'em, but already have smacked your lips [delicately or otherwise] over their goodness.

The vegetable-beef quad is, in our opinion, the prize of the lot. Honestly, it has that real old fashioned home made taste, rich with beef broth, and thick with tender chunks of beef, vegetables, and barley. It even looks home made—its color is a genuine meaty brown and there has been no attempt to pretty it up with fancy cut vegetables, unnaturally bright in color. It's just a good, honest, hearty soup, and we think you'll like it.

The cream of mushroom is our next favorite, maybe because we're overly fond of that particular soup. At any rate, it gets our vote because it's full bodied, creamy, and it has a real mushroom flavor. The mushrooms aren't quite as finely chopped as they are in some other canned soups, either, which, to our notion, adds more interest to the "feel" of the soup.

Much as we usually cheer for the products of this firm, we aren't quite as enthusiastic over the new cream of tomato soup as the rest of the lot. However, it does have a nice color, you may approve its flavor more heartily than we did, and—you can heat it indefinitly without its curdling! And that's a point, you must admit, if you approach cream of tomato soup, home made, with ever recurring qualms.

The subtle seasoning of the noodle soup should earn it a great deal of popularity. It's a sparkling, clear soup, richly golden in color, other points in its favor besides that deft blending of flavors. The noodles are tender and long and just sufficiently unmanageable to be interesting.

In all, we predict a bright future for the quartet. You may not agree with our particular rating scale, but you're pretty sure to approve them as a lot and singly.

When Ladies Meet

IMPORTANT things are discussed. That marvelous cranberry and orange relish may be the interesting topic—Here's how it's made:

CRANBERRY ORANGE RELISH (No Cooking)

The aristocrat of relishes.

1 pound cranberries, 1 to 1½ oranges, 2 cups sugar. Put cranberries through meat grinder. Pare orange with sharp knife, remove seeds; trim off white membrane (leaving the pulp exposed on the surface). Put rind and pulp through grinder, mix with sugar and berries. Let set a few hours before serving. For future use pour in glasses, cover with paraffin.

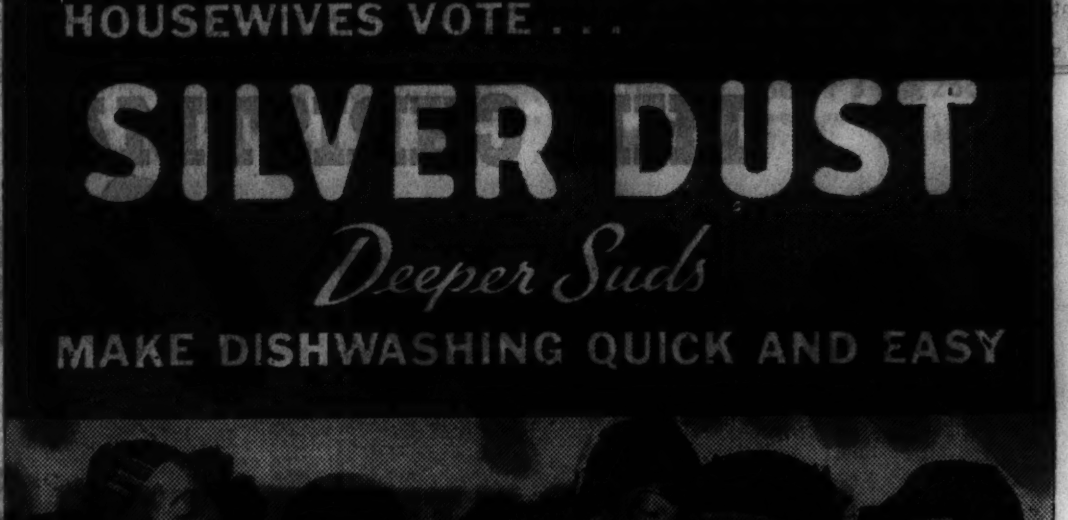
Deeper Suds

MAKE DISHWASHING QUICK AND EASY



CONVINCED BY DISHPAN TEST, women voted "Yes" on these three vital questions: 1. Do you want plenty of suds? 2. Do you choose your soap by depth of suds? 3. Are you convinced that Silver Dust deeper suds make dishwashing quick and easy?

DEEPER SUDS! Richer, creamier, full-bodied suds! Suds that make dishes sparkle, glassware glisten. That's Silver Dust . . . and here's the test that proves it:

First, a level teaspoonful of another packaged soap is put in a dishpan with a half pint of warm water. Next, the soap is swished around with the fingers for fifteen seconds. Then both water and suds are poured into a quart jar. Now the same thing is done with Silver Dust. See the deeper, richer, full-bodied Silver Dust suds. They make dishwashing quicker, easier. Prove it yourself. Try Silver Dust today. It's a real bargain, there's a full pound in every package. And remember that Silver Dust will keep your hands smooth, white, youthful.

EXPECT YULETIDE TURKEY TO COST 27-36c A POUND

Quality Good; Retailers Begin Their Buying.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Turkey for Christmas dinner may cost about the same or slightly less than at Thanksgiving. THE TRIBUNE weekly survey revealed that until yesterday few retailers had bought their supply of holiday birds, although Christmas is less than a week away. Most of the retailers are now shopping in the wholesale market, buying their supplies and have not yet announced the prices they will ask for turkeys.

Reports indicate that most of the Christmas turkeys have been started on their way from the producing sections to the central market. Growers received prices ranging from 15 to 23 cents a pound for live turkeys, depending on grade and quality. Turkey handlers say that the supply of turkeys this year is less than last, and that fewer Christmas turkeys are coming to market than had been anticipated. The quality is reported to be much better than it was at Thanksgiving. The young birds are heavier.

Light Toms 30 Cents a Pound.

Chicago wholesalers yesterday were asking the following prices for turkeys: Light young toms, weighing less than 18 pounds, 30 cents a pound; young toms, more than 18 pounds, 28 cents; young hens, 30 cents; old hens, 27 cents; old toms, 24½ cents, and No. 2 birds, 23 cents a pound.

Market experts said that retail prices might be 3 to 6 cents a pound, or more, above the wholesale cost. The best guess that could be made on retail prices yesterday was that they would range in the neighborhood of 27 to 36 cents a pound on the various grades. Prime and choice birds would be proportionately higher.

With a good supply of turkeys in cold storage it is expected that there will be plenty of birds for Christmas dinners. On the first of this month there were more than 9 million pounds of dressed turkeys in cold storage in the United States. There are more than 19 millions pounds of dressed poultry of all classes including turkeys and chickens, in Chicago's cold storage houses. This supply, although ample, is approximately three million pounds less than the city's dressed poultry holdings a year ago.

Live Turkeys Are Available.

Live turkeys are available in Chicago for those who want to dress their own birds. They were selling here yesterday at wholesale prices ranging from 21 to 27 cents a pound, varying with grade and quality of the birds.

Charles E. McNeill, manager of the Chicago poultry board, reported yesterday that the movement of turkeys to Chicago is well under way. The peak will be reached Saturday and Sunday on the wholesale market.

Wholesalers expect retailers to crowd their places over the weekend, filling their orders for the millions of turkey consumers in the Chicago region.

In discussing the change in the buying practices of the retailer, Mr. McNeill said that nowadays the retailer first gets his orders from his customers for a Christmas turkey. Afterward he goes on the wholesale market where he selects the particular bird to fill a particular order. This has enabled the poultry board to develop standards and grades, he said.

Supply Suited to Needs.

"The supply this year more nearly fills Chicago's needs than at any time heretofore," Mr. McNeill added. "There is a turkey of quality suitable for every domestic need, and the weights will run from an eight pound hen to a twenty-five pound young tom."

Most fresh meat cuts will be offered today and tomorrow at about last week's prices, although some butchers have made reductions of a few cents a pound on the lower grades of beef roasts and the higher priced cuts of round and sirloin steaks. Cured hams are about three cents a pound higher in most shops than a week ago.

Live stock and wholesale meat prices have been bobbing up and down during the last few days. The best grades of fat steers advanced 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds over the prices of last week, while most other kinds of beef animals declined about an equal amount. Dressed beef prices on the wholesale markets are unchanged to as much as $1 a hundredweight lower than last week with the best carcasses showing the most loss.

Roast Pig for the Holiday.

The live lamb market advanced 25 to 40 cents a hundred during the week with wholesale prices showing an upward tendency. Live hogs declined slightly and wholesale cuts of pork loins dropped 50 cents a hundred. The traditional roast pig is expected to top the menu of many a Christmas dinner this year. "Slaughter pigs" have been much in demand at the stockyards this week, according to market reporters.

Many fruits and vegetables have been put on the bargain counters for holiday shoppers. Cranberries, celery, oranges, grapefruit, head lettuce, sweet potatoes, broccoli, carrots, apples, green peas, and baking potatoes are included.

Low grades of eggs and flour are on sale in most stores. Butter is up one cent a pound from last week.

DICK TRACY—A Call from a Country Grocery

TURKEY SALAD.

2 cups cooked turkey
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
1 cup diced celery
⅓ cup toasted almonds
2 tablespoons capers
2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives
2 tablespoons chopped mixed pickles
2 hard cooked eggs, sliced
¾ cup mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients lightly and serve on lettuce or watercress.

TURKEY SUPREME.

1½ cups cold diced turkey
¾ cup crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup pecan meats, chopped
¾ pint whipping cream
1 cup mayonnaise

Combine the turkey, pineapple, and nuts. Whip the cream, fold in the mayonnaise, and fold the turkey mixture into the cream mixture. Turn into freezing tray and freeze for 2½ to 3½ hours.

ESCALLOPED TURKEY.

2 cups cooked turkey
1 cup turkey gravy
Cracker crums
Bread crums

Over a layer of seasoned cracker crums in the bottom of a baking dish, place the turkey cut into small pieces. Pour the gravy over this and sprinkle buttered bread crums on top. Bake in hot oven [400 degrees F.] until crums are brown.

Meat Highly Digestible Unless Improperly Cooked

Contrary to many old theories, meats are highly digestible. The speed of digestion is influenced by the amount of fat. Persons with sluggish digestions should avoid the very fat meats and eat the leaner kinds. Overcooking makes meat less easily digested.

CHRISTMAS EVE SHOULD BE FREE OF HARD WORK

Last Minute Rush Robs Day of Fun.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Of course you could learn by experience—often sad experience—some of the things I tell you about. But, since I [or others] have been through many of these things before you, why not act on our suggestions occasionally and make things run more smoothly? Especially around this holiday time, which is what I am thinking about now. Besides, generally speaking as well as especially speaking, intelligent people don't always operate on a trial-and-error system.

As far as today's advice goes, I'm afraid I must confess that it will be a case of "do as I say and not as I do!" Having belonged to a family that has always made much of Christmas I have usually found myself sewing, or trimming the tree, or decorating the house, and actually staggering to bed on Christmas eve—or rather in the wee small hours of Christmas morning.

But my advice is—don't you do it. It is easier to avoid this hecticness and tiredness when the children are older, but when they're little and there are a thousand things to do, it's not so easy.

Do try not to have the day before Christmas so rushed that you can't think or feel how nice it all is. Try not to have it so full of last minute things that you're all played out when it's time for the children to get their Christmas eve bath, and hang up their stockings with leisure, and be tucked in full of "I wonder what he's going to give me," while resolving to keep their drowsy eyelids open to see their beloved Saint Nick and his eight tiny reindeer.

You can get so exhausted, if you do all your own work and take care of your children [and even if you don't] the last day or so before Christmas and then feel quite let down on Christmas day.

So try to manage the cooking and the decorating and the wrapping and the surprises for the children's stockings in advance, so you're not breathlessly busy on the day or two preceding Christmas.

CHURCH ERECTED IN 1857 BURNS IN DU PAGE COUNTY

A landmark was lost in Warrenville, Du Page county, yesterday when fire destroyed the Warrenville Baptist church, Jefferson and Batavia roads, which was erected in 1857. The fire, of undetermined origin, started about noon and the flames consumed the frame building within an hour. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

William Farrell, janitor, said he built a fire in a new heating apparatus in the basement of the church for a ladies' aid society meeting in the afternoon. He said he had noticed no overheating in the equipment.

The church was organized by a group of settlers led by Mrs. Sarah Warren, a member of the family for whom the village was named.

HERE'S A RECIPE FOR CHRISTMAS SEASON PUNCH

CHRISTMAS WINE PUNCH

1 bottle of domestic port or claret wine
2 cups lemon juice
2 cups orange juice
½ pint of grenadine or any sweet fruit juice [grape juice or pineapple juice]
1 bottle of carbonated water
1 pint ginger ale

Mix all ingredients and pour into punch bowl with block of ice. Cherries, sliced pineapple, or oranges may be used as a garnish. The recipe makes about two gallons.

Milk Prices in St. Louis to Be Raised Penny Today

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Milk prices will be advanced here tomorrow to 12 cents a quart for regular grades and 15 cents for grade A. The increase is the second penny a quart rise in the regular grade since Nov. 1.

NEW GADGET FOUND FOR EASY WORKING OF PASTRY THAT STICKS

For those who have difficulty with pastry that sticks and cookies that simply will not roll out to the desired thinness, there's a practical aid now on display in downtown Chicago stores.

This equipment consists of a sheet of canvass to replace the bread board and nice little stockling-like jacket to slip over the rolling pin. After flour has been well rubbed into both canvass and pin covering, the dough rolls out beautifully and as thin as a minute, if so desired.

The pieces are sold in a set and come in bright colored Christmas wrappings. It's a good suggestion for a nice little gift, or an extra something to slip into mother's stocking.

This Technique of Makeup Is Rich in Result

Assures Refreshment of the Weary Face.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's happened to you, too, I'm sure. People have complimented you especially after you've spent a little more time on your makeup getting ready for an affair of some sort. It's happened that you've come home dead tired, and more tired because you met some one who told you that you looked tired. But you stepped in and got yourself ready for the dinner or cocktail party, or whatever it was you had to fix up for, and got surprising compliments on how well you were looking.

That's what taking a little time with your makeup does. It could just as well be done for every appearance, too. Let's go over the right makeup procedure that produces the rejuvenated look. Check up on the following program and see if you're getting everything out of the makeup minutes that you should.

Third—Applying your foundation cream and working it into the skin smoothly.

Fourth—Applying your paste rouge and working it from a point under the middle of the eye up and out toward the hair in line with the temples.

Fifth—Taking a generous sized powder puff and powdering fairly heavily over the entire face. With a fresh pad of cotton, or better, one of the tiny powder brushes, remove sur plus powder.

Sixth—Going over your eyebrows with a small brush to get all of the powder out. Good idea to brush the eyebrows up straight and then brush them down into line before you use any eyebrow pencil, darkening, or shading.

Then, if you're going in for eyeshadow, apply it, as seventh step, to the lid and work it in smoothly with a wee bit of cream as a base. Then put on your mascara, but only to upper lashes. Finally, the work of coloring the lips. Take time with this and get the coloring on smoothly and evenly. Touch the cheek rouge up a bit, if need be. And look the neck over to see that it is powdered as evenly and smoothly as the face.

Cactus Blossom.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Cactus Blossom" is slightly similar to "California Oak Leaves" and equally as ancient. It is a pattern the favorite color combination of which has been green and brown, ever since the design first was appliqued to unbleached muslin or homespun. Thirty applique and 20 plain blocks are required for an entire coverlet. It is finished with a three inch border to match the applique patches, bound in a half inch white binding or one matching the plain blocks.

HAROLD TEEN—TEAMWORK

Woman Curbs Prodigality of Liberal Mate

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

ELISSA LANDI.

This is the way he was cured. She was a smart woman who knew what she wanted and could think up ways and means for getting it. He had the reputation of being a good money maker and of being liberal and was rather proud of both. In his line of selling the commissions were large but irregular and for a man of his temperament this was not an advantage.

His upper lip was long and solid and the muscles at the corners of the mouth were good, but the lower lip was short. All this indicated that he had the go-getting aptitude and with little waste motion could procure what he needed in the way of business, but that he neglected to save money.

Having occasion to talk to the young woman cashier from time to time, he came to give more attention to her than he usually did to women. One day he discovered that he was in love with her. He did not have to put on much of a selling campaign to make her take him on as a life partner, but for sheer joy of showing off he spent quite a bit of money on her.

She tried to hold this within bounds but he would not let her; when they were married it would be time enough to follow her prudent view of economics. He did not intend to cut down on his personal expenses, of course, but her saving in the home would offset that, he thought.

They were married and everything looked fine to him at first. His trust in her as a frugal helpmate was soon shattered, however. She seemed to have become as careless as he was in money matters. The day he discovered that she had used the rent money to buy a party dress it came to a showdown. Well, what had he done with the money for his insurance, she asked.

The family exchecquer would never be healthy, she continued, unless they made a budget and both adhered to it strictly. After a few heated arguments, he agreed, but although he had to admit later the arrangement was good, he could not rid himself of a feeling that he had been "taken in." She merely laughed and declined the idea of any preconceived plan to reform him.

Elissa Landi's short upper lip and her nose, which turns up sharply, denote a temperamental and excitable mental condition. This is governed, however, by the composed and logical type of thinking which her straight and wide forehead indicate. Her sensitively pointed nose tip might tempt her to criticism of others, but her understanding of their troubles would make it friendly and sympathetic.

The Tribune has arranged with Mr. Westerberg to make individual analyses of its readers from a photograph, preferably a profile or three-quarter view. See coupon. Photo will be returned if sufficient postage and envelope large enough for photo are inclosed. A snapshot will do.

Thousands See Art Contrast at Institute Shows

BY MARCIA WINN.

Several thousand art lovers yesterday viewed the unparalleled [in Chicago] contrast between the "conservative" and "modern" in art as represented at the Art institute in two new exhibitions.

The fabulous treasures shown in the exhibition of Rembrandt and his circle drew many "first dayers," including Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Potter Palmer, and Max Epstein, owner of Watteau's "Portrait of a Young Sculptor," which is having its first American showing in the current exhibition.

Equally popular, however, and far more provocative of comment and controversy alike was the Fernand Léger exhibition in an adjoining gallery, for here, in a colorful array that would be the lasting delight to the paint manufacturers, are the products of the leading "cubist" of today, who also has founded the "new realism."

"Wonderful! Wonderful!" exclaimed Robert J. Wolfe, sculptor, standing in ecstasy before the gallery of admittedly meaningless pictures. "Only a true artist can appreciate it!"

"Well, I don't know," spoke up a white haired woman, peering at "Composition with Aloes," a bright canvas on which three twisted spikes, a battered helmet and half a violin were arranged. "I taught art for 20 years, and I ought to be able to appreciate this, but I can't."

"Well, there's one I can understand," a slim, mustached young man said, pointing to "Luncheon," one of the two paintings in the show built around a "subject" rather than "invented objects." "That's easy enough—three femmes havin' tea."

"Yes, but this?" inquired a woman, indicating "Disks," a geometrical arrangement of colored circles, rectangles, triangles, trapezoids and what have you.

"Ah," he said. "That's just a game table hung up on a wall. Didn't you know?"

Carol Neff Is Owner of Doll House Shown at Hospital Benefit

No matter what she gets for Christmas ten year old Carol Neff of River Forest cannot be one-half as excited over it as she was the other day when she heard that she was the owner of the lovely big doll house exhibited at the Grant hospital bazar at the Fortnightly last week. The house is a reproduction of Mount Vernon, but the furnishings are not like those that surrounded Martha and George Washington; they are more modern and probably much more to the liking of Carol than those of the earlier period would be.

A little over $5,000 was cleared for the hospital by the bazar, which was managed by Mrs. Frank S. Porter and Mrs. Frederick L. McNally.

Holiday Whirl for Debutantes to Open Today

Three Large Functions Will Be Given.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS year's debutantes are faring even better than their older sisters have done for some years, for not since pre-depression days has there been so much entertaining during the Christmas holidays for the young girls who are entering adult society as there is this season.

I do not think there will be a single debutante who will have a meal, other than Christmas dinner perhaps, with her family during the next ten days, for the buds have engagements for luncheon, tea, dinner and late supper every day from now until after New Year's. No young lady who has danced until early morn could be expected to join her mother and father for breakfast even by the most stern parents!

The holiday season is starting today with three large parties, a tea, a dinner-dance and a ball, and several smaller affairs. Three young women will be presented formally today, Miss Elise [Peggy] Clow, Miss Katherine McLennan, and Miss Carlotta Lagorio.

Miss Clow will make her bow at a ball at the Blackstone to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. Clow of Lake Forest.

Miss McLennan will make her debut earlier in the evening at a dinner-dance at the Casino at which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. McLennan of Lake Forest, will be host and hostess.

Miss Lagorio will be presented at a tea to be given by her father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Lagorio, at their home, 442 Wellington avenue.

Dinner Parties to Precede Ball.

Every one in the debutante circle and quite a large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Clow will end the evening at the Blackstone. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr. are giving a dinner at the Arts club for those of their friends who are going on to the ball, and Mr. and Mrs. Clow Sr., the debutante's grandparents, will entertain a few of their friends at dinner at the Blackstone before going upstairs to the ball. Miss Clow, one of the most popular buds of the season, spent nine months traveling abroad last year with Miss Stout's school.

Miss McLennan, also a popular debutante, was a traveling companion of Miss Clow's last winter. Mr. and Mrs. McLennan and their daughter will receive at 8 o'clock at the Casino. Miss Nanette Harrison of Minneapolis, a former schoolmate of Miss McLennan at Dobbs Ferry, is here for the party visiting the McLennans.

Miss Lagorio, who returned from her studies at the Bennett Junior college in Millbrook, N. Y., on Wednesday, has asked several debutantes to assist at the tea tables. They include the Misses Patricia Forsyth Kelly, Mary Alice Bacon, Caterina Bolognesi, Eleonore Thompson, Joan Ford, Barbara Soper, Madelon Search, and Anne Lynch. Another assistant will be Miss Betty Hoerr of St. Louis, who is visiting Miss Lagorio. Receiving with the debutante and her parents will be her grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Triner.

AN amazing animal story to come to attention is that of a friendship that existed between a Persian cat and a bluejay, both pets of Elizabeth Orton-Jones, the young Highland Park girl whose color etchings are on exhibit at the O'Brien galleries. The bluejay was an orphaned baby she picked up in the woods during a summer in a country village. She kept the bird out of the cat's reach during the day without difficulty and at night, because the baby bird had to be fed bread and milk from a match stick every time it cried, she kept it beside her. This meant that Pedie, the cat, was ousted from his couch at the foot of Miss Orton-Jones' bed. However, Pedie cried so hard outside the closed door she finally let him in, keeping an anxious eye on him and Bobo, the bird. To her surprise his interest was limited to a few curious sniffs. The following day Pedie preferred lying beside the little bird's nest to going out of doors.

Bobo grew large enough to sit on a perch and a great friendship had developed between cat and bird. They seldom left one another and would sit together in the sun for hours, Bobo preening Pedie's tail with his beak, Pedie washing the bird's face with his tongue. Afterward they went to sleep, the bird between the cat's paws or sitting just above him on the back of his wicker basket. The cat became protective toward the bird, and when a stranger entered the house would stand beside his small friend arching his backing and spitting ominously.

After Bobo was full grown Miss Orton-Jones decided to release him. She took him to the woods and let him go, walking home slowly and sadly. When she arrived home Bobo was sitting on the front doorstep squawking to get in and Pedie was on the other side of the door waiting. She tried to release him in the woods several times and always the bird was home before she was. Then he began accompanying her to the village, flying along from tree to tree beside her. He never outgrew his babyish squawking for food when he was hungry, and when Miss Orton-Jones left for the city in the fall she gave Bobo to a kindly man who trained wild birds as a hobby, fearing the bird could never fend for itself.

SOME one wrote in yesterday asking how to pronounce "profiles," and that same day there fell into our hands the little sheet called Word Study, for December, with a piece on the subject on the front page. Thus does Providence sometimes come to the aid of a casual columnist. The piece follows:

Answer—Profile is a versatile word; the lexicographers allow three distinct pronunciations: with the i as in ice, with the i like the first e in eve, with the i as in ill; in all cases with accent on the first syllable. Webster prefers the first pronunciation, but allows the second; the third will be found listed in section 277 of the guide to pronunciation in Webster's new International dictionary, second edition.

A NUN of the Sisters of Mercy told the story to Frances Baker. One day two of the sisters were hurrying down the corridor in answer to a floor light when they heard an incredulous 3 year old exclaim:

Through the Looking Glass

In the beauty salons of the department stores you can hit on one of the swellest of Christmas gifts, one that involves the least shopping hustle and bustle for yourself and insures gratitude on the part of the girl friend for a long time to come. Just ask for a gift certificate that can be used for a series of facials, or maybe a course of body treatments or even take care of her inevitable shampoos, finger waves, trims, and manicures.

The woman who can march into her favorite beauty shop and get what she wants, whether it be a new and exciting coiffure or perhaps, in a frivolous moment, a bright lackering of her toe nails without digging down into her funds for it feels like a pampered daughter of the gods. All she has to do is flash her gift certificate and have the cost deducted from its original sum. And you can be dead certain that each time she has a beauty service she'll heap blessings on the head of the donor who selected such a grand gift.

Then there is the matter of permanents. A good one is a thoroughly practical gift, but by its very nature as a beautification it's got the feminine luxurious touch. Some of the shops are specializing in permanents at special rates at the moment—which is a distinct advantage to the gift giver.

A certificate for one would charm many women, and seems to us particularly suitable for those consistently unselfish ones, the ones who deny themselves luxuries all the year round. They're the darlings on whose heads we'd like to see lovely, luxurious, definitly unsensible gifts showered. The mother of a flock of children, for instance, who wouldn't spend the house money on herself, is the very one who'd get the biggest thrill out of a gift certificate for facials, a permanent, or shampoos.

Sixth Symphony of Miaskowsky a Superb Work

Composer Inventive Both in Melody and Rhythm.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The apocalyptic Sixth Symphony of Miaskowsky was far and away the most imposing item of last night's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Its dire chromatics were the foundation pieces of a program structure whose lighter materials ran to Gluck, Wagner, Dohnanyi, and Wolf-Ferrari.

Musically the symphony is superb. Although one could never learn to love it in the simple but passionate way that the Brahms Fourth can be loved, the great zest and never failing inventiveness of its four broadly planned movements make it a work of absorbing interest. Miaskowsky is as resourceful rhythmically as he is prodigal of melodic idea. An example is the striking second theme of the opening movement, with its curiously placed triplet in quarters.

I respectfully disagree with those who find any but the most superficial kinship with Tschaikowsky in Miaskowsky's character. His idiom and his very language are marked off from those of the older master by as wide a gulf as that which yawns between the social and ethical schemes of things under which the two worked. The composer of this portentous E Flat Minor Symphony is as modern as the soviet dream. He is entirely without the leavening influence of the west.

If you agree with this last statement you will agree that the symphony is as foreign philosophically to the western mind as such other unflinching products of Russian genius as the novels and plays that have been translated in such great numbers into English these last few decades.

The Russian mind is a stern and realistic mind, capable of rearing great towers of thought on the shaky ground of a single premise. There is little saving humor in the mortar that binds the stones. As the fusing of the cultures of the world goes on more rapidly, these Jerichoes may tumble to the sound of laughter rather than horns.

The bit from "Orfeo" offered a good opportunity to study in detail the remarkable string tone of the orchestra and to revel in a not too hasty way in the beauty of Liegl's flute. The man has mastered a tone quality that is nothing less than celestial. Gluck's grateful tunes are a severe test for an orchestra, despite their apparent simplicity. This open hearted music offers no convenient hiding places for technical blemishes, no sonorous climaxes where the race is to the lusty rather than the skilled.

Dohnanyi's "Minutes Symphoniques" were repeated. They are fast gaining a place in the orchestra's regular répertoire, for this made the third performance in the space of a month or a little more. The five unassuming movements won a spontaneous burst of applause from the audience.

The puzzling "Dance of the Angels" from Wolf-Ferrari's "Vita Nuova" opened the program, and Dr. Stock's concert arrangement of the "Siegfried" finale closed it. This was the first Wagner the orchestra has played since the composer's four field days late in November, when the concert version of "Tristan" was performed.

Francis Hackett Sues; Says Film 'Henry VIII.' Pirated His Biography

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Francis Hackett, the author and historical biographer, filed suit today in United States District court charging that the English talking picture, "The Private Life of Henry VIII.," in which Charles Laughton was starred, had been based on his own interpretation of Henry's personal habits.

This interpretation, which appeared in "Henry VIII.," copyrighted in 1929 by Horace Liveright, Inc., was the result of years of research, according to Mr. Hackett, and it threw a new light on the life of the English king.

The defendants in the action are Alexander Korda, producer and director of London Films Production, Ltd., and the United Artists corporation. Mr. Hackett asks for an accounting and an injunction.

The suit is unique in that it is the contention of the plaintif that, though the life of the English king may be within the public domain, plagiarism was committed in the picture because it was a presentation of Mr. Hackett's new interpretation of Henry's life.

Velvet Gifts Are Legion in Smart Shops

Used to Decorate Clothes for All Occasions.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Some of the best gift ideas this year come in velvet! Many of the most feminine creations to glorify daytime as well as evening clothes come in ravishing shades of flattering velvet. High, clear colors and soft alluring pastels in deep piled velvets and in smooth and glorious high sheened textures fashion the season's most delectable costume accessories.

Every one knows the charm of tub velvets, the rich gleaming lengths of material that make the loveliest of high fashion nightgowns, also the flattering bedjackets in the same color as the nightgown and then trimmed with feathers or marabou dyed to match the velvet.

Lounging robes of opulently thick padded and quilted velvet are sensational finds in the negligee departments, especially in such becoming colors as red, sapphire blue, topaz and the luscious pastels and what is, this Christmas, a pictorial winner, ivory white velvet hostess gowns trimmed with fluffy white marabou.

Adorably feminine, padded velvet bedjackets come in the jacket model and the newer and more interesting cape idea, and in all colors.

Velvet neck scarfs are legion, from the very effective striped velvets in ascots to the half triangles of gayly printed velvets and plaids. These are the color accents you use for street wools and all daytime as well as knitted clothes. Other velvet ideas include gloves in practically every shade of high fashion; bags in pouches, in flat smart box effects, in slim sophisticated envelopes and small oblong shapes; padded bead boots to match the padded bed jackets; bows to hold tricky dress necklines in position; lingerie cases, in sets of three, and flattering small boudoir capes for very young dance dresses and the longer highly spectacular evening capes lined with contrasting colored velvet. These are but a few of the velvet finds for any appreciative velveteer on your list.

Fashion photograph . . . navy blue sprinkled with tiny white dots is the printed material that fashions the slim straight skirt. The fitted and tailored jacket is of white, with the ascot scarf of the blue dotted fabric of the skirt. One of the best of the practical models for daytime wear on a midwinter vacation under the sun.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feverel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse, Siwash. She was taking an early morning's ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, helps her friend, Inspector Piper, investigate. They suspect murder. Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had fallen. Mrs. Maude Thwaite and her husband, Rufus, are owners of the stable where Siwash is kept and Latigo Wells, manager. Maude Thwaite desired to own Siwash. At Violet Feverel's apartment Miss Withers and Piper overtake Violet's half-sister, Barbara Foley, about to elope with Eddie Fry, Violet's boy friend and a race track gambler. Violet was divorced from Don Gregg and had had him put in alimony jail. Thomas, who with his wife, Mattie, are old retainers of Don's father, Pat Gregg, comes in search of Violet. Old Mr. Gregg thinks he is going to die. Thomas hints at foul play. Don Gregg had been released from alimony jail on a fake writ before his wife's death, though he has an alibi and is not held. The medical examiner's autopsy reveals Violet Feverel was killed by a BB bullet which hit her throat. An expert tells Miss Withers that the "murder" pipe's owner had false teeth. She buys apples with which she hopes to find who among the suspects has false teeth. Piper and Miss Withers call at the Gregg home. Don Gregg is practicing rifle shooting as they arrive. Pat Gregg hints there may be a second murder after the big race on Saturday at Beaulah Park. Abe Thomas admits it was he who got Don out of jail. Latigo Wells is fired from Thwaites.

INSTALMENT XXXV.

OFF TO THE RACES.

A. V. Leonard, in addition to his report on Latigo Wells, supplied information to the effect that on Wednesday Mrs. Maude Thwaite had been seen posing for a large number of photographs in Central Park, mounted upon a large red thoroughbred. Her husband had been left in charge of the stables.

"The husband had a good grouch on, too," added Officer Leonard.

"Abe never rode a bicycle in his life!" insisted Mrs. Mattie Thomas, when discreetly questioned by Capt. Joel Tinker of the state police. "Wouldn't risk his neck on one of the things—but there is an old wreck of a bicycle around the place somewhere that used to belong to Master Don."

Nurse Rogers, when discreetly questioned by the above, gave it as her opinion that Mr. Pat Gregg needed a nurse about as much as a cat needs two tails. "Whatever he had he's over it now," she said.

Sergt. J. A. Howe, assigned to desk duty headquarters, reported that there were no automobiles stolen on Manhattan Island between the hours of midnight Saturday and 8 a. m. Sunday. "Nothing bigger than a bicycle," said the sergeant. "Some Western Union kid claimed his bike was pinched outside an apartment house on Central Park West while he was delivering a message. The bicycle was recovered in a smashed condition on the parkway in Central park at noon on Sunday. Probably he smashed it up and then claimed it was stolen so the company wouldn't hold him responsible.

"Abe never rode a bicycle in his life!—"

"We did have a report of one stolen car, but it was a phony," added the sergeant. "A hackee left his cab outside a Coffee Pot on 57th, early Sunday morning. He found it an hour later a block away probably some other driver noticed the key was in the dashboard and played a joke on him."

. . . .

On Friday afternoon Officers Brown and Ruseck of the special operations squad dragged thoroughly and with much profanity a small muddy pool hidden away in a corner of Central park, near the 86th street transverse. The results were:

One turtle [comatose].
Four rusty tobacco tins [empty].
One man's shoe [minus sole].
One wedding ring [Woolworth, non-tarnishable].
One whisky bottle.
Two pop bottles.
One small target-type air pistol [retail value $3.50 at any shop on West 42d street].

This booty, with the exception of the turtle, was carefully turned in as per instructions to the desk of Inspector Oscar Piper, homicide bureau, Center street.

At the hour when the rest of the world was sitting down to its evening meal, Sportswriter Francis Xavier McCarthy removed his shoes, yawned and moved sheets of yellow paper into his typewriter. He typed the heading "MAC SAYS —"

He lit a cigaret, threw it away, and continued: "Today Kingfish, quintuplets, and upside-down stomachs move off the front page to let the sport of kings get into the headlines. Even yesterday's murder is cold potatoes compared with the mystery of what nag is going to poke his nose first across the finish line at Beaulah park.

"Head Wind, Mrs. Julius B. Higginbotham's temperamental beauty king, is going to be an odds-on favorite, comes the word from the insiders. But the big sorrel is the bookie's delight, because until the starting bell sounds nobody on earth knows if Head Wind will run his race or sulk.

"If he feels like galloping, he'll have to run sideways to keep from flying. But that's a big if, boys and girls. He'll either be first or last, there's nothing halfway about Head Wind. And if he cuts up at the post the way is clear for any one of the other eight nags to come home with the bacon. Pick 'em by name, pick 'em by post position, or fold your program and stick a fork through it—you're likely to make a pile for yourself."

The inspector was reading this aloud from the Herald-Tribune to Miss Withers as they rode northward in a crowded race track special on Saturday morning. The train was a madhouse of excitement; massed humanity for this little while freed of its worries and fired with the chance—the wonderful, elusive chance—of something for nothing.

Oscar Piper wore a binocular case on a strap and was making notations on the margin of his newspaper. "As long as I have to be there anyway," he said. Only Miss Withers remained aloof from the contagion, for deep in her heart she knew that there was more than money at stake in this race of races.

"What are the odds on murder?" she kept asking herself.

"You can't go in there!"

A tall and soldierly figure suddenly stepped forward to bar their way as Miss Withers and the inspector were heading for the turnstiles of the west gate. They stopped, startled.

"This park is for sports, not for bloodhounds," said the big man severely. "I got instructions to keep all suspicious characters out, and that means you, inspector. Haw!" He extended a hamlike hand.

Piper's face lit up. "Tinker! You old horse-thief! Haven't seen you since you picked Judd Gray off the Albany train for us. Miss Withers, meet Capt. Joel Tinker, who stands for law and order in these parts. Think you'll let us in, cap?"

Miss Withers shook hands stiffly. "I wouldn't have you think I'm a race track tout," she informed him. "We're here on serious business."

"Me too," said Capt. Tinker hastily. He drew the inspector aside. "As long as you're going in, put five on Easter Bunny for me—to show. My kids always like Easter bunnies. See you here as you come out?"

"Sure!" said the inspector, accepting the five dollars. He led the way through the gate. "They're running some of the preliminary races now," Piper explained as they moved toward the grandstand with the hurrying mob. "We may as well slip into the restaurant for a bite of lunch while we have a chance."

Miss Withers was looking over his shoulder. "I said we might as well have some lunch!" he shouted.

"Lunch? I couldn't swallow for love nor money," she said. "I'm too excited."

"Excited over the race, Hildegarde?"

"Over the murder," Miss Withers told him. "And over my number one clew. You go and eat," she advised him. "I'll meet you by the door of the restaurant in half an hour."

"Wait!" cried the inspector. But Miss Withers was already out of sight in the scurrying crowd.

Good Morning!

Well, how about Christmas?

Are you all imbued with the Yuletide spirit? Busy and happy? Tickled pink over the bustle and excitement? Glad it's the time of year it is—and bent on making all you can of the season for everybody you know? [Which of course includes yourself].

Or are you a S—cc—rr—oo—ge! Chilled and chilling with selfishness? Impatient over added duties, and breaks in your regular routine? Giving because you "have to"—and, perhaps, not giving at all, either of gifts—or the cheer which means a darn sight more than anything else that you could offer?

Whichever class you belong in—there's a Christmas package containing something you need, all fascinatingly wrapped up in "Scrooge," the World Playhouse's picture of the week.

The film's an adaptation of Dickens' beloved "Christmas Carol," and is a moving and beautiful interpretation.

When I tell you that Sir Seymour Hicks, who plays the title rôle, has appeared in it no less than 2,000 times on the English stage and was knighted for his acting of the part, you'll agree that here must be a Scrooge as is a Scrooge. Certainly, it seemed to me that never before had I seen Dickens' cussed old miser live and blight and be blighted—AND regenerated, so convincingly and effectively as under Sir Seymour's masterly elucidation.

The players surrounding the star were cleverly chosen as contrasts and, under expert direction, the action slips engrossingly from mood to mood. With all its shrewd character drawing the photoplay has retained the elusiveness—the unreel reality of the author's "ghostly little book"—both as to the people of the story and their backgrounds.

A splendid, a timely film.

[And don't BE a Scrooge!]

Young People of Ethical Society to Give Benefit

The Young People's association of the Chicago Ethical society will give a benefit to raise funds for the work of Henry Booth house. The society started and has maintained for over thirty years this settlement at 701 West 14th place. The benefit will be held at Curtiss hall, the Fine Arts building, on Saturday, Dec. 28, at 8 o'clock. A feature will be a takeoff on a popular radio program. Trustees and members of the society will perform.

Woman's U. Club.

Holiday Whirl for Debutantes to Open Today

Three Large Functions Will Be Given.

Quite a few of the young people going to the McLennan party at the Casino will gather first in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark Renshaw at 1500 Lake Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Renshaw are entertaining at cocktails for Miss Barbara Hutchins and Miss Barbara Stanley, two of the most fêted debutantes of the season.

The latest party to be added to the long list of Christmas holiday festivities is a luncheon Mrs. Walter A. Strong and her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Towner K. Webster Jr., will give on Sunday the 29th at Mrs. Strong's home in Tower road, Winnetka, for the Misses Nancy Bastien, Mary Armstrong, Patricia Kelly, and Marjorie Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren Everett are entertaining at dinner and the theater tonight for Miss Patricia Forsyth Kelly, debutante daughter of the George A. Kellys. The Everetts will take their young guests to the opening performance of "Personal Appearance" at the Harris theater after dinner.

Holden-Linn Nuptials Today.

Miss Eleanor Weston Holden and Winfield Scott Linn will be married this afternoon in the drawing room of the Astor street residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Holden. Only the immediate families will witness the ceremony, which will be performed by Dr. Horace J. Bridges, but about 125 of the couple's friends have been invited to a reception immediately afterward, at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Holden, who came on from New York Tuesday for the wedding, will give his daughter in marriage. There will be no attendants. Miss Holden's brothers, Philip D. Holden and Hale Holden Jr., and the latter's wife arrived yesterday in time for the bridal dinner given by Mr. Holden last evening at the Casino, and today Miss Harriet McLaughlin is entertaining at luncheon for the birdal couple and members of their families.

Mr. Linn and his bride are going to Mexico on their honeymoon. Upon their return the latter part of January they will be at home in Mr. Linn's apartment in Fullerton parkway until spring. Then they are moving out to the charming, century old Linn homestead in St. Charles.

Morses Will Give Reception Dec. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hosmer Morse have sent out invitations to an at home on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 29, from 4 until 7 o'clock to meet Baron and Baroness Wolfgang Beck von Peccoz, their son-in-law and daughter. Baroness Beck has been visiting her parents for several months and her husband arrived on the eve of the Assembly ball. Right after the first of the year they are going south to cruise on the junior Charles Morse's new yacht. Baron Beck is obliged to return to Germany the first of February to do military service.

Mrs. Thomas Ludlam to Visit in Winnetka.

Mrs. Hobart P. Young's household in Winnetka will be quite a large one immediately after Christmas, for her great friend, Mrs. Thomas R. Ludlam, the former Mrs. Merrill Coit, is coming with her three daughters to spend the rest of the holiday season with Mrs. Young and her sons, Hobart Jr. and Chandler. Hobart is arriving on Saturday from Harvard and Chandler came home last Wednesday from Andover to spend the vacation with his mother.

Mrs. Ludlam, who was married in Rome last June, has been at her country home at Green Lake, Wis., since midsummer, and her daughters, Eleanor and Celia, have been with her. Miss Betty is attending Purdue this winter. Mrs. Ludlam and the girls will spend Christmas at Green Lake and the day after will come to Winnetka. Celia will return to the University School for Girls when the school opens after the Christmas vacation.

Tavern Club Builds Ice Palace for Children.

A glittering ice palace will enchant young visitors to the Tavern club a week from Sunday, Andrew Rebori has announced. A holiday party is being given for children from the infant stage on up into the teens, and for the occasion the artist and architect members of the club are joining forces to build the palace on the club terrace.

Although details concerning the castle are being kept secret, it is a known fact that 100 pound blocks of ice are being used in building it. After the children have inspected the structure there will be a program for them with Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady, a clown, a magician and a Punch and Judy show. For the club's grownup guests there will be eggnog and the usual Sunday breakfast.

At breakfast this coming Sunday Gladys George and the company of "Personal Appearance" will be guests, together with the Brock Pembertons.

Brunson MacChesney is arriving on Christmas eve to spend the holidays with his parents, the Nathan W. MacChesneys. On the 26th Mrs. MacChesney is giving a dinner for friends of her son who were at the University of Michigan law school with him, and on the 27th she is planning a buffet supper for another group of old friends. Young Mr. MacChesney is teaching government and international law at the Harvard university graduate school in Cambridge, Mass.

Christmas Parties for Subdeb Groups.

Winnetkans who are too young to be included in the parties for college students and debutantes are looking forward to holiday festivities of their own. The Fortnightly assembly will have its Christmas party this evening at the Woman's club, and tomorrow evening a somewhat older group will have a holiday dance there.

The North Shore Sophomore-Junior assembly, made up of students at the North Shore Country Day school, had planned its Christmas dance for next Monday, but on account of the Princeton Triangle show has postponed the party to the 30th. It will be held at the Woman's club.

The University School for Girls will have its Christmas dance tonight at the school. Miss Marion Riordon is chairman of the committee in charge. Also on the committee are Miss Jane Kreuscher and Miss Jean Enzinger.

Seats for Triangle Show Going Fast.

According to the latest news from the Princeton Triangle club headquarters in Chicago, all the main floor seats have been sold for the club's performance at the Auditorium next Monday night, and 200 applicants for main floor seats have been put in the balcony.

These members of the show who will not be visiting in private homes during their three day stay in Chicago, will stop at the Blackstone.

The North Shore auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center will hold the organization's annual benefit earlier this year, and instead of waiting until May, as the custom has been, a supper-dance will be held at the Casino on Feb. 15. Mrs. Lee Shedd of Evanston is chairman of the party.

There will be a Richardson family reunion with four generations represented, in Virginia over the Christmas holidays. John D. Richardson II. and his bride came from Denver to be here a few days with his sisters, Mrs. Walter Webb Crawford and Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer, before they all go south today together.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford are taking along their two little boys and the Spencers' 5 weeks old daughter, Georgia, also will make the journey. Georgia's brother, Freddy Jr., has been visiting his grandparents, the Ralph Richardsons, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. John D. Richardson, down there since last summer. There will be a dance at the Richardsons' home on Saturday evening to welcome the arrivals.

Arriving at home yesterday for the holidays from the Fountain Valley school at Colorado Springs, Colo., were Henry F. Hunter II., Holland and Jonathan Hunter, sons of Mrs. Henry Holland Hunter of the Whitehall; Paul C. Harper Jr., son of the Paul C. Harpers of Evanston; George W. Mead, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry C. A. Mead of Kimbark avenue, and Belding H. Scribner, son of the Carleton S. Scribners of Deerfield.

GASOLINE ALLEY—IS WALT'S FACE RED?

Suzette Morton Is Bride

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Fourth in Line to Wear Same Wedding Veil

Wearing a gown of the same ivory satin of which her mother's wedding gown was fashioned, Miss Suzette Morton yesterday became the bride of Ernest Alfred Hamill II. in the presence of just the families. The service was read at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Duncan Browne of St. James' church in the drawing room of the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Morton of 1260 Astor street. Following the ceremony there was a small reception at the Casino.

The bride and bridegroom took their marriage vows before an altar improvised in front of the south windows of the drawing room, which was lighted only by candles and decorated with calla lilies for the event.

The bride's gown was simply made with a wide bertha of lace that had been on her mother's, her grandmother's [Mrs. Heaton Owsley], and her great-grandmother's [the first Mrs. Carter H. Harrison] wedding gowns. The beautiful lace veil that fell from her head had been worn by those other three brides of the family, too. Yesterday's bride carried a bouquet of white camellias.

Miss Clarice Hamill, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill and sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Walter F. McLallen III., the bride's attendants, wore yellow moire period gowns and small net hats of periwinkle blue trimmed with feathers the same shade and carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Corwith Hamill, a student at Yale, attended his brother as best man, and Charles H. Morse Jr. had returned from a cruise south on his new yacht Xanadu to act as groomsman.

Seek Film Star Autographs for Yuletide Cards

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Ginger Rogers made two attempts to transact Christmas shopping on Hollywood boulevard. She then gave up and this is why: "People lie in wait for motion picture players around the doors of the stores. They pop at you from all sides and want you to autograph their Christmas cards so they can send them to their aunts back east.

"They even had me signing my name on their Christmas packages. I couldn't get any of my own presents bought and I couldn't get back to the studio in time for my appointment. You can't walk out on folks that stop you and ask for an autograph, you know. If you did the word would get around that you were snooty."

Ann Harding got some of her shopping done by putting on a black wig from the studio make-up department and wearing an old and somewhat shapeless dress. "But I found it hard to get the girls to wait on me," she complained.

Joan Crawford went to the shopping district with no disguise other than dark glasses, was at once recognized, and was half mobbed.

Richard Dix tried to enter the stores, but the autographers got him. Fred Astaire made one attempt at purchasing things and thereafter intrusted the duty to the youth who is his companion.

This problem of the abused film people, who can't get the chance to spend their juicy salary checks, has indeed become so pressing and so general that a new though temporary profession has sprung up in Hollywood—that of "shopping stooge."

The Gingers, Joans, Anns, Gables, and Astaires make out their Christmas lists, hand over their money to women clerks picked from their studios or from the recommendation of their respective business agents, and Christmas shopping is made merry for all involved.

Edmund Lowe says he is reducing his activities from eight to four pictures a year. "The last two pictures I am making on this schedule of eight," Eddie says, "net me less than the salary I get for one week. It's the state income tax, added to everything else, that does it. Imagine a guy being forced to work eleven weeks to earn himself two weeks' salary."

Pianist of 17 Plays with Philharmonic and Wins Success

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A 17 year old pianist from California, Eugene List, made a highly successful debut with New York's Philharmonic-Symphony tonight in Carnegie hall.

The youngster, slender in his first suit of tails and shy in manner except for an assertive mop of very light hair, played music by a soviet composer, Dmitri Shostakovich, composer of "Lady Macbeth of Mzensk."

Shostakovich's concerto was also having its first New York hearing. It is impish music, full of deliberately popular melodies and impudent "takeoffs." It is also difficult and a severe test for the soloist, who more than earned his many recalls.

Eugene arrived from California by bus at the age of 12, expecting to become a child prodigy. Instead he fell into the hands of Olga Samaroff-Stokowski, who put her foot down on exploitation.

Diana Barrymore Makes Stage Bow in School Play

Norwalk, Conn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Diana Barrymore, 14 years old, daughter of John Barrymore and his second wife, Michael Strange, made her stage debut as an amateur in the 18th annual presentation of the Christmas play of the Thomas school today. Slim and tall, the attractive bob-haired girl donned a costume of green and blue to play the rôle of one of the three wise men.

According to CULBERTSON

GIVING THE OPPONENTS ENOUGH ROPE.

One of the hardest lessons for the average player to learn is patience. This applies to the bidding of hands as well as to the play. Holding a profusion of honor tricks, some players feel actually insulted if the opponents, by their aggressive bidding, seem disdainful of this strength and go blithely toward game or slam. Quite obviously, far from interfering with them, holders of rock-crushers should stand meekly aside, giving them plenty of rope until they arrive at their goal, and then crash down with a double.

A hand in the recent radio match with Argentine was an excellent example of this principle. I held the North hand, my wife sat South. East and West were, of course, Argentine players. This was the hand:

North, dealer.

SOUTH

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	1 spade	Pass	2 no tr.
Pass	3 spades	Pass	3 no tr.
Double	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Double [final bid]

East's overcall of one spade was questionable, but certainly not bad, considering his distribution and nonvulnerability. West's two no trump certainly was justified by his honor trick holding. My own five honor tricks convinced me that the opponents were leading straight for disaster, so why should I interfere? I freely admit that I would have been greatly embarrassed if East had let the two no trump bid stand, but I was sure he wouldn't, and I was right. Incidentally, against a no trump contract, unless I guessed the purely double-dummy opening lead of the ace and queen of clubs, the opponents would take at least eight tricks. The four spade double paid much better dividends.

My wife opened the ten of clubs, strongly indicating that she was void in my suit. My queen won the first trick, and declarer cleverly false-carded the jack. I next laid down the king of diamonds, wishing to make sure of the heart situation—a small diamond from my partner would further confirm her void. It came, and I led a low heart, which Mrs. Culbertson ruffed. Her problem was now how to put me back into the lead and, of course, she solved it logically. I had shown the ace-king of diamonds, but they could not be blank, else I would have led them in the conventional manner, ace first, followed by the king. Therefore, a second diamond lead would be ruffed by declarer and her remaining trump drawn. On this reasoning she led another club, which my ace won. A second heart ruff and, later, my trump trick, gave us six tricks and 500 points.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Third hand opens the bidding with one spade. His partner responds with two clubs. Is this a force?

Answer: No. The responding hand has passed originally, and if third hand can be sure there is no game he may pass two clubs.

Medora Roosevelt Says Debutante Beaux Hunt for Free Food

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The young men gathered at coming out parties as matrimonial prospects are merely hungry and thirsty, not galvanized by love, one of the girls pronounced today.

The statement was made by Medora Roosevelt, daughter of the George Emlen Roosevelts, second cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

"There will be about 150 persons there and I don't suppose I'll know more than 50 of them," she said in a radio interview. "The average man who dashes around to deb parties has no matrimonial intentions—he's more interested in free liquor and food."

Her summation of a debutante's life involved scant sleep, pestiferous calls from florists, photographers, and salespersons, frantic dressing for engagements, wearying dances, and parties ending with a hamburger sandwich near dawn.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He has known and been paying the girl attention for more than ten months. But being only twenty, and earning a small salary, the thought of talking marriage never occurred to him. But the girl proposed that they get married. She is but a few months younger than the boy. Her family is wealthy.

"Here's the conflict," the boy writes. "I love the girl. I never met any one like her. She's beautiful, but she has sense, too. But my dad died when I was small. My mother has been mother and father to a big brood of us. She hasn't been able to put away anything for herself, naturally. The older ones are married, but still young and earning only enough to take care of their own families. I am the youngest and I feel it a duty and a necessary compensation to stick by mother for a few years.

"Anyway, we should help until we can all give her a home at one time or another between us, or provide her an allowance that will let her remain at the home she managed to buy and pay for. I set the time five or six years hence. But the girl says her dad will put me up in business, or take me into his business so that I'll have enough to help at home, too. Naturally, the offer tempts me, but my mother who, I know, isn't trying to stand in my way, for that is not in her character, thinks it is unwise for a young man to marry a rich girl on such terms. The girl can't get the point of view at all. What is your opinion? PAUL."

You sound worth waiting for on any terms, Paul.

Why don't you two, you and the girl, compromise on a two year wait, or three? You can afford it, both of you. This will give time to prove that she's not one of the spoiled darlings who want what they want when they want it. It will give you time, too, to get started in the career into which the girl's dad could lift you. Anyway, a wait with a promise in it always is easier for youth to bear than a NO decision right away.

HAWKS TIE CANADIENS, 2-2, ON MARCH'S GOALS

Barko, Rosenthal Lead Hawkeyes.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

John Barko set the scoring pace from the field for Iowa and Sid Rosenthal set the pace from the free throw line, Joe Van Ysseldyk contributed four field goals and the entire Hawkeye team throttled Loyola's attack to register a 33 to 26 victory at Loyola's gymnasium last night. Loyola couldn't hit consistently when it did force a way to the backboard, and also failed at the penalty line, missing 12 free throws in 22 attempts.

JOHN BARKO.

Marv Colen was the only Loyolan who had a fair idea of the location of the backboard. He clicked five times from the the field. Loyola's attack was considerably handicapped by the height of Jack Drees at center, and when Drees was excused for four personal fouls, a couple of bigger and taller boys—Walsh and De Heer—carried on.

Officials Have Busy Evening.

The game was not particularly rough, but the officials had no difficulty finding 32 violations, 22 of them by the Hawkeyes. Since Iowa had possession more than half the time, the excess fouls can be attributed to over enthusiasm of the second team. Iowa's substitutes ran up 10 fouls in the closing minutes of the game and Loyola, despite frequent failures at the free throw line, picked up all but six of its second half points in this fashion.

Drees opened Iowa's scoring with a free throw and Van Ysseldyk scored a field goal before Winkler got Loyola's first point. Loyola burst into a 5 to 3 lead on two perfectly executed plays with Colen taking the ball under the backboard. Van Ysseldyk tied the score after receiving the ball on a pivot play and then Rosenthal dropped in two free throws on Calihan's foul for a lead which Iowa never relinquished.

Loyola Almost Catches Hawkeyes.

Twice in the first half Loyola came up to within two points of Iowa, but Barko's long goal and Rosenthal's free throw left the Hawks on top, 15 to 10, at the intermission.

Colen's long shot gave Loyola fans a chance to cheer at the opening of the second half, but Rosenthal immediately evened this with a basket. Bob Brennan, for Loyola, and Van Ysseldyk, for Iowa, scored from the field, and the Hawks still led by five points. Barko then started a scoring spree which was the principal factor in the Hawks gaining a 31 to 19 lead.

DE PAUL MEETS ILLINOIS

Illinois' invasion of Chicago Stadium for a game with De Paul will head the list of three games in which Big Ten basketball teams will see action tonight. Minnesota will meet Nebraska at Minneapolis and Michigan will step over to Mount Union college in other contests this evening.

De Paul, which has arranged an ambitious schedule of Big Ten teams to be met at the Chicago Stadium—including last season's three co-champions of the Western conference—will be up against another tough proposition in the co-champion Illini.

Michigan's exceptionally tall quintet still is batting 1.000 in practice competition, although forced to do without the services of John Gee, 6 foot 9 inch center, who is ill with a touch of bronchial pneumonia. The Townsend brothers, John and Earl, who also are among the tallest players in the conference, have added considerable punch to the Wolverine attack.

Minnesota has a veteran team, with the exception of center, where Sophomore Gustafson has been holding forth, but apparently lacks height. Last week, Carleton college, previously crushed by Northwestern and the erratic Iowa five, turned in a victory over the Gophers by staging a whirlwind finish.

De Paul-Illinois lineup:

DE PAUL.		ILLINOIS.
Adams	L. F.	Benham
Knez	R. F.	Vopica
Yost	C.	Riegel
Campion	L. G.	Henry
Wendt	R. G.	Combes

Referee—John Getchell [St. Thomas]. Umpire—Dutch Clarno [Bradley].

In a preliminary to the De Paul-Illinois game Hyde Park and Lane Tech, two of the leading city league high school teams, will play at 8 o'clock.

Army Orders Its Officers to Quit Coaching

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Army officers will not be allowed in the future to act as football coaches in civilian colleges. This is provided, it was learned tonight, in an order issued by the war department to become effective Jan. 1.

It will not affect the present agreements held by Capt. Lawrence M. [Biff] Jones with Oklahoma university, and by Maj. Ralph Sasse with Mississippi State college, but they will not be allowed to act further in those capacities after their contracts with those institutions expire.

The order was said to have been occasioned by a shortage of officer personnel and the necessity of confining the activities of those assigned to R. O. T. C. duty at schools and colleges to actual military duties.

Jones and Sasse were believed here to be the only army officers now acting as full time athletic coaches in the course of R. O. T. C. assignments.

Bans Part Time Coaching.

The order forbids officers on R. O. T. C. duty to participate in any voluntary, part time work in assisting in athletic instruction, such as many now do in minor sports, if such activity interferes in any way with their regular duties as military instructors.

Maj. Robert Neyland, one other officer who has had conspicuous coaching success, recently returned to active duty after a lengthy term as football coach at the University of Tennessee. Since entering on duty with the army garrison in the Canal Zone, he is known to have been asked to return to Tennessee.

The order will operate to prevent Neyland, and any others who might be solicited, from taking a job as full time coach as long as they are in the army.

Gen. Craig Originates Order.

All those who now are or have been coaches are assigned to educational institutions by the army primarily as instructors of reserve officers units. In most cases they occupy regular positions on the faculty as professors of military science and tactics.

The order, which has not yet been made public, was said to have originated with Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf, who was represented as feeling that officers on such duty give too much of their time to institutional athletics. Especially is this

REGENTS RECESS BADGER INQUIRY UNTIL JAN. 15

Hear Athletic Board and Principals in Row.

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 19.—With an assertion from one of its prominent members that its investigation will be complete, the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin tonight adjourned until Jan. 15 its inquiry into the troubles that have rocked the school's athletic department.

The decision to recess came after the regents had considered evidence gathered by the faculty athletic board and heard statements from several persons, including the principals in the flareup.

John Golemgeske, football captain elect, precipitated the investigation two weeks ago with a disclosure that he had circulated a petition censuring the coaching methods of Dr. Clarence Spears and asking his ouster, allegedly at the instigation of Dr. Walter Meanwell, athletic director.

Collect Additional Evidence.

A 39 word statement at the conclusion of today's session, which lasted eight and one-half hours, said that the regents had received a partial report of the findings of the faculty athletic board; that the faculty athletic board's evidence was being considered, that the regents were collecting additional evidence, and that the regents at their regular meeting next month expect to complete their consideration of the controversy.

"We've dug up enough to merit a thorough investigation," commented Judge A. C. Backus of Milwaukee, one of the 13 regents on the board of 15 who attended. He refused to amplify the statement.

Another who led the demand for a far reaching investigation was Regent Daniel Grady, Portage attorney, it was learned.

He recently said, "It may be necessary to go back several years to get at the bottom of this." When the regents first took notice of the situation it was Grady who insisted upon a thorough investigation.

After a three hour morning session confined to a cursory study of the faculty athletic board's findings, the regents this afternoon summoned Dr. Meanwell, Dr. Spears, and Golemgeske. Later the regents again called Dr. Meanwell, as well as Ray Hamann, Jack Kellner, Carlton Crowell, and Emmett Tabat, members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

These boys, identified with sports and political activities on the campus, said they gave their versions of Dr. Meanwell's attempt to dominate their fraternity. Dr. Meanwell is affiliated with the Wisconsin chapter of the national Greek letter society.

Weaver Submits Report.

Prof. A. T. Weaver, chairman of the faculty athletic board, was another visitor before the regents. The group headed by Prof. Weaver submitted a report of several hundred pages, it was reported.

Dr. Meanwell's appearances today raised to six the number of times he has been before the regents or the faculty athletic board.

Dr. Spears, it was learned, was asked whether there was a lack of coöperation in the athletic department and whether it still is possible to smooth current difficulties.

Shortly after noon, Glenn Frank, president of the university and an ex-officio member of the board of regents, emerged from the meeting and issued a statement. Ambiguous and characteristic of other official announcement given out in connection with the athletic inquiry, it read:

"The regents received a report of progress from the athletic board, pending its recommendation at the conclusion of its investigation.

"The regents will this afternoon question members of the athletic staf and others they may decide to call."

St. George, St. Patrick Win Opening Games of Prep Meet

St. George and St. Patrick won their games last night as the second annual St. George Catholic High school basketball tournament opened in Evanston. The St. George five routed Lewis Holy Name School of Aeronautics of Lockport, 40 to 14. St. Patrick took a 34 to 29 battle from Mount Carmel.

Bob Calihan and Mickey Tierney led St. George. The former, a six foot three inch center, registered nine baskets and one free throw, while Tierney, son of Coach Jack Tierney of St. George, sank four baskets.

St. Patrick and Mount Carmel were tied at the end of the first period, 6 to 6. At the half Mount Carmel was out in front, 14 to 13. St. Patrick came back and gained a two point advantage, 24 to 22, as the third quarter closed. Skrodzki and Rizzo supplied the points that enabled St. Patrick to pull away.

St. Mel, defending champion, will open the six game second round schedule this afternoon, facing De La Salle of Chicago at 2 o'clock. Two of the three Indiana teams will see action today, St. Mary's of Michigan City will close the afternoon session, playing St. George at 4 o'clock.

Central Catholic of Hammond will engage St. Patrick in the second evening game at 8:30 p. m. The Hammond five has won seven games this season. The first evening game will bring together St. Bede of Peru, Ill., and St. Rita of Chicago.

HAWK-MAROON DEAL FOR MORENZ REMAINS IN FIRE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Negotiations for a player trade between the Chicago Blackhawks and Montreal Maroons still were under way tonight, but no deal had been completed, Tommy Gorman, Maroon manager, said.

It was reported that Howie Morenz would go to the Montreal hocky team. A Maroon official said the Chicago club had demanded $15,000 in cash or the equivalent in players. Clem Loughlin, Blackhawk manager, said he had nothing to announce, but that he could not tell what might happen tomorrow.

COLD PROMISES THICK ICE FOR SILVER SKATES

Garfield Park Facilities Ideal for Event.

From present indications Chicago will have an old fashioned winter. In recent years the lagoons in the parks seldom have been frozen to sufficient depth, and ice skating has been confined to playgrounds and flooded surfaces. The lagoons, however, are necessary for Chicago boys and girls to engage in winter sports.

When the lagoons once are frozen to a depth of six or eight inches, any subsequent cold wave, even if only of two or three days' duration, gives new surface. Moreover, Garfield park, where the nineteenth annual Silver Skates races will be held Jan. 11 and 12, has ideal facilities to accommodate hundreds of skaters. The number of entrants must be limited if the races are held at lagoons or parks that do not have restrooms and large halls for registration of contestants.

Garfield Park Holds Record.

The Silver Skates races haven't been held at Garfield park since 1931, which, incidentally, was the record for entries. The following winter the park lagoons never were frozen solid enough to safeguard contestants and the Derbies were not held. This is the only winter since 1917 when the Silver Skates races were canceled. In 1933 the Derbies were held during the week at La Follette park. In 1934 and 1935 the races were staged in Lincoln park although at a different location.

Preliminary trials will be held in three Derbies—the boys' midget, boys' juvenile, the boys' junior classes—on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 11. All other trials and the championship events are scheduled for Sunday afternoon. Each contestant will be notified by postcard of the exact time to report for his preliminary race. Each also will be given a racing number which will appear with his name in the program.

Official Sanction Received.

The commissioners of the Chicago park district already have granted permission for the races to be held at Garfield park and the official sanction, signed by Nathan Balter, district supervisor, has been received.

Paul Staff, a member of The Tribune Athletic association, will survey the courses for the Derbies.

Attention again is called to the deadline for entries. All entries must be mailed not later than midnignt Jan. 5. Post entries will not be accepted. The races are sanctioned by the Illinois Western Skating association and all contestants 16 years of age and over will be registered by the association on the days of the Derbies if they have not been registered previously.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WINTER RACING.

BOTH Hialeah Park near Miami and Santa Anita Park near Los Angeles will offer higher class racing this winter than ever before. Liberal purses and stakes have convinced most owners, especially those with large strings, of the desirability of winter racing to which many turfmen once were opposed, especially for 2 year olds. Santa Anita opens Christmas day and Hialeah Jan. 16, with Tropical Park near Coral Gables now in operation and taking up the intervening time.

While the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap has not been increased in value direct to the owners, the management added $12,500 to be distributed to trainers and jockies of the first and second place horses. That 100 grand is incentive enough to owners just as it stands. F. M. Alger Jr. of Detroit took down the largest purse in American turf history, $108,400, when Azucar, the reformed steeplechaser, finished in front last season. Santa Anita tilted its Derby value from $20,000 to $25,000 added.

Hialeah's Florida Derby, run as a finale in March, will have $20,000 added instead of $15,000 as a year ago. In addition there is the Widener Challenge cup contest, with $10,000 added and numerous $5,000 stakes.

Those looking for early racing for their 3 year old hopes also may contemplate the California Derby at San Francisco, run in late March, with $10,000 added; the Texas Derby in April with $15,000 added, the Louisiana Derby at New Orleans on March 17 with $3,000 added, and other early events for those seeking the 3 year old crown.

Last winter we asked Bob Smith, veteran trainer of the Brookmeade stable, whether he was opposed to winter racing for juveniles, to which he replied, "The purpose of a trainer is to win as many stakes and purses as possible, with due regard for the welfare of his charges. I don't see that it makes much difference whether the money is earned in summer or winter. We feel a horse may be raced in winter, then let down for a later campaign if considered advisable."

The Present.

Christmas is just for kids, they say—
I've often heard it said,
But when Christmas eve comes round again
And I limp off to bed,
Although an old gray headed man,
I still expect to wake
And have the thrill of a present
They've bought just for my sake.

My children think it's socks I need
Or handkerchiefs that wear,
My niece insists that union suits
Are best—the kind that never tear.
But what I crave and want the most
On the tree on Christmas morn
Is a gift that's not any use at all,
Even if it's just a horn.

Pit Lepine Counts Twice for Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A speedy Chicago Blackhawk team came from behind with two third period goals by Mush March to earn a 2 to 2 tie with Canadiens tonight just when it lookcd as if the Frenchmen were on their way to victory.

MUSH MARCH.

Pete Lepine scored both Canadiens' goals, one a gift in the opening period, and a second period goal that was set up for him by Jean Louis Bourcier. Bourcier, who came up with his brother Conrad from Verdun in the Montreal senior amateur ranks, was playing his first game in the National league.

Was Mike Surprised.

Lepine's first period goal came as a huge surprise to the crowd but Goal Keeper Mike Karakas was probably the most surprised man in the Forum as the puck slid between his feet into the corner. Lepine was skating back to center ice when he swung with one hand at a loose puck at the blue line and the disc slid along the ice all the way into the net.

Jean Louis Bourcier was the hero of the second period goal when he darted inside and battled a few seconds until he got a shot at the goal. The defending Hawks were drawn towards him and left Lepine clear to lift the rebound over Karakas as he sprawled helpless.

Morenz Shows Old Speed.

Howie Morenz showed all his old speed despite reports he had a price tag of $15,000 if the Maroons wish to buy him, and made the plays for both March's goals. Johnny Gottselig and Morenz passed the defense out of position for the first before Howie gave March a setup pass for the shot, just after the two minute mark.

This trio came back at the 12 minute mark with Morenz in the lead and he passed out to Gottselig from the corner. Gottselig feinted Wilf Cude and passed to March for the tying goal. Neither tried very hard in the overtime, in which the goalkeepers handled only five shots.

The tie enabled the Hawks to tie the New York Rangers for second place in the American section, a game and a half back of the leading Detroit Red Wings.

Morenz was jammed into a corner as he sped in from the face-off and then Conrad Bourcier got his first big league shot, a long one from the blue line. After March was blocked, Morenz lifted the puck over the cage.

Cude Robs McFadyen.

The new Canadien line got a big hand when relieved by Lepine, Joliat, and Larochelle. McFadyen was robbed when Cude came down on a brilliant save from a few feet out. Pusie made a spectacular dash and his bullet shot was just wide by inches. Joliat tried a long one from the blue line and an offside halted another Canadien drive before the lines changed again. Haynes made a nice play to get inside the Hawk defense, but McGill just failed to pick up the pass.

The Canadiens scored one of the softest goals seen here this season when Lepine sent the puck sliding into the corner along the ice from the blue line with a backhand slash. He had lost the puck on an attack and was skating towards center ice when a Hawk sent the puck out towards him. Lepine slapped at it with his stick as he passed and it slid into the net.

Cude Halts Hawk Wings.

Stung by that setback, Morenz, March, and Gottselig crowded into the Canadien end for more than a minute and Cude was at his best as

CLARK WINS PRO SCORING CROWN WITH 55 POINTS

Russell Leads in Yards, but Fails to Count.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Dutch Clark, quarter back of the world's champion Detroit Lions, won the scoring championship of the National Professional Football league for the 1935 season, official statistics released yesterday reveal.

Clark, whose 40 yard run for the Lions' second touchdown in the championship game against New York last Sunday, was one of the outstanding pieces of ball carrying in the season's play, scored 55 points, winning the title from Don Hutson, Green Bay's sensational pass catching end, by 12 points.

Hutson Leads in Touchdowns.

Eighty-two men scored points during the twelve game championship schedule. Doug Russell, the Cardinal half back, who led the league in ground gained, piling up 469 yards, was not among these, failing to score even a point after touchdown.

Hutson scored seven touchdowns to lead the league in this department, but was outdistanced by Clark's 16 points after touchdown. Clark made six touchdowns and a field goal.

Jack Manders, Bear full back, who led the league last year with 79 points on three touchdowns, 31 extra points, and ten field goals, finished 22d this year with 19 points, representing 16 points after touchdown and a field goal.

Smith Gets 35 Points.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—JUST ALONG FOR THE RIDE

Jim Braddock's Comeback Voted Best of Sport Year

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The story book rise of James J. Braddock from the relief rolls to the world heavyweight boxing championship has been labeled by sports experts as the greatest comeback of 1935.

The year was filled with many spectacular returns to form, but participants in the fifth annual Associated Press sports poll accorded the New Jersey veteran prime recognition, and placed Helen Wills Moody, already voted the outstanding woman athletic performer of the year, in the runner-up rôle.

Braddock and Mrs. Moody, who came out of a two year retirement and won the Wimbledon tennis championship, were involved in a spirited contest by the experts, and it was not until the last few votes were counted that the fighter established his final margin of popularity. All told, Braddock polled 180 points to 171 for Mrs. Moody.

Tie for Third Place.

The vote was polled on a 3-2-1 point basis with experts listing their three comeback choices in the order of preference. Braddock was a pronounced favorite in the matter of first places. Forty-six voters put him at the top, while Mrs. Moody drew 31 three point votes.

Robert Moses [Lefty] Grove, Boston Red Sox southpaw pitcher, and Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia, who won the women's national golf title for the first time in five years and the sixth time in her career. Ended in a deadlock for third place, each receiving 43 points. Suffering from a sore arm, Grove was a bust last year, but he regained his form in the 1935 campaign, won 20 games and set a record by compiling the league's best earned-run average for the seventh time.

Polo Player Eighth.

Tommy Hitchcock, the polo player, and Charley Gelbert, St. Louis Cardinals' infielder, two athletes whose injuries it was feared might wreck their careers, were included among the first ten leading comeback performances. Hitchcock pulled up eighth in the voting with nine points, while Gelbert, who almost shot one foot off in a hunting accident a couple of years ago, was 10th with six points. Tabulation of the poll:

		Points.
1.	James J. Braddock, heavyweight boxing champion	180
2.	Helen Wills Moody, Mimbledon tennis champion	171

NORTH CENTRAL PLANS OFFENSE FOR ELMHURST

When North Central faces Elmhurst in the first conference game of the year tonight the Cardinals will present a new offensive. Variations of a fast break will be mixed in with the double pivot combination used against Armour Tech last week.

Elmhurst pulled a surprise victory over Wheaton last week and Coach Bieber is using the fast break to guard against meeting a possible zone defense on Elmhurst's smaller floor.

Jim Thumley, center, will be used farther out from the foul line, from which point he scored 13 points against Armour. Young and Yuknis at forwards, Thumley at center, with Spiegler and Burns at the guard positions will make up the starting team.

ENGLISH WOMEN TO VISIT CHICAGO TO AID LACROSSE

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Miss Eleanor Eaton of Boston, president of United States Women's Lacrosse association, announced today that a team of six socially prominent English women will visit in Chicago in April and May to stimulate the game of lacrosse among midwest women. The English team will join two picked teams and stage a series of games in the Chicago area.

In June five members of the English delegation will visit other cities while one spends the season in Chicago as a coach.

Officials for Rose Bowl Football Game Named

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Officials for the annual Rose Bowl football game between Stanford and Southern Methodist universities at Pasadena on Jan. 1 were named today. They are Bob Morris of Seattle, referee; Harry Viner of Houston, umpire; Abe Curtis of Fort Worth, field judge, and Tom Fitzpatrick of Oakland, head linesman.

he turned aside drives by each. Locking had a good backhander at Cude before action slowed up.

Lepine Scores Again.

After some mid-ice ragging Jean Bourcier suddenly swept inside the Hawks' blue line and fought until he got a shot away. Lepine was on hand to snap in the rebound and Jean earned his first scoring point in the major league with an assist. Cude had to be brilliant in the next two minutes as Morenz and March both got in close on him.

Desilets had a good shot at the other end and then Locking swept in close, only to have Buswell check him.

Checking was tight at mid-ice as the third period started, until Morenz and Gottselig combined nicely to beat the defense. Morenz took Gottselig's return pass and relayed it to the uncovered March, who blazed in a high one at 2:12 to reduce the Canadiens' margin to one goal.

March Scores Again.

The Hawks were driving viciously and tied it up at the 12 minute mark, when Morenz sped in like a flash, passed to Gottselig and March unleashed a terrific shot to beat Cude for his second goal of the night. The Canadiens were badly outplayed at this stage.

The pace slowed down and all the shots were from outside the defense until the lines changed. Trudell got the first real shot that Cude handled nicely. Lepine checked Cook in mid-ice and went in fast with Desilets and the latter took his pass for a clean hard drive, that found Karakas all set. Buswell drew the first penalty of the game for tripping Ouelette and the Morenz-March-Gottselig line came on for Chicago's power play. The first smash ended in a face-off at the corner and another was stopped by the bell and the game went into overtime.

With Buswell still in the box, the Canadiens put up a blue line barrier the Hawks could not penetrate, and Buswell came back without any damage being done.

Arkansas Claims Robbins Bettered Pincura's Record

Fayetteville, Ark., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The claim of Ohio State university statisticians that Stan Pincura, Buckeye back, was 1935's leading forward passer in major football drew a challenge today from University of Arkansas.

The Big Ten records gave Pincura credit for completing 37 out of 67 passes for an average of .552.

Arkansas statisticians replied Jack Robbins, quarter back, had Pincura shaded. Robbins passed 161 times during the 1935 season and completed 91 for an average of .565.

2 FREAK GOALS GIVE DETROIT 3 TO 1 VICTORY

Puck Slips Into Net Twice on Rebound.

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings defeated the New York Americans, 3 to 1, in a National Hocky league game tonight before 10,000.

The winning goals came in the closing seconds of the first and second periods as a result of rebounds which trickled in after Goalie Roy Worters had left his cage to stop drives.

Pete Kelly opened the scoring with an angle shot early in the first period after racing along the boards into scoring position. The Americans tied the score a couple of minutes later when Hal Cotton drove in one, assisted by Schriner and Stewart.

Aurie, Lewis, and Goodfellow were ganging the Americans' goal just before the first period closed, when Lewis took a shot and the rebound off Worters' stick struck Chapman, who was moving in, and went back into the cage. The time was 19:43. Lewis was credited with the goal.

Just before the second period ended a similar incident ended in the third Detroit goal. Aurie took a shot and Worters came out again. The rebound struck Aurie's skate as the players ganged the goal and bounced in. Worters claimed he had been charged, but the goal was allowed. Lineup:

MILTON M. FRIEDMAN, Middle Western Representative

"Someone's going to be mighty pleased with this!"

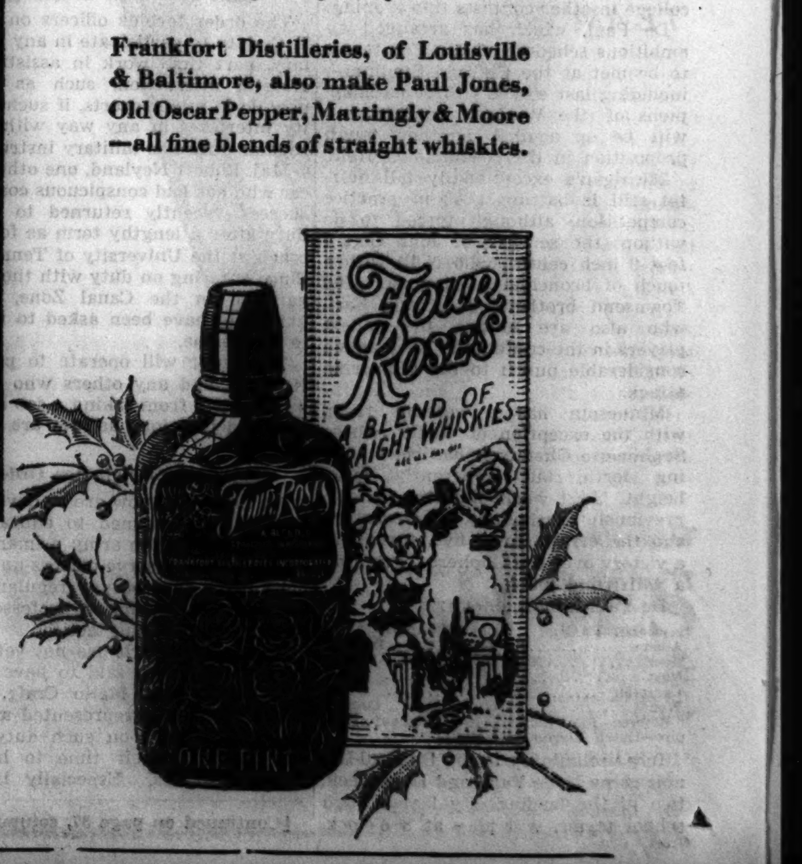
SANTA'S RIGHT!

To the man who appreciates fine whiskey, no gift could bring more pleasure than a bottle, or a case, of the best Christmas spirits made—Four Roses!

It's a whiskey friendly as a Christmas hand-shake, mellow-glowing as a Christmas tree, genial as old Santa Claus himself. Because every drop is old-fashioned whiskey—made by the costliest whiskey-making method in the world—using superior seasoned grain, and crystal-clear limestone water.

Compare Four Roses with any other whiskey of any age or price. Then you'll not only choose Four Roses for your Christmas festivities—you'll make it No. 1 gift for all the men you know.

Frankfort Distilleries, of Louisville & Baltimore, also make Paul Jones, Old Oscar Pepper, Mattingly & Moore—all fine blends of straight whiskies.



SAY IT WITH FOUR ROSES

A blend of straight whiskies—and that means all whiskey

LYONS AND GROVE LEAD LEAGUE IN EFFECTIVENESS

Vets, in Comeback, Set Pace in Earned Runs.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Every year in the last 13 there has been a player on the White Sox who waranted more cheers than all the others. More often than not this hero in a none too heroic background has been the same gent, the genial Ted Lyons. And now again, with the release of the official American league pitching averages for 1935, the Baylor boy, who will be 36 next week, is the standout of all the Comiskey performers who thrilled folks with their talents last summer.

Ted, the averages reveal, celebrated his 13th year as a member of the White Sox by finishing at the top of the list of right handed pitchers in the American league with an earned run average of 3.02. The only pitcher with a better record of individual effectiveness was another comeback star, Lefty Grove, who led the entire list with an earned run mark of 2.07 runs per nine innings.

Second Best Mark.

Only twice in his honorable career has Lyons had a personal record of effectiveness as good as last season's, though he has exceeded his winning total of 15 games on four occasions, twice with totals of 22 victories. In 1927, when Lyons won 22 and lost 14 with a fifth place team, his earned run average was 2.84. The preceding year he tied this year's average, 3.02. In 1930, when he won 22 games for a seventh place outfit, Ted's earned run average was 3.77.

Lyons' comeback followed two of his worst seasons. In 1933 he led the league in losses with 21 while winning 10. In 1934 Ted was 47th on the earned run basis, with an average of 4.87.

Bridges Leads Strikeouts.

The comeback of Grove was even more spectacular, statistically at least. In 1934 Grove was 63d among the 65 pitchers who worked 45 or more innings.

Statistics which will not surprise Bill Jurges and some of the other Cubs include the fact that Tommy Bridges led the American league in strikeouts with 163, while Schoolboy Rowe was second with 140. Bridges had the longest winning streak with nine.

In connection with the release of the averages, attention was drawn to the fact that Vernon Kennedy of the White Sox pitched the only no hit game of the season—against Cleveland on Aug. 31. It is pointed out that Vernon pitched to only 30 batsmen, of whom four walked.

Ferrell Wins Most Games.

Wes Ferrell, another comeback star, won the most games, 25, as compared with 14 in 1934 and 11 in 1933. Wes also pitched the greatest number of complete games, 31. He pitched the most innings, 322, and allowed the greatest number of hits, 336.

Buck Newsom, who was sold by St. Louis to Washington for a reported $40,000, lost the greatest number of games, 18. Elden Auker of the Tigers led the league in percentage by winning 17 and losing seven. In one of the seven, on the last day of the season, the White Sox tied the record for singles in one inning, when they knocked ten off Auker before he escaped to rest for the world series.

SCHAEFER NAMED CLUB PRESIDENT AT LINCOLNSHIRE

W. A. Schaefer, who served as first vice president of the Lincolnshire Country club last season, has been elected president for the coming year. He succeeds E. A. Frederickson. Others elected were J. A. Holmes, first vice president; Dr. A. S. Craver, second vice president; George F. Stephenson, secretary; J. A. Colen, treasurer, and S. M. Homan, executive secretary.

Mr. Colen reported that income for the current fiscal year showed a sharp increase over the preceding twelve months, amounting to more than a $16,000 gain.

In addition, he added, $12,500 of the $17,500 bond issue for the club's new swimming pool already has been subscribed and paid. The concrete for the pool has been laid, and the project will be ready for use by next Decoration day.

A. A. U. HELPS OUT OLYMPIC SLED TEAM WITH $1,200

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The American Olympic committee today announced the receipt of two important contributions to help finance the visits of its winter sports teams to the winter Olympic games at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany. The committee also issued a call for a meeting here Dec. 30 to pass upon the entries for the winter sports teams, which are scheduled to sail Jan. 3.

The Metropolitan association of the Amateur Athletic union, at its quarterly meeting, made an appropriation of $1,200 to help the hocky and bobsled teams along. The sum was divided equally between the two. Gilbert Colgate Jr., one of the bobsledders, previously had offered to duplicate any single contribution up to $600.

Army Orders Its Officers to Quit Coaching

true, officers said, of men holding full time coaching positions.

"Football coaching is now a big business," said one who asked that he not be quoted by name, "and it requires most of the time of a coach to run the team properly. It's no job for an army officer with specific military tasks to perform."

Exempted by Agreements.

Jones and Sasse receive regular salaries from their institutions for coaching the football squads. It was said they were exempted specifically in their present status because they and their respective colleges entered into formal agreements.

JONES HAS NO CONTRACT.

Norman, Okla., Dec. 19.—Capt. Lawrence [Biff] Jones, football coach at the University of Oklahoma, said tonight when informed of a war department ruling against coaching by army officers: "I'm sure I'll be here for the first kickoff next September and the completion of the season."

The war department decided not to allow army officers to coach civilian teams in the future, the ruling applying to present coaches only after their contracts expire.

"I have not signed a contract of any kind here," Jones said. "I doubt if Maj. Ralph Sasse has at Mississippi State. All I received from the war department was an order to report for duty. They don't tell you how long you are to stay. It is customary for an officer who is sent out on R. O. T. C. assignment to have from four to six years. I had about three at Louisiana State."

NEYLAND NOT AFFECTED.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Although University of Tennessee officials have not made an official announcement regarding the return of Maj. Robert Neyland as head coach, it was said here tonight that the new decision against permitting army officers to hold coaching positions would not prevent his accepting the Tennessee contract.

Maj. Neyland has announced that if he returned to coaching duties he would retire from the army. He wired acceptance of a five year contract last Friday. He became eligible for retirement Dec. 14.

Cunningham to Race Again in Indoor Meets

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Although not scheduled to meet this winter, America's arch rival milers, Glenn Cunningham and Bill Bonthron, are pounding the boards again these days. Cunningham plans to campaign again this winter over the indoor circuit in preparation for a bid for a place on the American Olympic track team. He already has reported to Bill Hargiss, his old coach at the University of Kansas.

On the other hand, Bonthron definitly has decided to pass up competition this winter, but likewise has his eye on the Olympics. He's working out three nights a week at the New York Athletic club, keeping in trim with distance running and a routine of exercises.

"Maybe Reggie McNamara and I have something in common with regard to announcing our retirements," Bonthron smiled. "I thought I might hang up my spikes for all time after last summer, but the urge to continue is irresistible."

Bonthron isn't doing night work in a gymnasium for his health. He doesn't have to. Track fans won't see him this winter but they'll get many an eyeful of the Princeton alumnus when the outdoor season starts.

He's working just often and long enough to keep his durable frame from becoming rusty and when the cinder path season opens he'll be out on the track, ready to meet any and all comers. If he meets with a fair share of success he'll be among the candidates for the international games at Berlin next summer.

NORTH SHORE AND ARTILLERY TRIOS MEET TOMORROW

Joe Bell, who learned his polo on the western plains, will appear in the North Shore lineup against Fort Sheridan tomorrow night. These teams will clash in the feature game of the Metropolitan Polo league at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

A change in the pairings for tomorrow substitutes the Shamrocks for the 122 Field Artillery in the opener against the Sixth Corps Area juniors. This game will start at 8:30 o'clock. Lieut. Col. C. K. Rinehart will lead the regular army into battle, with Capt. Leslie R. Ireland heading the Shamrocks.

Rudolph and Caras Win in Cue Tourney

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Erwin Rudolph, Cleveland, tightened his hold on first place in the world pocket billiards tournament tonight by defeating Willie Mosconi, Philadelphia, one of his leading challengers, 125 to 44 in 15 innings.

The victory just about clinches the title for Rudolph, who won the tournament last year, only to lose the title to Andrew Ponzi in a challenge match. It was his sixth triumph in seven games and Mosconi's third loss in eight starts.

Caras Has Title Chance.

Jimmy Caras, young Wilmington, Del., star, remained the only serious contender for the lead after Rudolph disposed of Mosconi. Caras whipped George Kelly, Philadelphia, the national champion, 125 to 33, in an afternoon match that went six innings. Caras moved into second place with six games won and two lost, while Kelly wound up in a third place tie with Mosconi.

Rudolph forged ahead early when he put together the high run of the game, 54, in the second inning. Mosconi couldn't keep his cue ball under control and frequently was in trouble. Rudolph built up a 78 to 33 lead at the intermission. Mosconi made his best run, 28, in the 15th frame. Rudolph then stepped up and pocketed the 36 balls he needed to complete the game.

Procita Defeats Natalie.

Another afternoon match saw Joe Procita, Gloversville, N. Y., who set a record by losing a pair of shutout games the last two days, get back on the winning side by defeating Pasqualie Natalie, Chicago, 125 to 80, in a 41 inning game.

Bennie Allen, Kansas City veteran, who blanked Procita last night, again showed good form as he completed his tournament schedule with a 126 to 46 victory over Frank Taberski, Schenectady, N. Y., in the windup match of the day. Allen ran out his string in seven innings.

M'Master (Ont.) Defeats Michigan in Hocky, 6 to 5

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—McMaster university of Hamilton, Ont., rushed in two goals in the last five minutes to beat a game but badly undermanned Michigan hocky team, 6 to 5, here tonight.

POSTPONE DATE OF LOUIS' CUBA FIGHT TO FEB. 2

Island Officials Suspend Fighter and Jacobs.

HAVANA, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Mike Jacobs, New York boxing promoter who controls the appearances of Joe Louis, came to Havana today, postponed the Louis-Isidor Gastanaga fight from Dec. 29 to Feb. 2, and left for Miami again under suspension by the Cuban boxing commission.

It took an all day discussion among Jacobs, Cuban promoters, and government officials to reach that conclusion. Jacobs made the visit because reports of political unrest had Louis' managers worried. After settling upon the postponement, however, he said it was because the former Golden Gloves champion from Chicago was tired and had been ordered not to don the gloves again for at least a month.

Cepeda Demands Suspension.

The decision was far from satisfactory to Rafael Cepeda, president of the Cuban boxing commission, who announced the suspension of the promoter, Louis, and Julian Black, one of the fighter's managers. Cepeda insisted that a working agreement with the New York state athletic commission would make the suspension effective in New York. The suspension will remain in effect until Louis reaches Cuba.

The sale of seats was ordered suspended and arrangements were made to refund the money already received on the advance sale. The Feb. 2 date was selected after Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, had agreed to waive a clause in the contract for a Schmeling-Louis fight next summer, which provided that Louis should not fight between Jan. 31 and the time of that bout. Joe Jacobs accompanied Mike on the visit.

Joe Needs a Rest.

In announcing the postponement Mike Jacobs said:

"Louis seems to have gone stale and needs a rest. His manager has cabled and telephoned to us saying the boy positively can not fight Dec. 29. He has had 15 fights in eleven months and his doctor has told him not to put on a glove for at least a month."

Jacobs denied that reports of "political unrest," given by John Roxborough, one of Louis' managers, as his reason for desiring a postponement, had influenced his decision. He also said the bout would not be shifted to Detroit or any other United States city.

"Gastanaga must fight Louis here in Havana before he gets a chance to fight in the United States," he said.

John Jameson is a real comfort whether you're skiing or just plain cold. It's a strong, hearty whiskey—which may be why sportsmen have taken it up so widely. Whether it's a good whiskey we'll leave to your own taste. But we honestly don't know how we could make it better. We make it of barley, wheat and oats—the best money can buy—and nothing else but water and time. We use the same pot-still method we've used 150 years, although the new quick methods would cost us less. We age it in wood 7 years—not half an hour less. Then we add older of our whiskeys to round out the flavour. Ask any bartender about John Jameson.

DAY'S MANAGER DENIES SEEKING TERMS FOR BOUT

Replies to Lewis' Charge of Exorbitant Demands.

Sam Pian, manager of Champion Barney Ross and Davey Day, has taken exception to published remarks made against boxing by Nate Lewis, veteran Chicago Stadium matchmaker.

The other day Lewis was quoted as saying: "We wanted to hold a boxing show on Dec. 27, but the fighters and their managers appear to be unreasonable, so we were forced to revert to a wrestling card instead."

O'Mahoney to Meet Dean.

The wrestling card includes the windup bout between Danno O'Mahoney, heavyweight champion, and Man Mountain Dean, 320 pound bewhiskered Californian. Originally arrangements were being made to hold a boxing show at the west side building, including a ten round rematch between Day and Alberto Arizmendi, rival lightweight challengers. This plan was canceled because the Stadium would have been unable to pay Day and Arizmendi the purses desired, because of plans to offer a strong supporting card, Lewis held.

No Mention of Terms.

"Naturally we attemp to get the most money possible for services rendered by our fighters," Manager Pian exclaimed yesterday. "We are not unreasonable insofar as terms are concerned. Furthermore, Mullen [James C. Mullen, partner of Lewis], was the only person who spoke to us about a Day-Arizmendi match and no terms were mentioned."

Matchmaker Lewis explained that, although financial terms were not mentioned to Pian, it was natural to assume the managers of both Day and Arizmendi would ask for the same purses they were paid for their first meeting at the Stadium Nov. 8. Arizmendi, who won a disputed decision over Day, and Davey each received 20 per cent of the gate for the thrilling battle.

Amateur boxing shows will be held tonight at Madison Athletic club, 4711 West Madison street; Duncan Y. M. C. A., 1515 West Monroe street, and Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road. Lorenzo Ross, south side, and Chris Boulahanis, west side, will be windup principals in the main event of the seven bout card at the Madison club. An intercollegiate meet between boxers representing Loyola university and St. Norbert college of West De Pere, Wis., will be offered at Loyola. Nine contests between fighters representing the Duncan Y. and Herzl Junior college are carded at the Duncan Y. M. C. A.

The card at Loyola:

ST. NORBERT.		LOYOLA.
Canadeo	vs.	Baptist,	124
Anderson	vs.	Eulo,	126
Johannes	vs.	Hehlihy,	130
Prokopvitch	vs.	Benedict,	140
Rose	vs.	D. Molloy,	147
De Kleene	vs.	Corvy,	147
Clark	vs.	Denkewalter,	160
Jordan	vs.	Maciewski,	160
Wagner	vs.	Corneille,	175

Joe Louis will return tomorrow from Detroit, where he has been visiting his mother since his four round technical knockout victory over Paulino Uzcudun at New York. He intends to stay in town pending completion of arrangements for his next match.

Hank Bath, heavyweight title hope of Jack Kearns, is scheduled to open workouts at Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon. . . . King Levinsky has headed for Los Angeles, where he may clash with Hank Hankinson Jan. 14. . . . Cal Working, manager of Alberto Arizmendi, left last night for the Pacific coast to spend the holidays with his family.

Promoter Billy Cepak last night called off the ten round bout between Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, and Billy Miller, Milwaukee, scheduled at Cicero stadium tomorrow. He plans to hold his next show on New Year's afternoon, headed by a ten rounder between Bobby Pacho, Los Angeles, and Harry Carleton, Newark, N. J.

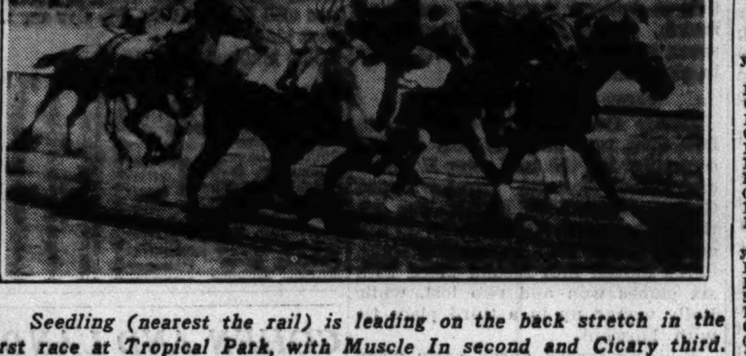
MUSCLE IN broke fast, moved up gamely entering stretch, but carried CICARY out, then came back in and just lasted to win. CICARY might have won but for being carried out entering stretch. MISS PHILURA slipped through on inside, closed very fast. SEEDLING had plenty of early foot, but tired badly at end. MISS ALINE performed well. SPARKLING LADY tired chasing the early pace.



Seedling (nearest the rail) is leading on the back stretch in the first race at Tropical Park, with Muscle In second and Cicary third. Muscle In came on to win, with Cicary second and Miss Philura (No. 5, in background) getting third. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

SUN CLOISTER	110	1	5	6	6	6	6	F.Hendricks	11.20-1

Time, 1:13 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Merovech, $11.20 straight, $4.20 place, $2.50 show; Slave, $5.30 place, $3.10 show; Billy Wise, $2.50 show. Start good. Won driving; place easily.

MEROVECH broke alertly, ran into the lead early, saved ground, drew out in stretch, but was doing his best to win. SLAVE, outrun for the first three furlongs, came around field on turn, closed with a rush and was wearing down the winner.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Two year old maidens. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $40; fourth, $10.

ALFRED C. M.	109	6	6	8	9	9	9	W.G.Jackson	25.20-1

Time, 1:06 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Keokee, $4.90 straight, $3.10 place, $2.50 show; Fanle, $7.70 place, $4.10 show; Major M. $3.20 show. Start good. Won driving, place same.

KEOKEE, away very fast, was sent to the front and rated along to stretch, where he had to be driven hard to stall off the determined bid of FANLE. The latter was a stout factor from the start and ran a good race. MAJOR M was a bit slow to get into his stride, but closed ground gamely. VITOFOL, very slow in early part, came around field and finished fast. SWEET SUSAN finished fast.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Three year olds and up. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $40; fourth, $10.

OGEE	111	8	5	8	8	8	8	L.Wilson	84.15-1

Time, 1:12 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Feudal Lord, $4.70 straight, $3.30 place, $3.10 show; Portden, $4.00 place, $3.80 show; Shepherd Boy, $3.90 show. Start good.

FEUDAL LORD got away flying, was kept out in the hard going, ran into lead on turn, drew out, but was driving hard to win. PORTDEN was shuffled back soon after the start, responded gamely to urging and finished with a rush. SHEPHERD BOY, well up from the start, ran good race. JAKE BLIEDEN had plenty of speed but was kept in the deep going next to the inner rail and tired badly at end. FITKIN, well up, displayed good speed and is sure to improve. HIGH TORQUE is worth noting.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. All ages. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $605; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

SPIXI	113	3	3	2^{h}	$3^{1\frac12}$	4½	6	C.Hanford	6.35-1

Time, 1:06. Two dollar mutuels paid: Little Dinah, $13.30 straight, $6.30 place, $2.70 show; Top Dog, $3.80 place, $2.40 show; Rock X, $2.30 show. Start good. Won driving; place same.

LITTLE DINAH, away well in motion, was sent to the front and rated along, drew away in stretch and held on gamely. TOP DOG, moved up very fast on the outside, closed gamely under a hard drive and ran good race. ROCK X was hard ridden for entire trip and had no mishap. HAPPY HELEN ran a fine race. She closed very fast on the outside and was wearing down the leaders. She is worth noting. SPIXI stopped badly after showing early speed. ST. MORITZ showed a flash of early speed.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Two year olds. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $40; fourth, $10.

Time, 1:39 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Free Spirit, $8.90 straight, $5.50 place, $4.20 show; Bombastic, $7.30 place, $4.20 show; Almarine, $5.30 show. Start good.

FREE SPIRIT, mean at the gate, finally got away fast, moved up gamely in run down back stretch, took lead around turn and drew away in final furlong. BOMBASTIC broke slow and trailed far back to the half mile pole, moved up with a rush, saved ground entering stretch and finished gamely. ALMARINE moved up with a rush in run down back stretch and then tired. JOAN D was never able to get to the leader. She ran below best form. TRAMWAY ran well for seven furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile. Four year olds and up. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $40; fourth, $10.

Time, 1:40. Two dollar mutuels paid: Mixed Party, $102 straight, $26.70 place, $11.70 show; Salut D'Amour, $4.50 place, $3.70 show; Pass Shot, $3.50 show.

MIXED PARTY worked her way up on the outside, ran into the lead in last quarter mile, drew out, but tired and just lasted to win. SALUT D'AMOUR was rushed into lead, showed speed, appeared beaten middle of the turn, but came again at finish. PASS SHOT, outrun in early part, closed with a rush. DARK MISSION closed a big gap.

Little Dinah Wins in Drive; Pays $13.30

Miami, Fla., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Making her first appearance since the close of the New England season, F. W. Woodman's 3 year old filly, Little Dinah, stepped five and one-half furlongs in 1:06 to take the Matecumba handicap at Tropical Park today.

Little Dinah's triumph came as a surprise, as Emil Denemark's Top Dog and the Tranquility Farm's Rock X. drew the bulk of the play. As a result the filly paid $13.30 for a $2 win mutuel.

With Ira Hanford handling the reins, the daughter of Sir Greysteel took an early lead, easily disposed of Spixi, and then withstood a long drive to beat Top Dog by a length. Rock X. was another one and one-half lengths back in third place.

Duck Hunters Slow to Take Law Seriously

BY BOB BECKER.

Reports from wardens who spent their time in the Illinois river valley and other duck hunting areas during the 1935 waterfowl season indicate that a number of duck shooters must have thought the federal regulations governing the hunting of ducks were put on the books just to scare people and not to be enforced.

Of course the regulations this fall were numerous and in some respects complicated—especially the one having to do with legal blinds. Therefore hunters who didn't want to do wrong found they had committed slight technical violations without knowing it. But this does not explain how wardens rowed into marshes [in Illinois] and found hunters with as high as 27 birds in their blind, whereas the daily bag limit as well as possession limit was just ten ducks. Then the wardens would pay a surprise visit to a shooting spot and find hunters calmly sitting on a pond where many bushels of corn had been dumped.

Details of Law Are Vague.

Just how far away you had to be from a feeding spot when you started to shoot at ducks never was outlined to the satisfaction of the duck hunting army. The sportsman wanted to know whether he should be 100 yards, 250 yards or any other distance. But the law did state that one could not hunt right over a feeding area, so there was no out at all for shooters who slid into blinds where feeding operations were going on.

Middle western hunters who go to South Dakota for pheasant may feel that they are out in the real west where hunting is more open and "free," but South Dakota doesn't let one kill 106 pheasants and load them in a car. Not if a warden knows it.

Shoot 106 Pheasants.

Two Illinois hunters caught with 106 pheasants in their car and just ready to start for home [from a South Dakota town so small that we never heard of it] were brought into court and fined $107.05 each. Lacking that they spent one night in jail, all of which would indicate that although South Dakota has lots of pheasants there is such a thing as overdoing the hunting game when one is visiting in another state. As one South Dakota sportsman has written about the above violation: "This is why some residents of the state object to outside hunters."

RISKO, M'AVOY BATTLE TONIGHT; CROWN IS SAFE

Briton Is Favorite Over World Champion.

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Two champions meet in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, but no title will be at stake.

Jock McAvoy, holder of the British light heavyweight and middleweight crowns, and Babe Risko, the world's middleweight king, swap punches in the featured ten round bout. McAvoy has agreed to come in over the 160 pound class limit, so Risko's crown will be safe.

The fight will furnish McAvoy an opportunity to get a crack either at Risko's title or John Henry Lewis' light heavyweight crown. Neither title is out of the Englishman's reach on the basis of the fine showing he made against Al McCoy, Boston 175-pounder, in his American debut three weeks ago.

Risko Has Ambitions, Too.

Risko, who acquired his title only three months ago, when he outpointed Teddy Yarosz, and since has won three nontitle events, also would like a chance at Lewis' championship. Jimmy Johnston, Garden promoter, plans to stage one or both of the championship bouts the latter part of January or early in February.

McAvoy, hailed as the greatest fighter to come out of England in recent years, showed plenty of speed and punching ability in stopping McCoy's string of victories. As the result of his fine exhibition the Briton has been made the 6 to 5 choice to whip Risko. He was on the short end of 5 to 2 odds against McCoy.

Harvey Meets Fantani.

Supporting the main event will be three eight rounders, one six, and a four. Frankie Connelly, Boston heavyweight, is paired with James J. Merriott of Oklahoma in one of the eight round bouts. In the other two John Anderson, Swedish light heavyweight, battles Bud Mignault, New England 175 pounder, and Solly Krieger, New York, meets Jack Ennis, Asbury Park, N. J.

12 BANKS WILL PAY $1,200,000 TO DEPOSITORS

95,000 Depositors to Get Checks.

Repayment of more than $1,200,000 to 95,000 depositors of 12 closed banks was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, raising to $2,145,000 the amount of Christmas cheer distributed this month from the long frozen banks. In all, more than 176,000 depositors of 24 institutions will have shares in the disbursements. William L. O'Connell is receiver for all of this group.

Five banks whose payments will amount to more than $100,000 each are Chicago Bank of Commerce, Noel State bank, South-West Trust and Savings bank, Reliance Bank and Trust company, and West Town State bank.

Seven Others Pay.

Others making distributions are the Binga State bank, Columbia State bank, Chatfield Trust and Savings bank, Italian Trust and Savings bank, Marquette State bank, Millard State bank, and Second Humboldt State bank.

In addition to these 12 banks, the Belmont-Sheffield Trust and Savings bank mailed checks last night for 52½ per cent, or $112,527, to complete full payment of depositors. This payment was authorized last week.

Checks were put in the mail last night for all of the 12 other banks' depositors except the Chatfield Trust and Savings bank, whose checks for a 12½ per cent return of $31,800 will be available tomorrow at the South East National bank. Total return of the Chatfield then will be 42½ per cent.

Bain Depositors Missed.

Depositors in the former Bain chain again will be disappointed. The receiver's office had expected payments for eight of the group to be ready before Christmas, but the Reconstruction Finance corporation has held up payment on loans authorized several months ago.

Six open banks were included in a group of closed banks' payment reports published yesterday. These banks—Algonquin State, State Bank of Kent, Plainfield State, West McHenry State, Elizabeth State, and State of Scales Mound—were opened after the moratorium through the waiver of part of their money by depositors. Some of the waived money has been restored.

Yesterday's payments were:

CHICAGO BANK OF COMMERCE—5 per cent or $244,656 to 10,600 depositors for total return of 15 per cent. Also has paid $85,493 preferred claims and $673,152 on bills contracted before the bank closed.

NOEL STATE—5 per cent or $176,405 for total of 15 per cent return to 15,500 depositors. Also paid $511,886 preferred claims and $565,594 old bills.

SOUTH-WEST TRUST AND SAVINGS—10 per cent or $165,085 for 50 per cent total return to 10,000 depositors. Also paid $745,719 preferred claims and $340,500 old bills.

RELIANCE BANK AND TRUST COMPANY—5 per cent or $116,873 for total of 10 per cent returned to 7,910 depositors. Also paid $276,072 preferred claims and $1,315,593 old bills.

WEST TOWN STATE—5 per cent or $138,906 for total of 45 per cent returned to 13,400 depositors. Also paid $181,845 preferred claims and $503,331 old bills.

COLUMBIA STATE—7½ per cent or $95,556 for total of 80 per cent returned to 14,000 depositors. Also paid $35,127 preferred claims and $38,140 old bills.

ITALIAN TRUST AND SAVINGS—10 per cent or $65,584 for total of 20 per cent to 3,400 depositors. Half of current payment is from ordinary liquidation and half from stock liability payments. Also paid $37,584 preferred claims and $297,681 old bills.

BINGA STATE—5 per cent or $59,653 for total of 17½ per cent to 5,200 depositors. Of current distribution, ⅝ of 1 per cent is from stock liability payments and the rest from ordinary liquidation. Also paid $27,047 preferred claims and $50,000 old bills.

MARQUETTE PARK STATE—5 per cent or $48,855 for total of 22½ per cent to 6,550 depositors. Also paid $48,065 preferred claims and $58,334 old bills.

MILLARD STATE—5 per cent or $36,759 for total of 40 per cent to 3,300 depositors. Also paid $16,991 preferred claims and $80,000 old bills.

SECOND HUMBOLDT STATE—5 per cent or $21,532 for total of 25 per cent to 2,723 depositors. Also paid $66,833 preferred claims and $90,000 old bills.

OIL FIRM ADDS PENSION PLAN TO FEDERAL SYSTEM

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Standard Oil of New Jersey, with 50,000 employés in the United States, will put into effect within the next few weeks a new thrift plan through which its employés will be able to supplement federal old age payments, according to an announcement by the company. This is one of the first industrial concerns to work out a new pension plan taking into consideration the enactment of the social security act at the last session of congress.

Under the new plan, employés desiring to participate may deposit from 3 to 13 per cent of their current earnings. On the first 3 per cent the company will match contributions from employé dollar for dollar, while on any amounts up to the next 10 per cent the company will deposit 50 cents for every dollar subscribed by employés.

Business Reaches Highest Peak Since August of 1930

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A further improvement in the heavy industries last month carried business activity to the highest level since August, 1930, and above the speculative peak of 1933, according to the monthly business index of the Annalist. The index now stands at 90.3 per cent [preliminary] of estimated normal, compared with 87.4 in October and 83.6 in September.

Franc Breaks; Engage More Gold for U. S.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The French franc, which on Wednesday had advanced above par for the first time in about four months, today plunged once more to a level at which gold imports from Paris may be resumed.

The decline, which was based upon fears of a government upset following the resignation of Edouard Herriot from the Laval cabinet, carried the franc down to 6.59¼ cents and left it at 6.59⅝ cents, off 3¾ points. At this price the dollar was worth $1.0060 against francs, compared with $1.0005 yesterday.

Franc Lower in Paris.

The franc declined even farther in Paris than in London and New York, reaching a low of 6.5897 at one time in the French capital, but improved to close at 6.595 cents.

As a result of the slump in the franc tentative arrangements were being made for resumption of gold shipments to this country after a short interruption. In the week ended Dec. 12 the Bank of France gained 6,000,000 francs in gold stocks, while the franc remained above the gold export level.

Reports from Paris were to the effect that today's turn in the political situation brought a postponement in the decision to cut the French discount rate from 6 per cent, the reduction having been scheduled for today.

Other Gold Currencies Drop.

Other gold bloc currencies were swept down with the franc. The guilder dropped to 67.73 cents, off 13 points, the Swiss franc was off 15 points to 32.41 cents and the belga lost 1½ points to 16.84½ cents. The pound sterling was unchanged at $4.93 and currencies in the sterling group were steady.

Gold imports received today here were $1,424,100 from England and $240,900 from Holland. For the week ended on Wednesday imports totaled $22,144,000, including $12,240,000 came from France, $5,380,000 from India, $2,832,000 from Canada and $1,268,000 from England. At San Francisco $1,215,000 gold from Australia and $190,000 from China were received.

EXPLAIN $55,000 FEE SOUGHT FOR 208 LA SALLE ST.

Explanations of the request for $55,000 for Newton P. Frye and Aaron Colnon, reorganization managers, in connection with the reorganization of 208 South La Salle Street building corporation, were volunteered yesterday after publication of court records showing total requests for $250,000 for fees and expenses.

Colnon and Frye agreed that the court record needed clarifying. Colnon, president of the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company, said his share of any money to be paid would be exactly $24.50 for his actual out of pocket expense. He said that he and Frye at the outset had agreed to ask no fees because of "odors" attaching to some fee requests in real estate reorganizations in recent years.

Frye explained that the matter had taken much longer than expected—14 months—and this changed matters. His fee, however, accounts for just $25,000 of the $55,000 request, he said. The remainder is for expenses incurred in using facilities of the Central Republic company and to pay 220 dealers $5 for each $1,000 bond signed up for the reorganization plan. The latter amounts to $26,000.

DEMANDS REPEAL OF UTILITIES ACT TO AID BUSINESS

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, a utility holding company, demanded today the repeal of the public utility act of 1935 as a means of restoring business confidence and reviving the durable goods industries.

Speaking before the Bond club of New York, Willkie declared "tens of thousands of men in the heavy goods industries are praying for employment and economic freedom. Tens of thousands of men can be put back to work in utility construction if sanity will but prevail and the present bill be amended at the next session of congress.

"Surely, the haters have occupied the stage long enough. Venom and calumny have had their full day. Let us give a little time to constructive effort so that work—not debate—can be applied to this problem."

Canadian Exports to Italy Drop 75 Per Cent

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Canada's exports to Italy in November showed a sharp drop, compared with a year ago and a month ago, due to the economic sanctions imposed by the league of nations. Total exports in November were valued at $142,000, compared with $616,000 in November last year, and $647,234 in October of this year. Nickel was the chief commodity bought in October. Exports in November from Canada to all countries were valued at $84,114,990, compared with $85,124,512 in the same month last year.

Ohio Utility Will Spend $3,000,000 on Expansion

Dayton, O., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Dayton Power and Light company, a subsidiary of the Columbia Gas and Electric company, announced today a $3,000,000 expansion program for the Miller's Ford plant near here.

3,459 Cars Are Sold by Buick in 10 Days

During the first ten days of December Buick Motor company sold 3,459 cars at retail, establishing a record for this period of the year. The previous peak was 3,395 cars delivered in the first ten days of December, 1926.

DIVIDEND FLOW INCREASES; RATE BOOSTS VOTED

U. S. Smelting Pays $5 a Share.

National interest centered yesterday on the increased dividend voted by United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company in view of the current silver disturbance and because the company was among those benefiting from the federal silver program. Also of national interest, and local particularly, was the extra of 25 cents voted by Swift & Co.

Earns $9.73 a Share.

Consolidated net earnings of U. S. Smelting for the first eleven months were estimated at $6,649,898 or $9.73 a common share, compared with $5,711,746 or $7.96 a share in the corresponding months of last year. Other mining companies connected with silver production also voted favorable dividends recently.

The Swift dividend of 25 cents is the second extra dividend voted by the company in the last three months. The company paid a special of 25 cents on Nov. 2 and at the same time doubled the rate on the stock to $1 a year, effective Jan. 2. Yesterday's extra will be distributed on Feb. 15 to stock of record Jan. 27.

The directors took their action, the company's announcement said, after they had received final audited reports on results for the fiscal year which ended Oct. 26. The company showed a net profit for the period of $8,767,302, after provision of $6,000,000 for inventory reserve, as compared with net earnings of $6,131,579 in 1934. The earnings were equal to $1.45 a share as compared with $1.02 a share in the preceding year.

Best Year in Seven.

The company's annual report, released at the beginning of the week, showed the best profits for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 in the last seven years and within $50,000 of earnings for 1928, one of the boom years. Sales volume in dollars was the largest since 1930.

Directors of the Personal Loan and Savings bank declared an extra of 50 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1, payable Jan. 2. Total payments on the stock during 1935 were $5, including $3 in quarterly disbursements and $2 in extras.

Other favorable dividend actions yesterday included an extra of 25 cents a share on the common stock of E. J. Brach & Sons; MacAndrews and Forbes, Inc., declared an extra of 50 cents on the common; Shasta Water company voted an extra of 40 cents and the Norwich Pharmacal company an extra of 25 cents on the common stock.

HOPSON TOLD HE MUST PAY U. S. $1,521,604 TAX

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The federal government and New York state are investigating the income tax returns of Howard C. Hopson, head of the Associated Gas and Electric system, it developed today.

Mark Graves, New York state tax commissioner, revealed the state's interest in Hopson's income after an associate on the tax commission had drawn his attention to the federal government's action in Newark, N. J. Charles V. Duffy Jr., acting commissioner of internal revenue there, notified Hopson that he must pay $1,521,604 personal income taxes in arrears.

Graves said that he was not ready to reveal the state's possible course of action. He described the checkup as a routine investigation, started when the returns were filed and before affairs of the Associated came under congressional scrutiny.

The commissioner said the investigation followed an examination of Hopson's returns for 1933. Two investigators have been working on the case intermittently and are preparing a report, Graves said.

52 Millions Is Added to Gold Stock at Denver

Denver, Col., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The United States government's gold reserve in the Denver mint was increased by 52 million dollars during 1935. This year's gold receipts here received from thirteen states and territories and several foreign countries established a thirty year record for the Denver mint. Included in the receipts was $6,799,129 from Colorado mines. The Homestake mine in South Dakota contributed the largest amount, $19,891,000.

Congress Hotel Hearing Is Continued to Jan. 6

The hearing on the reorganization of Congress hotel under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act, scheduled yesterday before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, was continued to Jan. 6. Attorney Paul M. Godehn, representing the hotel, said there still is a possibility of obtaining a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan to pay back taxes and for remodeling and working capital. Such a loan was refused once before.

WAY PAVED FOR U. S. TO TAKE CONTROL OF DENVER & RIO GRANDE

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 19.—(AP)—An opinion by U. S. Circuit Judge Charles B. Faris cleared the way today for the government, if it chooses, to take over the Denver and Rio Grande railroad.

Judge Faris' decision dissolved a voting trust agreement through which the Missouri Pacific Railroad company and the Western Pacific Railroad company each voted one-half of the Denver and Rio Grande's 300,000 shares and had joint control of it.

This left power of administration at the discretion of the government as the Missouri Pacific pledged its 150,000 shares of the stock to the Railroad Credit corporation for a loan and the Western Pacific pledged its 150,000 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Both loans are unpaid.

TREND OF TAXES DOWNWARD IN 249 U. S. CITIES

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—A reduction in the tax rate and the adjusted tax rate of 249 cities of United States and Canada, as compared with a year ago, is shown in the fourteenth annual compilation by C. E. Rightor of the municipal service department of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. The unweighted average total rate was $34.96 in 1934 and $34.43 in 1935, per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The 233 comparable cities in the United States are down 53 cents to $34.55, and the 16 Canadian cities are down 55 cents to $32.74. This reverses the trend reported a year ago.

Rightor's analysis shows that of the 233 cities in the United States, 116 reduced assessments, 46 increased assessments, and 71 reported no change.

Rates per $1,000 of assessed valuation in principal cities are: New York, $28.20; Chicago, $71.20; Philadelphia, $26.75; Detroit, $30.02; Los Angeles, $44; Cleveland, $29.90; St. Louis, Mo., $27.40; Baltimore, Md., $25.50; Boston, Mass., $37; Pittsburgh, $33.87; San Francisco, $36.82; Milwaukee, $32.90, and Buffalo, N. Y., $28.60.

NEW TRADE PACT MADE AS ANOTHER DRAWS PROTEST

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The state department today announced that a new reciprocal trade pact would be signed tomorrow with The Netherlands. The agreement will be the ninth negotiated by the New Deal under the reciprocal tarif law of 1934.

As the state department went ahead with its trade program, Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, called at the White House to ask President Roosevelt to consider modifications in the lumber provisions of the Canadian agreement. McNary carried protests from the Pacific northwest against the lumber provisions and asked the President to study modifications he had already suggested to Secretary Hull.

One of the suggestions, McNary said, was that the lumber quota of 250,000,000 board feet per year be allocated on monthly basis to prevent imports from flooding in from Canada all at once and demoralizing the domestic market.

Sears' Mail Order Trade Volume Sets New Mark

Sears, Roebuck & Co. mail order division set a record on Monday for the number of orders received, Gen. R. E. Wood, president, disclosed yesterday. The dollar volume was less than the preceding high mark, set in 1929, because of the fact that the average order was slightly under the 1929 amount. Gen. Wood said business in the current four week period, which began Dec. 4, is showing about the same percentage of increase over a year ago as did the preceding four weeks when the improvement was 23 per cent.

Trade Gains Boost Money Circulation

The seasonal expansion last week in holiday trade resulted in a sharp increase in the volume of money in circulation, according to the weekly statement of the federal reserve system, released yesterday. An additional 61 millions in currency was outstanding, the figures showed. The total circulation of money is now 5,903 millions.

The statement of the system covers the week ended Wednesday. During the period heavy payments were made into the federal treasury in income taxes. Treasury balances also were swelled by payments made in connection with the Dec. 15 refunding and the floatation of 900 millions of new government securities.

Reserves Are Contracted.

The result of these payments was to bring about a sharp contraction in the reserves of the banks belonging to the reserve system. Such balances dropped 603 million dollars and the treasury balances with the reserve banks increased a corresponding amount.

The drop in total bank reserves was reflected to a comparable reduction in the "excess" reserves which were approximately 600 millions below the level of the preceding week.

The inflow of foreign gold continued with further receipts of 30 millions. These imports boosted the total monetary gold stocks of the country to a new peak figure of 10,098 millions.

Brokers' Loans Down.

The report of the member banks in New York and Chicago showed only small changes as compared with the preceding. Brokers loans in New York were 5 millions down from the preceding week, while the collateral loans of Chicago expanded 1 million.

The New York banks bought 136 millions of the new securities offered by the government and the Chicago banks purchased 43 millions. Other investments of the New York banks were reduced 28 millions, but showed only a trifling change in Chicago.

Commercial loans of the Chicago banks were 7 millions higher. The New York banks reduced such loans by 5 millions.

$55,555,000 WILL BE SPENT IN '36 BY SO. PACIFIC

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific Railroad company will spend $55,555,000 for maintenance and equipment in 1936, Hale Holden, chairman, anounced today. This is an increase of $5,400,000 over 1935.

"The budget does not include additions and betterments to our properties," Holden said. "In connection with our budget, the expenditures for capital account will be $13,180,000, an increase of $6,464,000 over 1935.

"We have called for bids for approximately 40,769 gross tons of new rails with the necessary fastenings, making a total of about 50,000 tons. In 1936, we are planning to lay 220 miles of new rails while in 1935 we laid about 143."

NICKEL PLATE'S INCOME SHOWS LARGE INCREASE

The New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad [Nickel Plate] yesterday reported the largest net operating income for November since 1928. The road's net income after all charges also showed a sharp improvement over last year, when a loss was recorded.

Net operating income for November at $620,611 was more than twice the $270,874 of a year ago and nearly 5 per cent above the $591,208 for November, 1929. Net income after all charges amounted to $159,252, compared with a deficit of $195,717 in November, 1934. Gross revenues were $2,915,718, compared with $2,515,925.

ILLINOIS HIGH COURT UPHOLDS ASSESSING BANK STOCKHOLDERS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—In a decision written by Justice Paul Farthing and concurred in by Justices Clyde E. Stone, Normal L. Jones, and Francis S. Wilson, the Illinois Supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the state banking act provisions pertaining to assessment of stockholders.

The opinion was in a case appealed from the Circuit court of Kankakee county by stockholders of the American Trust and Savings bank. They were defendants in a lower court suit brought by creditors, who asked an assessment against 173 stockholders. The lower court ordered the assessment, overruling the contention of the defendants that before such as assessment could be made the master in chancery must require creditor claims to be proved.

"This proof," the court said, "can be made otherwise. The books of the bank and its papers should show what it owes each creditor and when the obligation accrued to him."

The court held unconstitutional the section of the state bank law providing that on checks issued but not collected before the bank on which it was drawn is closed, the receiver shall return the checks. The decision was in the case of Arthur E. Crum, receiver of the First National Bank of Freeport, who was denied a preferred claim against the Union Bank and Trust company's receiver, William L. O'Connell.

WESTERN LINES TO ADOPT FREE TRUCK SERVICE

Following action of the western trunk lines, the southwest railroads yesterday announced free store door pickup and delivery service for Chicago shippers. The action was declared by officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce to be a "concession of far-reaching importance to the commercial interests of Chicago.

"This is a forward step on behalf of the railroads in coördinating motor truck service at the origin and destination territories in connection with road haul transportation," an announcement by the association said.

"The changes proposed are without mileage limit and will follow the tarifs filed by the western trunk line carriers, to become effective Jan. 20. Chicago will be accorded this new service without additional cost embracing all states west of the Illinois-Indiana line to the intermountain region, extending from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico."

The association said it is expected yesterday's announcement will be followed by similar action by the eastern carriers.

WEEK'S BUILDING TOTAL LARGEST IN FOUR YEARS

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Acceleration of public works sent this week's construction volume to $86,817,000, the highest figure since 1931, the Engineering News-Record disclosed today.

Public awards accounted for $81,117,000 of the total and private awards for the remainder of $5,700,000. The public awards consisted of $34,580,000 federal projects and $46,537,000 of state and municipal work.

The largest individual undertaking was the $29,000,000 dam by Tennessee Valley authority forces near Guntersville, Ala.

Experts Can't Agree How to Manage Money

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the federal reserve board, the reserve banks, Morgan interests, Rockefeller interests, and miscellaneous other financial experts issuing conflicting statements about the effect of the inflation of bank deposits and differing in their opinions as to how the danger, if any, of excess bank reserves may be reduced, the public is being given an inkling of the difficulty of substituting brain power for gold as a basis for controling the value of money.

When the New Dealers took the United States off the gold standard in April, 1933, and substituted a "managed" currency system the advocates of "planned" money were loud in their commendations. The public was led to believe that the nation was working toward an ideal system, under which money and credit, instead of being tied to gold, would be arranged according to mathematical formulas by a group of superminds who would constitute a "supreme court of finance."

* *

Presumably such a group of money experts would be selected from those individuals who know most about such things as money and credit. It now develops, however, that the individuals who are supposed to be best informed in these matters do not agree at all. It has become apparent that there is no pat mathematical formula to go by and that a "supreme court of finance" would lead the nation's monetary policies in any one of several directions, depending upon the particular school of thought from which the members were chosen.

"I believe that measures should immediately be taken to reduce these excess reserves, and I believe that the first measure that should be taken is to raise reserve requirements very substantially," said Winthrop W. Aldrich of the Rockefeller controled Chase National Bank of New York in a recent speech in Houston, Tex. "The last billion and a half of the three billions of excess reserves has had no measurable effect. But there it is, spread out, explosive material awaiting the match. It invites a far wilder speculative abuse of credit than that which culminated in 1929."

* *

Now comes S. Parker Gilbert, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., who thinks the opposite.

"The plain fact is that there has been little or no expansion of credit in the last year. Thus, there is no problem of 'injurious credit expansion.' Is there not a danger that by taking restrictive measures . . . the federal authorities . . . would incur the responsibility of checking recovery just as it is well begun and of starting a new period of deflation?"

Federal reserve authorities, headed by Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the reserve board, agree with Mr. Gilbert.

"The board of governors of the federal reserve system and the federal open market committee," states the latest announcement, "are of the opinion that there is at the present time no evidence of overexpansion of business activity or of the use of business credit." These authorities add that idle bank reserves are "far beyond the present or prospective requirements of credit for sound business expansion," but that they will do nothing about them for the present.

* *

Another statutory group, the twelve leading commercial bankers who compose the federal advisory council and whose business it is to counsel the federal reserve board, does not share the equanimity of the reserve board.

"The constant pressure of the very large excess reserves of the member banks creating a plethora of the available supply of bank credit," says the council, "has a very distinct tendency to foster and encourage speculative activity, increase prices and raise the living cost of the population. The council believes . . . that in order to obviate the probability of an undue and dangerous credit inflation it is desirable from every point of view to eliminate or at least greatly reduce the excess reserves now being carried in the system."

Even those who believe that the excess bank reserves—now aggregating nearly 3 billion dollars—should be reduced cannot agree as to how they should be reduced. Mr. Aldrich would do it by increasing the percentage of deposits which the commercial banks are required legally to pledge with the reserve banks. The advisory council, which includes in its membership Mr. Aldrich's contemporary, James H. Perkins, head of the National City bank of New York, says the idle bank funds should be absorbed by selling them some of the government bonds held by the twelve reserve banks.

Week's Bank Clearings Increase $1,125,000,000

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Although bank clearings for the week ended yesterday at 22 leading cities rose to $6,251,978,000, against $5,136,378,000 in the preceding week, the percentage gain over a year ago was reduced from 7.7 to 1.5 per cent during the period, according to figures issued today by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

SILVER CRASHES AS MORGENTHAU TELLS OF BUYING

Treasury's Big Loss Is Increased.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

While Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau was proclaiming in Washington yesterday that the government was sticking to the silver purchasing program, the price of the metal experienced another resounding crash in the leading world markets.

The price fell nearly two cents an ounce in the London market, resulting in a further loss to the American treasury of $13,388,000 on the silver that it has bought in the last two years. The decline of 12 cents an ounce that has occurred in the last nine days has meant a loss to the treasury of $91,413,000 on its silver purchases of the last two years alone.

U. S. Buys Mexican Output.

In reiterating his statement that the treasury is continuing its buying Morgenthau disclosed that it has taken the entire output of Mexican silver during the last year, approximately 71,000,000 ounces. The government is also making substantial purchases of the metal from other Latin American countries, he said.

It is in Mexico and South America that the big American mining interests control large silver properties. Directors of one of these concerns, the United States Smelting and Refining company, yesterday authorized the distribution of a dividend of $5 a share to stockholders, $2 a share more than was paid at this time last year. Earlier this week the American Smelting and Refining company voted to resume dividends to stockholders after a lapse of 4 years.

Laid to Silver Bloc.

The treasury head's insistence that the government silver program will be maintained in the face of the heavy losses which are being incurred was regarded as another tribute to the political strength of the silver bloc in congress. The events of the last ten days indicate that silver will be a live political issue when congress reconvenes after the first of the year.

In his statement yesterday Morgenthau studiously avoided giving any information as to the amount of the silver which the treasury is now buying in London. The action of the market in London, however, showed clearly that the treasury's purchases there, if any, were made on a sharply curtailed basis.

The withdrawal of the heavy American buying has all but ruined the market. Brokers who made a cleanup in speculative profits on the treasury's earlier operations now are unable to fix a price until it is determined how much metal the American government is willing to buy.

London Sets Price.

London brokers yesterday fixed a price of 22 3-16 pence an ounce, equivalent at the current rate of exchange to 49.26 cents in American funds.

In New York the price of foreign silver was marked down 2 cents. Handy & Harmon, bullion brokers, set the price at 49.25 cents an ounce after the decline in London. The silver futures market in Montreal did not decline as sharply as other markets. Closing quotations there were a quarter cent to 1 cent below Wednesday's prices.

Bullion brokers said the United States bought only 6 per cent of the total offerings in the London market and that sales were prorated among traders. The treasury had made no purchases in London on the preceding day and on Monday and Tuesday took only 5 per cent of the silver offered.

Report Bombay Offerings.

A dispatch from Bombay said a United States bank had been buying 1,500,000 ounces of silver daily in the market there recently. Bombay bullion brokers were said to have offered another 1,500,000 ounces directly to the treasury in the last few days, but no information was received as to the attitude of the American government.

Evidence that the leaders of the silver bloc in congress are becoming concerned with the political consequences to themselves through the collapse of the silver scheme was seen yesterday in a statement made by Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.], one of the principal sponsors of the program.

Thomas charged there was a concentrated drive by "foreign and domestic reactionary influences" to drive silver prices down and discredit the goverment's program." He pleaded for support of the government's program. He declared a senatorial silver conference should be held as soon as congress convenes.

STOCKS DECLINE AS VOLUME OF TRADING SHRINKS

Activity Is Concentrated in a Few Issues.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—Activity on the stock exchange today was concentrated in a dozen or so issues, with the aviation and silver groups making the best mass showing. The turnover fell to 1,308,880 shares, the smallest for a full five hour session in weeks.

Professionals again had the floor pretty much to themselves, the rank and file being disposed to do nothing more aggressive than to make such commitments as suggested by tax sale replacements. The result was a rather singsong market throughout, the ticker idling for minutes at a time. An early spell of weakness was overcome around midday, but the afternoon brought further moderate selling, and the close found prices from fractions to a point or so below their previous levels.

News Has Little Influence.

The news was rather colorless and little calculated to influence trading in any department. Secretary Morgenthau's reassurance that the government is continuing to buy silver in producing countries, such as Mexico and Peru, was a bolstering influence to the white metal shares. U. S. Smelting rose a couple of points on its dividend declaration, but improvement of other members of the group was negligible. The foreign situation was virtually ignored.

The swell of trade for retail and department stores was reflected by renewed demand for preferred issues of some of the retail group. Associated Dry Goods and Gimbel issues reached new highs for the year. Associated Dry Goods preferred reached its parity of 100 on a gain of 2 points. It was quoted at this level for the first time since 1930. The shares sold as low as 12½ in 1932.

Radio Is Less Active.

Among the individual spotlight performers, Radio was less active, but after a poor start it picked up to around its best levels of yesterday. Sparks-Withington and Evans Products made good gains in entering new high ground.

Celanese, Industrial Rayon, Gotham Hosiery, and Real Silk made demonstrations. Ludlum Steel common and preferred rose sharply. Douglas Aircraft and United Aircraft were active at moderate advances.

Shares off fractions to more than a point included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Allied Chemical, American Can, and General Motors. Stocks which picked up fractions were Chrysler and Westinghouse.

Lord & Thomas to Direct Delco-Heat Advertising

Lord & Thomas were appointed advertising agents for the Delco-Heat division of Delco Appliance corporation, according to an announcement by the corporation yesterday. The account will be handled through the Lord & Thomas office in New York.

UTILITIES URGE TEST OF LAW IN ONLY TWO SUITS

But Cummings Wants One Case to Decide Issue.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A formal proposal by seven public utility companies for "two suits" to test the disputed holding company act today found Attorney General Cummings reiterating his objections to all but one.

The utilities, in a brief filed in the District of Columbia Supreme court, offered to consolidate their separate suits. The government has asked that action on them be stayed pending a decision on the constitutionality of the act by the United States Supreme court in a case brought by the securities and exchange commission against the Electric Bond and Share company, in New York.

The brief cited the attorney general's announced intention to ask dismissal of more than forty other suits brought by utilities in courts outside the capital on the ground that Washington officials cannot be sued except in the local courts.

Argue Two Suits Enough.

"Surely, two suits," the brief added, "one of the government's choosing brought in New York, and one brought by certain of the plaintifs in this court, each presenting a different situation to which this act applies, are not a multiplicity of suits and do not threaten the prostration of the government departments."

Shortly before the brief was filed, however, Cummings told reporters at a press conference that the government will insist upon limiting the holding company test to the Electric Bond and Share case.

The utilities' brief contended that the controverted law was "drafted ingeniously to paralyze the plaintif if they do not register, and to quarter them if they do."

Utilities Seek Broad Test.

The seven utilities argued that their cases involved constitutional questions which would not be decided in the case singled out by the government for the Supreme court test. While Electric Bond is a "management" company they contended their firms are strictly "holding" companies—without control over operations, management or investments of subsidiaries.

The government has until Monday to reply to the brief. Justice Jennings Bailey then will rule on the government's motion for the stays.

The seven companies involved are United Light and Power, United Light and Railway, Continental Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction, Tennessee Electric Power, North American, and American Water Works and Electric.

COAL PRODUCERS HAVE ONE WEEK TO FIX PRICES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The bituminous coal commission tonight directed Appalachian producers to fix minimum coal prices by next Friday.

Alarmed by a collapsing market, the commission warned the producers that their price schedules would be fixed by the government if they delayed longer.

"Price demoralization in the industry at the present time constitutes a positive menace to the wage structure," Lewis said. "Ruthless competition exists between the different groups of producers, and coal is being sold from 75 cents to $1 a ton less than the cost of production."

Operators' sentiment was divided. Some were said to feel that establishment of minimum prices might not be advisable in view of the current market situation.

The commission called a hearing here for Dec. 27 to determine "the propriety of immediately establishing minimum prices to carry out the purposes of the Guffey act" and to determine "such schedules of minimum prices as are necessary to carry out the purposes of said act."

Oscar Mayer Raps Rule of Industry by U. S.

Oscar Mayer, head of the packing company bearing his name, declared yesterday that supervision of any industry should come from within the industry rather than be imposed by governmental agencies. He spoke at a meeting of the Business Secretaries forum in Hotel Sherman. Each business should have a simple code of only four or five fundamental principles, he asserted.

Philippines Will Redeem Rail Bonds at Discount

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The national assembly approved today an appropriation of $6,750,000 to redeem bonds of the government owned Manila railroads. The Londoners who hold the 4 per cent debentures recently offered a 20 per cent discount for redemption by Jan. 31, 1936, instead of at maturity in 1939.

RAILS EXPECT BEST HOLIDAY TRAFIC SINCE '29

Estimates Run 10 to 50% Above Year Ago.

With estimates indicating improvement in travel of 10 to 50 per cent over a year ago, railroads are anticipating the best holiday trafic since 1929, a canvass of Chicago roads disclosed yesterday.

The upsurge in business has been felt for nearly a week in mail and express volume which has necessitated operation of extra cars and trains. This is taken as an indication of a heavier buying of gifts and revival of the Christmas card custom which has languished in the last few years.

While most roads were content to estimate passenger travel, based on early reservations, at 15 per cent over a year ago, the Pennsylvania is expecting a 50 per cent rise, which would result in the best Christmas business since 1929.

Run Extra Sections.

It has been running extra sections, principally for mail and express business, since Dec. 10. It's Thanksgiving travel this year was almost 50 per cent better than a year ago.

Western roads already have put special holiday rates in effect. The cut rate round trip tickets will be sold to Jan. 1 with a return limit to Jan. 31. This is the longest period in which such fares have been effective. Eastern rates do not become effective until Friday, and have a Jan. 10 limit.

Western road rates are 2 cents a mile first class and 1.8 cents a mile in coaches for round trips. Eastern rates are 1 1-3 times one way fares of 3 cents a mile for first class and 1 1-9 times one way for coaches. Pullman fares are 1½ times one way.

Four Trains Added.

The Milwaukee road has added four trains to the Minnesota Twin cities for mail and express, with extra cars on other trains. Its passenger trafic is expected to be one-third more than a year ago. Along with the North Western and Burlington it is expecting record trafic on the fast run between here and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The Burlington, beginning today, will doube its passenger capacity on trains making the Chicago-Twin City run in 6½ hours.

The Illinois Central's Christmas mail and express special went into operation Tuesday with a 12 car load. Both the Illinois Central and the Baltimore and Ohio are preparing for a 15 per cent larger passenger volume than a year ago.

Mail and Express Heavy.

The New York Central reported mail and express receipts at La Salle street station the heaviest in years, up 17 per cent to date over the same time in the Christmas season a year ago. Passenger travel is expected to run "at least 20 per cent above 1934." Double sections are being run now on many trains.

The Santa Fe is expecting a 15 to 20 per cent gain over a year ago, with transcontinental business already at a fast pace. Extra cars have been run for days, with the Chief operating in extra sections.

The C. & E. I., Rock Island, and Alton all have made preparations for 10 to 20 per cent increases in travel.

The North Western's crack "400" and most of its other trains are being set up for double section runs, beginning today. Extra cars are being scheduled every day on California trains.

Emil Schram, RFC Division Chief, Named EHFA Head

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Emil Schram, chief of the Reconstruction Finance corporation drainage, levee and irrigation division, was elected president of the Electric Home and Farm authority today. Before his appointment to head the RFC division, in June of 1923 Schram was in the grain business at Hillsview, near Springfield, Ill. Schram will succeed Morris L. Cooke, who resigned a month ago. G. B. Coit, chairman of the RFC industrial loan review committee, was elected vice president of the EHFA.

FOREST DISTRICT TO SELL BONDS, THEN DEFAULT

Maturity Is Five Days; Avoids Cancellation.

Due to an odd set of circumstances the Forest Preserve district plans to sell $470,000 of its bonds just five days before the obligations will go into default.

Commissioners of the district yesterday voted to advertise for bids on the unissued portion of series A improvement bonds bearing 4 per cent and maturing Jan. 1, 1936. Bids will be taken to 10 a. m. Dec. 27. Bond men attending the meeting were amused by the fact that funds would not be available to take up the issue when it matures five days later, but indicated dealers would be interested in bidding on the bonds.

Seek to Avoid Cancellation.

Forest preserve officials explained that if the bonds are not sold before the maturity date they must be cancelled. Proceeds from the bonds are needed for construction purposes, it was stated. The district plans refinancing of its entire debt, and under the present proposal the $470,000 improvement bonds, along with other defaulted obligations, would be retired from the proceeds of the sale of a new refunding issue.

It was announced that funds in the amount of $272,620 are now available for payment of all except $13,500 of past due interest coupons on forest preserve bonds.

Approve Refunding Plan.

The same commissioners, sitting later as the county board, adopted a new bond refunding ordinance paving the way for a comprehensive refunding of the county's $47,291,910 bonded debt. The ordinance provides for issuance of $35,781,000 series A refunding bonds to be exchanged for a like amount of bonds maturing after June 2, 1936, and $11,510,910 series B bonds to be sold to pay off past due obligations.

The new ordinance calls for an annual levy of $4,500,000 over the twenty year life of the new debt. It was necessary to pass the ordinance before the close of 1935 in order to permit a reduction in the $6,700,000 bond and interest levy for that year if a refunding plan is effected. Banks and dealers will be invited to submit bids for carrying out the refinancing plan.

ALL LIVE STOCK PRICES RISE AS RECEIPTS DROP

Prospects of continued light receipts of live stock until after the holidays and the possibility of the snowstorm around Chicago hindering the movement to market for the remainder of this week helped to revive packer demand further yesterday. All species advanced, most kinds selling well above the low spots earlier in the week.

Hogs receipts dropped to 14,000, the smallest Thursday total since the middle of October, and prices advanced 10 to 20 cents. After the bulk of the best grades of hogs had changed hands at the advance there was a setback on others, which finished about in line with the average of Wednesday.

The cattle run at 5,000 was smallest for Thursday in eight weeks. Best grades were extremely scarce and sold quickly at mostly 25 cents higher prices, practically all stock over $12 sharing in this advance. Others ruled steady to 25 cents higher.

Lambs sold freely at steady to 10 cent higher prices, packers and shippers getting the bulk of the best grades at $11 to $11.25. Natives topped at $11.40.

WHEAT FIRMER; TRADING ENTERS HOLIDAY QUIET

Exports of Canada Grain Continue Large.

Pre-holiday dullness prevailed in the grain markets yesterday, the greater part of the day's activity in wheat coming in the last few minutes of the session. Buying by houses with eastern connections disclosed a lack of pressure and with firmness in Winnipeg the price advanced around one cent from the early low and closed at the top. Net gains were around ½ cent.

There was no apparent letup in the foreign demand for Canadian wheat from Europe and sales were finally estimated around 1,000,000 bushels. Removal of hedges against this grain lifted the Winnipeg market about ½ cent. The Canadian market has made a relatively poor response to the large sales abroad lately and at the close yesterday the December delivery was 86¼ cents, the same price as a week ago.

Change in Winnipeg Trading.

A minor change in the policy of the Canadian wheat board was reported yesterday. In the future, it was said, the board will not give exporters their hedges on overnight sales of wheat abroad, but will sell them the futures in the pit. This is expected to result in a material expansion in pit trading.

Changing operations between December and May wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade were on a reduced scale yesterday with the December delivery offered the greater part of the day at 3 cents premium over the May option, while buyers were willing to pay 2¾ cents over, which was the changing figure at the close. There was an open interest of 7,554,000 bushels in December wheat at the close of business Wednesday, which will have to be evened up by Dec. 27.

Comparative Figures.

Closing prices yesterday in principal May futures here, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$0.99⅛	$0.98½	$0.95⅜
Corn	.59⅞	.59½	.59⅜
Oats	.27⅞	.27⅝	.26⅜
Rye	.52⅜	.52¼	.50⅞

The corn, oats, and rye markets were dull yesterday with speculative interest at a minimum and fluctuations in prices confined to small fractions. Corn and oats were slightly firmer. The shipping demand for corn was extremely small, with no sales reported by local handlers, and no grain was reported to have been bought to arrive from the country.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—Except for sharp breaks in Italian issues the bond market was sluggish today, the disrupted European situation being reflected in curtailed activities. Transfers of $11,946,000, par value, were the smallest for a full 5 hour session since Nov. 13, and compared with $13,182,000 the day before.

The recession in the Italian shares was most pronounced in the Italian government 7s of 1951, which dropped almost 6 points. Milan 6½s gave up 4 points and Rome 6½s lost almost 5. Other foreign bonds eased in sympathy.

Federal Issues Active.

United States government bonds budded out into something resembling a full fashioned revival of investment interest. The turnover of $1,600,000 was the largest in the federal section in 10 days and the gains of 3-32ds to 5-32ds were the best in around a month. Reasons for the sudden activity varied from rumors of increased foreign participation to active resumption of institutional buying.

The scanty trading in Home Owners' Loan and Federal Farm Mortgage bonds is held to reflect their readier acceptance for investment, also the fact that the emission of additional bonds has been slowed down considerably.

Corporation Bonds Dull.

Domestic corporation bonds were somewhat neglected and price changes, with the exception of a few loans that moved independently, were narrow and unimportant. American Type Founders 6 per cent certificates slid off another 5 points, Paramount 6s lost 1½, and Hudson and Manhattan income 5s dropped 1¾ points. Advances in a few rail and utility bonds formed the firmest spots in the opposite camp. Laclede Gas 5½s was 2 points higher, Goodrich 6s improved ¾, Great Northern 4½s advanced ¾, and Nickel Plate 5½s were ¾ higher.

North American Car.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me data on North American Car? Thank you in advance. Prepaid addressed envelope enclosed.—B. C. J.

Answer: The main business of North American Car corporation is the leasing of tank, refrigerator, and live poultry cars to railroads, meat packers, poultry shippers, and other shippers of perishable and liquid freight. The company has facilities for repairing its own cars and has built up a substantial repair business with railroads.

Earnings in the first nine months of 1935 were adversely affected by lower poultry shipments. The prospects are that this situation will right itself after the first of the year, according to N. L. Howard, president. The company lost $25,000 in the third quarter of 1935. This brought the loss for the first nine months to $56,000, against net income of $104,000, which was 82 per cent of preferred dividend requirements, for the corresponding 1934 period.

	Gross revenues.	Net income.	Inc. per com. sh.
1934	$3,204,000	$260,000	$ .62
1933	3,152,000	220,000	.34
1932	3,250,000	251,000	.51
1931	3,826,000	555,000	2.47

Funded debt during 1934 was reduced $579,000. It totaled $5,414,000. Excess of current liabilities over current assets was reduced to $868,000 from $958,000 the year before. There are outstanding 28,253 shares of $6 dividend cumulative no par preferred, on which nothing has been paid since Oct. 1, 1931, and 147,429 shares of $20 par common.

The preferred is speculative. The common is purely speculative.

Listed vs. Unlisted.

Investors' Guide: Because a bond issue is not listed on the exchange does that have any effect on the safeness of it? Is it a risk to invest in unlisted securities?—Miss D. E.

Answer: The mere fact that a security is listed or unlisted has no bearing on its investment value, although it might have a bearing on its marketability. As a general rule listed securities have a readier market than unlisted securities.

There are exceptions to this, however. There are certain listed securities which are inactive, and there are unlisted securities [some bank stocks, for instance] that are very active.

SWITCH LARD DELIVERIES; PRICES STEADY TO HIGHER

A good part of the trade in lard yesterday was in selling December and buying May on the part of commission houses, with the result that the current month dropped to a discount under the distant futures for the first time this season. Deliveries of 750,000 pounds of lard were made on December contracts yesterday. Closing trades were unchanged to 10 cents higher.

Cash demand was reported as slow, with cash lard quoted at $11.90, loose $11.25, leaf $11.50, and clear bellies [salt pork] at $18 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

20 MILLION BOND ISSUE OF UTILITY OFFERED TODAY

Southwestern Gas Will Redeem Securities.

Offering of $20,500,000 bonds of the Southwestern Gas and Electric company will be made today by a banking group headed by Brown, Harriman & Co., Inc., Bonbright & Co., Inc., and Field, Glore & Co. Of these securities $16,000,000 are 4 per cent first mortgage bonds, Series D, due Nov. 1, 1960 and are priced at 99½ and accrued interest. The remainder, $4,500,000, are 4 per cent serial debentures, Series A, due Nov. 1, 1936-'45, and they range in price from 101.85 for the 1936-'40 maturities to 92.20 for the 1934 maturity.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds and debentures will be used to redeem $18,977,600 first mortgage bonds, Series A and B [5 per cent] and Series C [6 per cent] and 6,234 shares of 8 per cent preferred stock. It is estimated that these operations, including the premiums, will cost the company a total of $20,319,249.

Controlled by Middle West.

Southwestern Gas is a utility, indirectly controled by Middle West Utilities corporation, which serves northwestern Louisiana, northeastern Texas and southwestern and northwestern Arkansas. Its headquarters are in Shreveport.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago investment house, last November sought to block the sale of these securities on the ground that this financing would jeopardize security it held for a $2,500,000 loan it made to the Middle West Utilities company when it was one of the principal units in the former Insull utility empire.

During the week Halsey, Stuart asked the federal court before which the action was taken to withdraw the intervening position. The investment house explained that the new directors of Middle West desired to proceed with the financing and Halsey, Stuart did not desire to go against the wishes of the directors.

Will Redem 1948 Bonds.

The Rochester Gas and Electric company corporation has called for redemption on March, 1, 1936 $3,952,000 of 25 year general mortgage 5½ per cent gold bonds, Series C, due Sept. 1, 1948. It was announced that the company has sold privately to insurance companies a $4,000,000 issue with a 4 per cent coupon to meet this maturity in addition to $200,000 for rural electric expansion.

Subscription books on the $2,000,000 issue of Carriers and General corporation fifteen year 5 per cent debentures, offered yesterday at 99½, were closed immediately after the opening, Calvin Bullock, representing the underwriting group reported.

C. S. Iverson Becomes Associate of Sincere

REDEMPTION NOTICE TO THE HOLDERS OF The Pennsylvania-Ohio Power & Light Company
First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds, 5½% Series A, Due July 1, 1954

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Ohio Edison Company, successor to The Pennsylvania-Ohio Power & Light Company, has elected to and will redeem on December 30, 1935 all of the outstanding The Pennsylvania-Ohio Power & Light Company First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds 5½% Series A, Due July 1, 1954, pursuant to Article IV of the mortgage, as amended and supplemented, securing the same.

The said bonds are required to be surrendered on or after December 30, 1935, the redemption date, at the principal office of Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Trustee, 140 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York, for redemption at the principal amount thereof and interest accrued thereon to January 1, 1936, together with a premium of 4% of the principal; and said bonds shall cease to bear interest from and after January 1, 1936, and coupons for interest maturing subsequent to that day shall be void.

Upon presentation and surrender of said bonds with (in the case of coupon bonds) all interest coupons maturing January 1, 1936 and subsequently attached and (in the case of registered bonds or of coupon bonds registered as to principal) accompanied by duly executed assignments or transfer powers, such bonds will be paid and redeemed at the said redemption price. Federal Income Tax Ownership Certificates covering the January 1, 1936 interest should accompany all bonds when surrendered for redemption.

Akron, Ohio, November 29, 1935.

OHIO EDISON COMPANY
By T. A. KENNEY, President.

Referring to the above notice of redemption of The Pennsylvania-Ohio Power & Light Company First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds, 5½% Series A, Due July 1, 1954, NOTICE IS ALSO HEREBY GIVEN that any of said bonds with all unmatured coupons attached thereto, presented at the principal office of Guaranty Trust Company of New York, 140 Broadway, New York, N. Y., at any time prior to December 30, 1935, will be purchased at the redemption price of 104% of the principal amount thereof with interest to January 1, 1936 less bank discount from the date of such presentation to December 30, 1935 at the rate of ¼ of 1% per annum.

Akron, Ohio, November 29, 1935.

LA SALLE STREET HOUSES SPREAD HOLIDAY CHEER

Bonus Checks Range Up to 12½ Pct. of Pay.

Hundreds of employés of La Salle street brokerage and investment houses are beginning to receive Christmas dividends of their own—bonuses or extra pay checks. This generally is regarded the best Christmas in five years on La Salle street, and none can be found to deny that there are more bonuses either paid or in the offing than in the last four years. "Dividends" so far in evidence range from a week's extra pay to a check for 12½ per cent of the year's salary.

Personnel Is Increased.

These are in addition to the general increase of 10 per cent in personnel of most of the larger houses in the last four months and a few Thanksgiving bonuses that were distributed along with some pay cut restorations this fall.

Houses doing an underwriting business generally are making more liberal distributions. This was explained in two ways. Because this phase of the business suffered even more than trading, bonuses have been slimmer in recent years. Because of loyalty shown by employés in this period, several houses wished to be particularly liberal with improvement in volume.

Repeat Two Weeks' Bonus.

Paine, Webber & Co. is one of the houses paying two weeks' extra salary, repeating a bonus distributed in November. Paul H. Davis & Co. also paid a "dividend" last month and is planning another shortly.

Harris, Burroughs & Hicks is making a two weeks' pay extra, and Hornblower & Weeks is reported to be acting similarly.

Babcock, Rushton & Co. also is paying a bonus, as are Luster, Carter & Co., Sills, Troxel & Co., and Shearson, Hammill & Co. Harris, Upham & Co. is reported considering a bonus.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Sales of cotton gray goods were light today, but prices continued strong. Finished cottons were in fair demand. Advances of 3 to 5 cents a pound in viscose process rayon yarns were announced by leading producers. Trading in rayon cloths markets was suspended as mills sought to compute the effect of the advances upon fabric costs. Raw silk went down 3 cents and knitters were buying good amounts. Wool goods trading was quiet. Burlap was unchanged and dull.

SILVER FUTURES.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Silver futures closed firm, 25 points higher to 100 points lower. Sales were 26 contracts. Prices in cents per ounce:

Prepare Now for the Big Season Ahead.

BURNHAM'S
(for 64 years the world's largest beauty school)
Will Enable You to EARN MORE

The easy-to-learn Burnham System quickly enables you to become a skilled beauty operator. Plenty of living models. You learn by doing rather than by studying. Each teacher a specialist. Fewer pupils per teacher.

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY MORE GIRLS ENROLL IN BURNHAM'S THAN IN ANY OTHER BEAUTY SCHOOL.

BURNHAM'S AWARDS TRIP TO PARIS to STUDENT. Geneve Huffman, winner of semi-annual Burnham scholarship for efficiency while in training, sailed June 19 on S. S. Manhattan, with all expenses paid. Burnham's offers opportunities not found elsewhere.

DAY OR EVENING CLASSES.

Pay for MOST of your tuition after graduation. It is to your advantage to register now, even if you cannot start until later. Open every day and on Monday, Wednesday, Friday evenings until 9 p. m.
